Taylor's men reach India

BOMBAY, Feb 22: The Australian cricket team arrived here late Saturday for their second Test tour of India in 12 years with captain Mark Taylor vowing to put up a sterling per-formance in the three-Test series, reports AFP. Taylor, 33, told reporters it was a "big challenge" to beat India who have not lost a match on home turf in the past decade.

Taylor said he was pinning a large part of his hopes on champion leg-spinner Shane Warne despite trouble with his bowling shoulder.

"He is an outstanding performer and I am sure the Indian public would love to see him bowl. We missed his experience 18 months ago when we played the one-off Test in Delhi," Taylor said.

Warne, 28, taker of 303 Test wickets, the most by an Australian spinner, missed this month's four limited-over internationals in New Zealand to have treatment on the right shoulder following another gruelling domestic season against New Zealand and South Africa.

Australia have not won a Test in India since Bill Lawry's side triumphed 3-1 in the 1969-70 series.

They have only played one Test in India in the last 12 years - losing the one-off match at Delhi by seven wickets in October 1996.

Australia will be without spearheads Glenn McGrath and Jason Gillespie, leaving experienced seamer Paul Reiffel to head an inexperienced pace at-

Taylor denied McGrath's absence would mean defeat.

"We would love to have had his experience here but unfortunately it is not so, but we are used to missing some key players and still winning in recent

The tourists open their tour with a three-day match against Ranji Trophy champions Mumbai from February 24-26 before going to Vishakapathan to take on the Board President's XI in a three-day match from March 1-3.

The first Test is scheduled at Chennai from March 6.

Emma soars to new heights

AUCKLAND, Feb 22: Australian Emma George on Saturday set a new world record in the women's pole vault by clearing 4.57 metres, beating her own previous mark of 4.55 metres, reports AFP.

The 23-year-old was taking part in the Robin Tait Classic in tough conditions, only just managing to squeeze in her final jump before it started to rain on the second day of competition.

George last year broke the record of 4.01 metres set by New Zealand athlete Melina Hamil-

On Saturday she passed at 4.20 metres, cleared on her second attempts at both the 4.30 and 4.45 metres and then made her first and only attempt at 4.57. Having soared over the bar she decided the conditions were too bad to continue.

Novotna in final

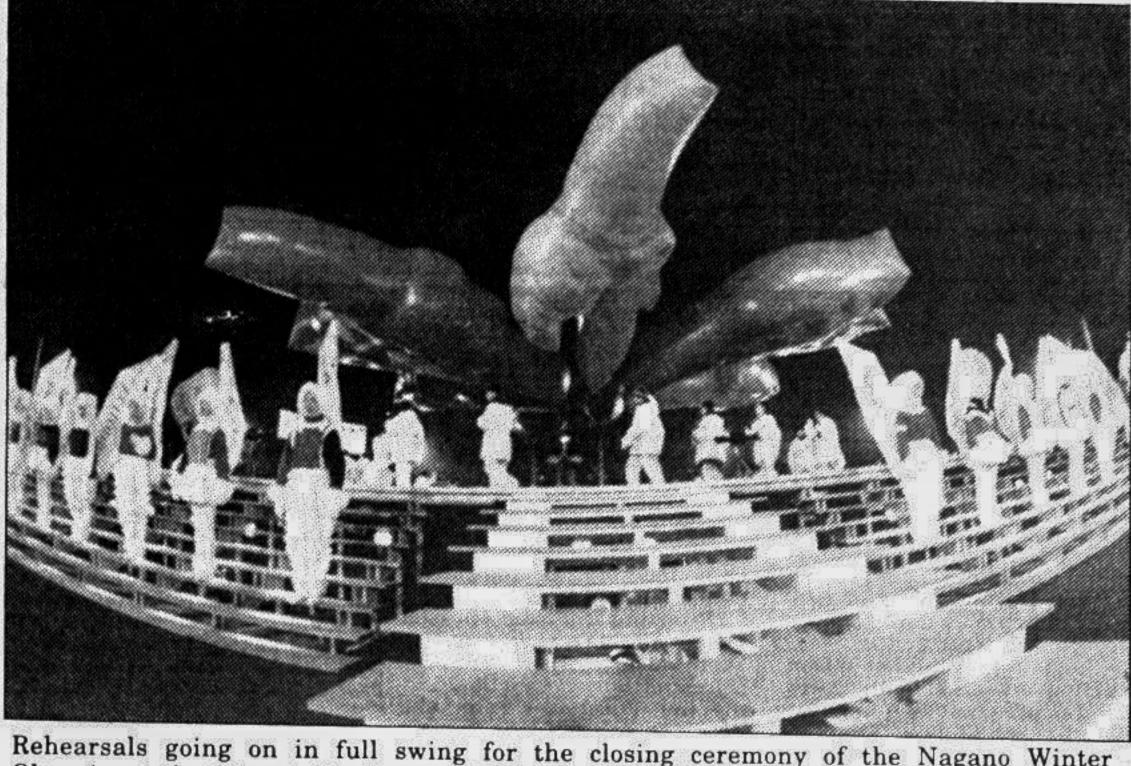

HANOVER, Feb 22: Top seed Jana Novotna of the Czech Republic will meet unseeded Patty Schnyder of Switzerland today in the 450,000 dollars Hanover Grand Prix final, reports Reuters.

