'Proposed Gram Adalat to be independent'

Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Abdul Matin Khasru yesterday said that objects of the draft of proposed Gram Adalat bill, 1998 was to make justice available to the people for settling petty disputes at the grassroot level, reports BSS.

Outlining some of the features of the proposed bill drafted by a group of three consultants of the Grameen Court Project of his ministry, Khasru made it clear that this new court would be independent of the government and there would be no interference from any quarter. It will not be a party court, he added.

He was addressing the national workshop on Grameen Court organised jointly by his ministry and ADAB in the CIR-DAP auditorium in the city. ADAB Chairman Dr Kazi Faruq Ahmed, ADAB director Dr Shamsul Huda, Gono Sahajya Samithi (GSS) chief Dr F.R. Mahmud Hasan, Grameen Court Project Director and joint secretary of Law Ministry Sohul Hussain, consultants Dr Mizanur Rahman, Justice K.M. Sobhan and advocate Ahmad Ali also spoke.

The law minister called upon all to provide the government suggestions for improving the draft of the proposed bill to help protect the rights of the 12 crore people of the country. He said that this court would be set up in a participatory manner building on government and non-government partnership.

Khasru regretted that there was a huge gap between the expectations and achievements of the people in terms of justice protecting basic rights while there was not much access of the poor people to the legal system.

He blamed poverty, illiteracy and lack of awareness for such a low level of accessibility of the poor people in our legal system.

The law minister hoped that with the setting up of the Grameen Court it would help reduce the sufferings of the commonman in protecting their rights of getting justice which is a costly affair in our country.

The object of the proposed bill, speakers said, would be to help frame a legal mechanism to make justice easy, informal, fast and low-cost one in the rural areas within the jurisdictions of the union parishad. All judges of the Gram Adalat including its chairman would be known as adjudicators.
