

Over half a million Taka collected thru' charity drive for cancer research

A generous group of Bangladeshis and Canadians has raised Taka more than half a million through an auction for the Terry Fox Run charity drive for cancer research, a press release said here yesterday, reports BSS.

Held at the Canadian Club yesterday, the auction of some 52 items donated by a cross-section of Bangladeshi businessmen and individuals was participated by an enthusiastic crowd.

"We have met our target which was half a million takas to be raised at this auction," said Munir Ali, of the auction committee which organised the event.

This auction is part of a month-long drive to raise awareness about cancer and generate funds for cancer research in Bangladesh.

Schools, business donors and volunteers are all contributing and participating in the charity drive.

Terry Fox, a young Canadian who was diagnosed with bone cancer when he was only 18 years old, lost his right leg to cancer, and eventually died to the disease only a month before his 23rd birthday.
