Rashid Hussain to buy Sime Bank

KUALA LUMPUR, Mar 11: In Malaysia's biggest banking merger ever, financial services giant Rashid Hussain Bhd. agreed to pay 852.4 million ringgit (218.6 million dollars) for ailing Sime Bank Bhd, reports AP.

In a faxed statement released late Tuesday, Rashid Hussain announced plans to buy Sime Darby's 60 per cent stake in the bank as well as as KUB Malaysia's 30 per cent interest.

In the statement, Rashid Hussain said that the sale price is subject to adjustments arising from a due diligence exercise which has still to be con-

RHB Bank. "This acquisition and merger creates the second largest bank in Malaysia in line with the government's call for consolidation of the financial services sector to further strengthen the financial services industry in Malaysia," Abdul Rashid Hussain, executive chairman of Rashid Hussain said.

Asian stock markets close mixed

HONG KONG, Mar 11: Asian stock markets closed generally mixed while Southeast Asian currencies finished slightly firmer Wednesday, reports AP. Japan's market closed sharply lower as a bribery scandal widened.

Tokyo's benchmark 225issue Nikkei Stock Average shed 226.68 points, or 1.33 per cent, closing at 16,756.14, after news of the arrest of a senior central bank official. On Tuesday, the index had gained 10.29 points, or 0.06 per cent.

Tokyo prosecutors arrested the chief of the Bank of Japan's capital market division, Yasuyuki Yoshizawa, who was suspected of giving inside information to two big commercial banks in return for wining-and-dining worth more than four million yen (31,500 dollars).

"Endless scandals involving elite government officials really disappoint investors," said Hirobumi Inomata, a branch manager with Izumi Securities.

Wednesday's losers included major banking issues, which were sold on growing fears about possible defaults on loans extended from Japan to Indonesia, embroiled in financial and political troubles, traders said. Traders said the bribery scandal also pushed the US dollar higher against the yen.

In late afternoon, the dollar was trading at 128.24 yen, up 0.80 yen from late Tuesday in Tokyo and also higher than its late New York rate of 127.47 yen overnight.

In Jakarta, share prices ended higher on buying interest in telecommunication shares, although uncertainty over the local economic situation persisted.

The JSX Composite Index closed up 1.397 points at 491.873.

Dealers said many foreign investors held back to await the announcement of the new Cabinet of President Suharto. who was sworn in for a seventh term Wednesday.

The rupiah closed at 10,200 to the dollar, up from its close Tuesday of 10,650. It climbed as high as 9,398.50 before falling back following Suharto's speech. Suharto didn't hint at any decision on a currency board implementation in the country. The International Monetary Fund opposes pegging the rupiah to the dollar.

Other Southeast Asian currencies also finished slightly firmer in Asian trading, with the Malaysian ringgit closing at 3.8720 to the dollar, up from 3.9300 Tuesday. The stock market's benchmark Composite Index fell 0.56 points, closing at 709.91.

Traders said investors were cautious ahead of the relisting of Malaysia International Shipping Corp. Bhd, a company widely seen to have bailed out another controlled by one of Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad's sons.

They said concerns are also growing that mergers and acquisitions in the banking sector are resembling bailouts. In Hong Kong, shares closed higher in thin trading as the market took its cues from gains on Wall Street overnight. The blue-chip Hang Seng Index gained 220.80 points, or two per cent, closing at 11,118.85. That followed a 75.98-point gain in the Dow Jones Industrial Average to 8,643.12 in New York. Trading volume, at its lowest levels of the year; climbed to 5.60 billion Hong Kong dollars (717.95 million dollars) from Tuesday's 4.95 billion Hong Kong dollars (634.62 million US dollars.)

The Australian share market posted its highest close in five months, buoyed by gains across most industry groups. The main stock index gained 0.8 per cent, closing at 2,714.8, its highest level since October 9.

ELSEWHERE: BANGKOK: Thai stock prices ended lower in light trading as investors sold on expectations that more cash-strapped listed companies would sell new shares to foreigners, dealers said. The key index fell 5.76 points to 502.79.

MANILA: Philippine shares ended higher after six straight trading days of weakness as investors renewed their quest for oversold and fundamentally sound stocks, traders said. The key stock index gained 2.5 per SEOUL: Share prices in South Korea ended higher, encouraged by demand from foreigners, analysts said. The key stock index gained 5.49 points, closing at 531.05.

SINGAPORE: Shares closed mostly higher, buoyed by firmer southeast Asian currencies and expectations for February's non-oil domestic exports, dealer said. The main index jumped 2.1 per cent, closing at 1,577. 84.

TAIPEI: Taiwanese stocks rose for a fourth day after an overnight rise of 1.3 per cent in the Nasdaq index eased worries about a possible slowdown in the computer industry. The main stock index gained 1.5 per cent, closing at 9,030.55, its best close since March 3.

WELLINGTON: The key New Zealand stock index finished higher, with key leading stocks recovering ground from losses Monday and Tuesday. It gained 18.09 points, closing at 2,249.02.

TOKYO, Mar 11: The Japanese Finance Ministry said Wednesday that Japan's current account trade surplus in January soared 212.8 per cent compared to the same month last year, reports AP.

The surplus, which was not adjusted for seasonal factors, totalled 476.2 billion yen (3.75 billion dollars). That was below a 574.9 billion yen (4.53 billion dollars) forecast by economists surveyed by Dow-Jones.

The latest numbers reflect the low demand for imports in Japan due to a sluggish economy and recent weakness in the yen's value against the US dollar, which has made Japanese exports more competitive overseas.
