All the champions' thoughts

LEAGUE

LONDON, Mar 4 (AP): Bayern Munich vs Borussia CHAMPIONS Dortmund in the European Champions' League. If only this were the final.

"There is no doubt about this being a classic," said Bayern Munich President Franz Beckenbauer. "But on the other hand, the match is coming at the wrong time. I would rather have seen this matchup in the final.

As it is, the two German powers meet Wednesday in Munich in the most talked about of the four Champions Cup first-leg quarterfinals. Dortmund is trying to defend their title and salvage the season. Bayern Munich is after Europe's biggest club prize, which they have not won since 1976.

A third German team Leverkusen is home to Real Yevgeny, Goran Madrid, a co-favourite to win the cup a record-seventh time but for the first time since 1966. The other favourite is England's Manchester United - who last won this up in 1968 - playing at Monaco. Italy's Juventus, finalist in '96 and '97, is home to 725,000 dollars Rotterdam Ukraine's Dynamo Kiev.

Dortmund, returning to Munich's Olympic Stadium where they upset Juventus to lift the cup 10 months ago, need to salvage something from '97-98. Dortmund are mired in 10th ment in London, lost 7-6, 6-2 to place in the Bundesliga and five points away from a UEFA Cup place. Winning this cup again is their best hope of returning to lucrative European competition next season.

Italian coach Nevio Scala has a healthy team, save for missing star defender Matthias Sammer, whose career is in jeopardy after four knee operations.

Bayern, losers over the weekend against lowly Cologne, dropped six points behind leaders Kaiserslautern as Italian coach Giovanni Trapattoni also points his side toward a big European payday.

Leverkusen, who have never won a Bundesliga title, qualified for the Champions League as a second-place team. The unglamorous side has surprised right into the quarterfinals. And now comes storied Real Madrid.

Daum claims he knows how to cause problems for Real Madrid, who had been struggling lately. But he isn't saying how.

Real Madrid have a German coach in Jupp Heynckes, who ran the team through practice behind closed doors before leaving for Germany. Real's best news is the return of sweeper Fernando Hierro, the team leader, who is also joined by Croatian Davor Suker, Brazil's Roberto Carlos and Spanish international Raul Gonzalez Blanco.

Manchester United were just as happy to draw Monaco as Real Madrid was to get Leverkusen. And United, who won their one and only cup in 1968, also play the first leg away.

United have all but clinched their fifth Premier league title in six seasons, but manager Alex Ferguson's only goal is Europe. Monaco's ambitious coach Jean Tigana has similar ideas. United are loaded with young, already established English internationals led by David Beckham, Gary Neville, Nicky Butt and Paul Scholes. Monaco can counter with Thierry Henry, the top scorer in the first six Champions League games with six goals, plus David Trezeguet and Victor Ipkeba Nosa.

Manchester United's Andy Cole has five goals in the competition.

Italy's lone representative is Juventus, who slipped into the final eight as one of the twobest second place teams in group play. In Dynamo Kiev, the Italians meet a side that fields most of Ukraine's national

A helping hand for Zagallo The largest money spinner

RIO DE JANEIRO, Mar 4: The president of the Brazilian Soccer Confederation announced Monday that he would appoint a team supervisor to help na-tional team coach Mario Zagallo prepare for next summer's World Cup in France, reports

Ricardo Teixeira's decision comes in the wake of Brazil's disappointing showing the Gold Cup. Teixeira said only name the new team supervisor on Wednesday.

Speculation in the Brazilian media has centrered on Flamengo Coach Paulo Autori to fill the position. Autori is known as a master tactician and has won the national championship with Botafogo and the Copa Libertadores with Cruzeiro.

The position of team supervisor was one held by Zagallo himself in 1994 when Brazil one an unprecedented fourth World Cup in the United States. Carlos Alberto Parreira was Brazil's head coach, while Zagallo was supervisor, counselor and guru: When the idea of adding a supervisor was raised last month Zagallo was against the

"When I was invited to be coach, the question came up: Who will be Zagallor's Zagallo?" he told reporters at Rio's Galeao International Airport. "Teixeira said no one had the preparation. If there's been a change, talk to him.

But on Monday, Zagallo did not appear at Teixeira's press conference and had no immediate comment on the decision.

Brazilians were aghast at the team's play in the Gold Cup. The team struggled to tie modest Jamaica and Guatemala and lost for the first time ever to the United States, en route to a third-place finish.

Becker pulls out

SCOTTSDALE, Arizonal Mar 4: Boris Becker, poised to play in his first singles match in the United States in nearly two years, withdrew from the 315,000 dollars Franklin Templeton Tennis Classic on Tuesday because of a back injury reports Reuters.

Becker was scheduled to play current German number one Nicolas Kiefer, ranked 28th and seded fourth, in Tuesday night's featured first-round match. Former world number of one

Becker and Partner Thomas Messmer lost a first-round doubles match to Americans Dave Randall and Jack Waite 6-2, 6-0 Monday night.

Becker, a six-time Grand Slam singles champion, was to undergo an MRI test by tournament doctor Angelino Mattalino to evaluate his condition. Becker will be replaced by lucky loser Scott Draper of Australia, ranked 80th in the world.

The 30-year-old German suffered a pulled abdominal muscle in Dubai on February 11 while serving during a doubles match, causing him to withdraw. Mattalino thinks the stomach injury may be related

Becker has played two ATP Tour events (Croatian Open and Dubai Open) this year but none on US soil since an openinground loss to Spaniard Carlos Costa at the Champions Cup in Indian Wells in March of 1996.

Becker, who last year announced he would no longer compete in Grand Slam events, has captured 49 ATP singles titles, including three Wimbledon championships, two Australian crowns and one US Open. He is currently ranked 66th in the world.

was forced to offer advertisers additional advertising time after failing to deliver the audience share it had promised. Advertisers worried about overpaying for audiences that may not materialise are being offered some protection.

The pay television station Canal Plus will use an audience guarantee formula during the final phase of the tournament from June 27, a Canal Plus executive said.

Canal Plus will adapt its charges according to daily viewing ratings.

"Advertisers will receive a discount of up to 20 per cent on the stated tariff or pay a premium of up to 20 per cent, depending on the actual viewing audience, said Alain Touzet, marketing director for Canal Plus's advertising space selling subsidiary.

"For the final phase there is uncertainty linked to the teams that qualify ... to try and reduce this uncertainty we have brought in a guaranteed ratio of cost to gross rating point, which is the percentage of a target au-dience achieved," he said.

Canal Plus's weekday evening talk show, 'nulle part ailleurs' (Nowhere Else), which will be dedicated entirely to World Cup highlights, coverage and issues, will raise its ad rates for the 2000 local time break on the day of the World Cup final to 110,700 francs for 30 seconds, about 30 per cent higher than usual, Touzet said.
