Abandoned WDB quarters being ruined in G-K project area

From Our Correspondent

JHENIDAH, May 2: About 100 staff quarters for the employees of Ganges-Kobadok (GK) project of Bangladesh Water Development Board (BWDB) have been damaged for negligence of the authorities, it is alleged.

These residential quarters were constructed during the then Pakistani regime for accommodation of rural employees of BWDB. The employees were designated as 'patwari'. Initially most of the employees were living in their working area quarters.

These houses were abandoned in 1971 during the liberation war. After independence the employees started living in urban areas. Then the quarters were allegedly occupied by local hoodlums, outlaws and other miscreants. They turned the place into a place of anti-socials. Doors and windows of the quarters were stolen by unscrupulous people. Till then the residential quarters became unfit for living.

When contacted an official of BWDB told this correspondent, actually the patwaris do not live in remote areas according to the order of the government, rather they live in town areas to ensure better education for their children and safe environment for them.

The official requesting anonymity told that each quarter had been constructed at a cost of Taka 30 thousand to 35 thousand. At present the cost of construction would be at least Taka 10 lakh for a single quarter. If steps are not taken to protect the quarters, bricks of the quarters might be stolen, the BWDB officer informed.

Scarcity of bamboo in rural areas in Magura

From Our Correspondent

MAGURA, May 2: Villagers in rural areas of four thanas are facing problems due to scarcity of bamboo and other house building materials, local people said.

Rural people usually build their houses or cottages with locally available materials. Usually they need bamboo, rope, straw and mud. On the other hand, sheets of corrugated iron and wood, are needed for building semi-pucca tin-shed houses.

Most of the villagers have small shaped bamboo and straw made cottages. Bamboo and straw are not available at all in many areas of the district. As the owners of bamboo and straw have already cut down their bamboo clusters indiscriminately in the previous years due to cultivation purpose. As a result, there is acute scarcity of cottage building materials including bamboo.

According to market observers, one big sized bamboo is being sold Tk 140 to 150. Crisis of fodder also prevails in the district as straws are used as house building materials.

A total of 100 bundles of straws are being sold at Tk 70 To 80.

While talking to a group of low income villagers they said, they are trying to use Corrugated Iron Sheets for building houses now due to lack of cottage building materials like straw, bamboo and rope. A huge quantity of wood is needed for building tin shed houses. But wood is not available in the area. As a result, villagers have to use coconut and date trees for building their houses.

Meanwhile, prices of cement, iron rod and sand have increased abnormally in the hats and bazaars of the district, according to the market observers.

Meanwhile, many huts and small cottages have already been damaged during the recent nor-wester. But the villagers are not able to repair their huts due to high price of those materials.