Novotna, the world number three, beat 16-year-old Anna Kournikova 6-3, 6-3, unfaxed by Saturday's semifinal crowd which generally favoured the striking blonde.

But the Russian's game was too error-prone and the more experienced Novotna, 29, showed no mercy, winning in 71 minutes.

Schnyder, 19, also won 6-3, 6-3, overcoming Belgian Sabine Appelmans, who earlier in the week beat Steffi Graf on the German's comeback.

Schnyder has not lost a set in the tournament and once again played with concentration and confidence.

Sun sets over Nagano

NAGANO, Feb 22 (AP): Starbursting fireworks, the orange flames of traditional bonfires and the glow of 50,000 handheld lanterns illuminated a Japanese valley Sunday night. Nagano's thank-you to the world and its intense farewell to the final Winter Olympics of the 20th century.

But in the end — after two weeks of snow, rain, more snow, still more snow and finally even an earthquake — the intense native rituals gave way to outright exuberance. And then, Nagano danced.

"Sayonara! Sayonara!" shouted the master of ceremonies, comedian Kin'ichi Hagimoto, bedecked in a cartoonish white top hat. "Arigato Nagano!" he said, using the Japanese word for thank you a word anyone who has spent the past 14 days here will never forget. Then he shed his topcoat and threw his hat rakishly into the winter air.

Just like the opening ceremony, the end of the 1998 Olympics was a mosaic of East and West, traditional and modern wrapped up in a hometown festival: Lion dances, bonfires, harvest festival rituals. "Snowlets" mascots and a catchy Japanese pop rhythm all against the backdrop of the breathtaking Japanese Alps. commemorated in a haunting composition, "Reverberations of the Myriad Peaks."

It all ended in time, after two weeks of often miserable weather that bedeviled organisers and beleaguered athletes. forcing cancellations. reschedulings and general befuddlement all around.

Beyond that, many athletic moments shined:

 Japan's golden glory: Speedskater Hiroyasu Shimizu, setting an Olympic record by skating 500 metres in 35.76 seconds — then besting himself a day later with a 35.59. And Masahiko Harada, coming back from a dismal jump to tie teammate Takanobu Okabe for the longest jump on skis in Olympic history — 137 metres. * Austria's Hermann Maier, careening through the air and the snow in a spectacular crash, then dragging his bruised body back to win two gold medals.

* The Czechs, behind goaltender Dominik Hasek, stealing Canada's chance for Olympic gold in ice hockey by winning 2in a thrilling post-overtime shootout in the semifinals, and then shutting out Russia 1-0 in the gold-medal game.

* Tara Lipinski's irrepressible exuberance after becoming the youngest figure skater to win the gold medal. She sprinted to center ice to take her bows. She hugged. She yelled. She grinned — every inch the 15-year-old in every good way.

Curling, a sport of sweeping and stones, made its Olympic medal debut. And snowboarding: The sport of rebellious charmers had a bumpy first games when a Canadian snowboarder lost his gold after testing positive for marijuana, then got the medal back on ap-

The list of those who didn't get a medal at all included some unexpected names: Alberto Tomba and Wayne Gretzky. And the US men's hockey finished last in many eyes when, after being eliminated from the tournament, some of its players trashed three Olympic Village rooms. But the people came -

1,358,207 of them at competitions and victory ceremonies by Sunday afternoon. Local Olympic organisers expected the total at competitions alone to reach 1,270,000 when everything from Sunday is counted.

Nagano Mayor Tasuku Tsukada presented the Olympic flag to Deedee Corradini, mayor of Salt Lake City, home of the next Winter Games in 2002. Later, the Utah vanguard - a stagecoach and riders on horseback — reconnoitered the arena with a once-around and gave the Japanese a taste of what the next Winter Olympics might Fireworks fuses zoomed like missiles to their targets, lighting up streamers and turning the sky into daytime at dusk. Colourful looped flags of myriad colours and designs swarmed the stadium, cloth needle eyes jutting into the air. Then the ritual gave way to fun. The Japanese pop group Agharta performed "Ile Aive." or "Let's Make a Circle and Dance" — the theme song of the Snowlets mascots. The drums played. The lights came on.

And, the Olympic flame extinguished and the flag passed on, they did something in Nagano they've been threatening to do for days: They relaxed.
