Anand, Short go ahead

GRONINGEN. Netherlands. Dec 21: Viswanathan Anand of India and Nigel Short of Britain took major strides Saturday towards the semifinals of the FIDE World Chess Championships, with first-leg wins in their two-game mini-matches in the Netherlands, reports AP.

Anand, who has the highest Elo rating of 2765 in this 5 million dollars tourney for the right to challenge FIDE world champ Anatoly Karpov, won in a Ruy Lopez opening against Alexei Shirov, who plays for Spain.

Shirov (2700) resigned on move 42 with Anand about to win a crucial pawn on the h-file and threatening to promote his own h-pawn.

And Pole Michal Karsenkov (2645), conceded defeat on move 45 playing black against Short (2660), with the Englishman having won a central pawn and about to win a bishop.

The remaining two quarterfinal confrontations remained dedlocked.

Belarussian Boris Gelfand (2695) played a Queen's Gambit with white against Russian Alexey Dreev (2640), but agreed a tame draw after 28 moves with rooks and oppositesquared bishops in the endgame.

And Englishman Michael Adams (2680) had to settle for a 52-move draw with Dutchman Loek van Wely (2655), despite finding himself with a queen and pawn to Van Wely's rook and bishop in the endgame.

Van Wely's fighting spirit helped him out of what many watching Grand Masters thought an apparently lost position, and Adams agreed to share the point with repetition of moves an inevitability.

If any of the matches remain tied after the second game Sunday, the Grand Masters involved will return to the Martinihal for rapid-chess tiebreakers Monday.

forward to some solid and inspiring performances while Sri Lanka, undisputed super powers in the abridged form of the game, are well set to ignite the passion of exciting cricket.

Hosts India are going through a rough phase in their cricket after some terrible performances both home and away and were particularly unimpressive in their recent debacle in the Champions' Trophy in Sharjah where they lost all three matches.

Mohammed Azharuddin, India's former captain, was reprimanded for "not giving his best" as sweeping changes were made for the one-day series against Sri Lanka.

Azharuddin was admonished by the selectors when they dropped six players from the squad who took part in the Champions' Trophy tourna-

Those left out are batsmen Rahul Dravid and Vinod Kambli, pacemen Venkatesh Prasad and Abey Kuruvilla, leg-spinner Anil Kumble and wicketkeeper Saba Karim.

They have been replaced by batsman Vangipurappu Laxman, all-rounders Sairaj Bahutule and Hrishikesh Kanitkar, medium-pacers Debashish Mohanty and Harvinder Singh and wicketkeeper Nayan Mongia.

Meanwhile, the omission of the six players has come under severe criticism from former Indian stars.

"I just cannot understand the wavelength of the selectors." said Erapalli Prasanna while reacting to the selection of India team for the first two oneday internationals against Sri Lanka. The great off-spinner of yesterday agreed that a stage had reached in Indian cricket where the selectors should try various combinations. "But why should such experiments be ventured at the cost of young and talented start like Rahul Dravid. His omission is really stunning," he added.

Prasanna was of the opinion that such experiments might have been realistic by "resting" seniors like Mohammed Azharuddin and N S Siddhu. "These two are brilliant players but are in mid-30s. There is nothing wrong in giving them a break'. In modern Indian cricket we must use the word "resting" when it comes to established but ageing players," he said.

B S Chandrasekhar, the legendary leg-spinner, felt that Rahul Dravid and Saba Karim should not have got the axe. "Rahul has established himself at the international arena in a very short span and it is very difficult to digest the decision of omitting him. Saba Karim did not do any wrong to be ignored. Venkatesh Prasad has not done anything disastrous to lose his place. In fact, he was showing appreciable degree of enthusiasm to attain his peak.

Otherwise I think that the selectors' keenness to experiment is worth venturing keeping the coming series against Australia in mind."

Brijesh Patel, former Test cricketer, condemned the musical-chair sort of approach being adopted by the selectors. He said, "The selectors are a confused lot.

Brijesh was furious at the manner in which Rahul Dravid was treated. He said our future lies in men like Rahul Dravid. Most of us even firmly believe that he is the future captain of India. How can they drop a classic player like Rahul? He has been doing exceptionally well in both Tests and one-dayers. This type of treatment would only kill the confidence of a young sportsperson. I wonder how could any young champion gulp this? Anyway we all know that he possesses the ideal mental-make up to take this in his stride and bounce back into his appointed spot in the national team."

G R Visvanath, the former chairman of the National Selection Committee said, something is wrong somewhere." He felt that desired results could never be achieved by being erratic in trying various combinations. "You do not get allrounders, for that matter any specialist, overnight. Replacements during a rebuilding process should be done one-byone and certainly not in one stroke. Above all, enough chances must be given to prospective talent. Such talent should not be coming in and going out of the combination at such a dangerous frequency," he added.

S M H Kirmani, the famous wicket-keeper, said: "This is not a good sign for stability. Frequent changes would only upset the rhythm of the combination as there would be very few in the playing eleven who had gained the much-needed self-confidence. Rahul and Prasad are the worst victims. It is really disappointing to note that the combination has suffered frequent shifting of spots, chopping and crucifying of talent. This would naturally destroy the performance-graph of the
