

SEC probe body to check records of two COS

Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has formed a committee to investigate the affairs and records of Azam Brothers Ltd and Monno Fabrics Ltd, reports UNB.

The committee will ascertain whether there was any trade or price manipulation, irregularities and violation of SEC regulations and identify of the persons involved.

The committee, comprising SEC Corporate Accountant Khairul Anam Khan and Deputy Director Farhad Ahmed, has been asked to submit its report within a month.

Meanwhile, SEC has nominated Chittagong Chamber of Commerce and Industry President Kamal Uddin Ahmed as Director of the Board of Directors of Chittagong Stock Exchange (CSE), said a press release.

Agreement with Malaysian firm for installing gas pipeline

A contract was signed in the city on Tuesday for the construction of Bianibazar-Koilashitla gas transmission pipeline, reports UNB.

The Gas Transmission Company Limited, an enterprise of Petrobangla, signed the agreement with M/s Punj Lyod (Malaysia) SDN, BHD for construction of the 18-km transmission pipeline at a cost of Tk 75 million.

On completion, the project will help supply additional 40 MMCFD gas to the national grid through North-South pipeline and will help reduce acute shortage of supply and increase power production.

The project will be financed from the Hydrocarbon fund of Petrobangla and its enterprise, said a press release.

Coca-Cola opens China's largest soft-drink plant

Coca-Cola Company opened China's largest soft-drink plant recently in Shanghai, at a ceremony presided over by company Chairman and Chief Executive Officer M. Douglas Ivester, says a press release issued from Shanghai.

Production from the plant, the 50 million dollars facility, will help make China the 6th largest market among nearly 200 countries worldwide, said Ivester.

EU govts pledge help to ailing Asian economies

LONDON, Apr 3: European Union governments promised on Thursday to help Asia out of its financial crisis as long as governments there agreed to keep their markets open and pursue economic reforms, reports Reuters.

As leaders from the 15 EU members met leaders from 10 Asian nations, host country Britain pledged practical support to help Asia to recover from a year of economic turmoil.

Asia's problems are Europe's problems, Trade and Industry Secretary Margaret Beckett told a business forum organised in parallel with the 25 nation Asian-European Meeting (ASEM).

The EU exports more than the United States to East Asia and Beckett said European firms needed to work closely with their Asian partners to help them to adjust to changed economic times.

Previewing what was likely to be one of the main European messages at the three-day ASEM summit, she said Asia's response to its problems must be based on a commitment to open markets.

"What would do great damage would be a return to protectionism as a means for dealing with current difficulties. It is increasing transparency and openness that will guarantee long-term prosperity," she said.

EU ministers bridle at suggestions they have not done enough to tackle a crisis that forced Indonesia, Thailand and South Korea to resort to International Monetary Fund-led bailouts totaling more than 100 billion dollars.

EU ministers see the summit as a chance to claw back some of the political lead that the United States has established in tackling the Asian crisis.

They want recognition that the EU provides more funds than the United States to the IMF and they plan to underscore their commitment to Asia by launching an ASEM trust fund at the World Bank.

The fund would provide grants to analyse the social and financial effects of the crisis and pave the way for World Bank loans.

While the EU is ready to contribute to rescue packages, Portuguese Foreign Minister Jaime Gama said it should demand political changes in Asia in return.

"If they (EU States) do not want to continue pouring money down the drain and want to take care of taxpayers' money... they need to make demands on those who receive it," he told Reuters in Lisbon.

The official rate of cotton seed has been fixed at Tk 1,040 per maund this year, but the traders are collecting cotton seed at the rate of Tk 1,100 to Tk 1,200.

The total demand for quality seeds is estimated at about 580 maunds for Rajshahi zone where the CDB supplies maximum 300 maunds to 350 maunds every year.

Hanoi gives order to eliminate red tape for boosting business

HANOI, Apr 3: Vietnamese Prime Minister Phan Van Khai has ordered government agencies to eliminate red tape in an effort to boost business and investment, a report said today, reports AFP.

The premier's instruction, issued on Tuesday, gave government bodies only 15 days to process complaints that they receive the official Vietnam News Daily reported.

Under the instruction, government ministries and departments were ordered to revise their regulations and administrative procedures.

Cotton farming fails to reach goal in Rajshahi region

NATORE, Apr 3: Despite potential for massive cultivation, cotton production in Rajshahi Zone is being hampered due to lack of credit facilities, scarcity of quality seeds and constraints of marketing, reports UNB.

The government efforts to boost cotton production and remove the existing problems went in vein as the Cotton Development Board (CDB) failed to make any headway in increasing cotton production since its inception in 1972.

According to official sources, 6000 bales of cotton are being produced on an average in Rajshahi zone annually.

A total of 6,500 acres of land against the target of 8,000 acres have been brought under cotton cultivation this year in Rajshahi zone, fixing the production target at 6,700 bales.

