Innocent people being cheated at RMCH

RAJSHAHI, June 6: Rajshahi Medical College Hospital (RMCH) has become a safe hub of middlemen of different medicine shops, who have been cheating the innocent people by forcing them to buy medicine from a particular shop, reports UNB.

Over 100 medicine shops around RMCH, the biggest treatment centre in the northern region, have recruited several hundred middlemen to catch the patients or their guardians with prescriptions to purchase medicine from their respective shops.

As the doctors or nurses hand over the prescription to a guardian to buy medicine from outside, the middleman, who has been following him from earlier, tries to entice him to purchase the medicine from a particular shop.

Once he manages to bring the customer to the shop, the salesman performs the rest of the job.

Showing unprecedented modesty and having intimate chats, the salesman soon wins the heart of the customer. He then charges the cost of the medicine several times higher than that of fair price. It has been alleged, the traders sometimes also cheat the illiterate customers giving false summation on the calculator of the cost of the medicines.

Many poor patients, come from far flung areas of northern districts, being cheated by the traders, return homes without getting treatment. A section of doctors, nurses and ward boys are also involved with this clique for getting commission from the medicine shops, it has been learnt.

Patients alleged that doctors or attending nurses also sometimes ask them to buy medicine from a particular shop.

The RMC authorities and local Rajpara police station have noticed the matter, but nobody paid heed to stop the illegal practice. When contacted an official of Chemist and Drugist Association admitted the fact and said unhealthy competition among the medicine shops and absence of enforcement of law help continue the illegal business.
