Seminar on Asian art begins

Artists urged to reflect own culture, heritage in works

Eminent Syrian artist Prof. Dr. Nabil Razouk yesterday said the Asian artists should be aware of not slipping into extremist modernity, taking into consideration that art in general differs according to the cultural, social, geographical and historical specialities of each region, reports BSS.

"Art also differs according to the dominant philosophy of a particular region," he said adding, "This of course doesn't mean a call for regionalism in art, but rather the stress the fact that art should reflect the Asian culture, civilisation, heritage and history."

Prof. Nabil Razouk, head of the Department of Graphic of the Faculty of Fine Arts, Damascus University, was presenting his paper at a two-day international seminar on "Limits of Modernity: The End-of-the-Century Perceptions of Asian Art" at the National Museum in the city yesterday morning.

Prof. Yamamoto Fumi Hiko of Japan, Ganesh Haloi of India and Farouk Sehata of Egypt presided over three working sessions, participated by foreign and Bangladeshi artists and art critics.

"We are now planning to hold international biennale from the next time under the title 'Dhaka Biennale', she said adding that the Asian artists would form a forum of their own this time to consolidate the bond of friendship and fraternity.