The Cotton Development Board in the zone has 16 units, comprising 10 thanas of Natore, Rajshahi and Naogaon districts.

The officials said only 15 per cent of the country's cotton requirement is met by local production while the rest come from foreign sources.

When asked a local agronomist said that cotton farming is more profitable than that of cash crops like jute and tobacco.

"If proper steps can be taken 12,000 more acres of land could be brought under cotton cultivation in the Rajshahi zone alone. He said there are 20,000 acres of land suitable for cotton cultivation of which 15,000 acres are economically viable in the zone.

But the farmers virtually have no capital for cotton production. They can hardly get loan from Bangladesh Krishi Bank. In many cases they fall victim to harassment by the bank officials.

The per acre production cost of cotton is estimated at Tk 4,500 to 5,000. "But most of the small and marginal farmers are unable to bear the cost," said Rezaul Karim, a young cotton grower in Bagatipara thana of the district.

He said scarcity of high-yielding cotton seeds is also a major barrier to cotton cultivation.

In the zone, the CDB purchased about 2,500 maunds of cotton so far against its procurement target of 4,000 maunds this year.

There have been reports that the CDB in many cases failed to procure cotton at the official rate due to active participation of the traders in private sector.

Yen falls to 6-year low against dollar

TOKYO, Apr 3: The US dollar soared to a six-year high against the yen on Friday, after credit rating agency Monday's Investor Service signaled it may downgrade Japanese government debt because of the country's weak economy, reports AP.

The dollar bought 134.56 yen in Tokyo at late afternoon, up 0.69 yen from the same time on Thursday and above its late New York rate of 133.50 yen overnight. The US currency rose as high as 135.20 yen — its strongest since April 1992.

In the report Friday, Moody's changed its outlook for Japan's economy to "negative" from the previous "stable" — a sign it may be considering lowering its appraisal of the Japan's ability to repay its debts.

"The change reflects uncertainty about the ability of the authorities to achieve a policy consensus that would help promote a return to economic growth and fiscal balance," the New York-based ratings agency said.

Speaking to a press conference after the reports' release, Japanese Finance Minister Hikaru Matsunaga said the government may move to prop up the yen.

The Moody's report pushed both the yen and Japanese stocks into a nosedive by heightening already intense concern about the country's faltering economy. It came just a day after a widely watched survey by the Bank of Japan showed business managers more pessimistic about the economy than at any time since 1994.

"That Moody's called into question Japan's credit risk will have a very big and broad impact on the yen, stocks and everything," said Tatsuya Ishii, head of customer foreign exchange at Banque Nationale de Paris on Tokyo.

"Investors want to see whether the government can actually implement effective steps," said Takahisa Matsuura, general manager of the equity department at Momura Securities Co.

IMF fund inadequate to respond to new crisis

WASHINGTON, Apr 3: The International Monetary Fund has limited reserves to respond to any new financial crisis because it has already committed billions to Asian financial bailouts, IMF Managing Director Michel Camdessus said Thursday, reports AP.

He said he expected Congress to approve a US administration proposal to provide the IMF with 18 billion dollars in new funding.

Speaking at the National Press Club, Camdessus said the 182-nation organization he has led for 11 years cannot act in an emergency unless it has adequate resources.

"There are still major risks in the world economy," he said. "Thus it is a matter of concern that the IMF's usable resources have dropped to a level that leaves us little room for maneuver to respond to a new crisis."

He said he was confident the United States, the largest contributor to the IMF, "will maintain its leadership by supporting the IMF."

Last year, the IMF put together rescue packages worth more than 100 billion dollars for Thailand, Indonesia and South Korea, committing 32 billion dollars of its own reserves. Treasury officials estimate it has only 15 billion dollars in available funds for any new crisis.

The Senate approved new IMF funding by an 84-16 vote last week. House action is expected after the Eastern recess.

Replying to criticism that the IMF was caught off guard by the economic troubles in Asia, Camdessus suggested four areas where it could work with member countries to prevent future crises.

They are improving financial information the countries make public, strengthening domestic financial systems, encouraging capital flow liberalization and fighting corruption.

Market Commentary

On Friday, the local foreign exchange and money market was closed on weekend and will resume operation on Sunday. Next week the market is expected to be hectic ahead of Eid holidays beginning on April 7, 1998.

In the international markets US dollar shot up to 135.10 yen level which is 6 and a half year high. Dollar's upward march started yesterday when Bank of Japan released 'Tankan' report which painted a negative picture of Japanese business environment. Today Moody, a credit rating agency, downgraded outlook both for Japan's country ceiling and government's currency rating to negative. Later in the day dollar fell to 134 yen range after Bank of Japan intervened in relatively small amounts. Dollar also maintained firm tone against European currencies on concerns for the proposed European Monetary Union. At 7.45 local time US dollar closed at 1.8540/45 DEM, 134.83/93 yen and GBP at 1.6620/1.6630 USD.
