Need for self-reliant local govt bodies stressed

Speakers at a roundtable discussion on Thursday strongly pleaded for strong selfgoverned and self-reliant local government bodies to make democracy effective and to expedite decentralised development process, reports BSS.

Participants underlined the need for having permanent lo-cal government bodies on the basis of consensus, to usher in a system of decentralised participatory polity down at the grassroots level. Democracy remains weak in absence the local government bodies. These bodies were more important to the people at the grassroots level than the rule of the central government, the speakers added. A number of participants described the recently-submitted report of the Local Government Commission as progressive and suggested setting up structures of the local government bodies in the light of the proposed report of the commission.

The report, submitted by the commission in May last, suggested establishment of a four tier local government system: Gram Parishad, Union Parishad. Thana or Upazila Parishad and Zila Parishad.

Dr Syed Giasuddin Ahmed of the Department of Public Administration of Dhaka University presented the key-note speech in the roundtable on "Local Government System in Bangladesh: Empowerment, participation and develop-
