43 pc of female commercial sex workers suffer from STDs

Forty three per cent of the female commercial sex workers have been suffering from sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) while 41 per cent of the male clients have the same exposure, reports UNB.

This was disclosed at a dissemination seminar on CIDA-Special Activities Fund (SAF) project under the Fourth Population and Health Project (FPH) at a city hotel today.

Health Secretary Muhammad Ali inaugurated the seminar sponsored and organised by Ministry of Health and Family Welfare and Canadian International Development Agency and Research Evaluation Association for Development (READ).

Canadian High Commissioner in Dhaka Nicholas Etheridge was present as special guest at the opening session of the seminar.

Health Ministry under FPH (1992-1998) launched the CIDA-SAF projects to encourage design and implementation of innovative research studies.

Under this programme, 30 different projects were conducted by GOB, NGOs and private sector agencies.

Twenty one studies were classified into five broad categories: Nutrition, Reproductive Health, Health Economics, Programme Assessment and Special Targets.

The target population covered in the studies included users of family planning and health service providers and field workers, pregnant mothers, adolescents, commercial sex workers (male and female), community leaders, males, husbands and in-laws.

Presenting the key note paper Executive Director of READ Dr Syed Jahanger Haider said selected commercial sex workers (CSWs) were effective educators for their peers and practice of condoms were increased substantially among the CSWs.

The key note paper showed that the rate of condom use was increased to 73 per cent from 23 per cent at the end of the SAF project studies.

Dr Haider in his key note paper said dissemination of useful and relevant information on sexual behaviour and health risk perception among the high risk population is critical for prevention of STDs.

The key-note, however, showed that Palli Nur (rural trained birth attendants) were accepted by the community as dependable source of safe delivery by the community.

About 65 per cent of the deliveries were performed by them in the study area.

The key-note also revealed that planned and intensive educational efforts particularly by Family Welfare Assistants and participation of mothers-in-law and husbands motivated 61 per cent of the rural pregnant women to attend group meetings on Anti-Natal Care (ANC) compared to 24 per cent in the control areas.

It said knowledge of male health assistants (HAs) was observed poor on ANC, an impediment to the motivation of husbands on safe motherhood. Referral of clients for improve care by HAs was not satisfactory.

Some 34 per cent of non users expressed the desire to use contraceptives indicating substantial level of unmet need.

The key note paper said overall wastage of oral contraceptive by GOB, NGOs and Social Marketing Company was 25 per cent while net wastage of condom in the programme was 18 per cent per annum.

Dr Haider said leakage from stores, inflated sales from pharmacies leading to smuggling were identified as major reasons for wastage.

Health Secretary Muhammad Ali said the government has approved the Health and Population Sector Strategies (HPSS) and the Health and Population Sector Programme (HPSP).

He said health and population sector will enter into a new phase of programme development and changes with the launching of HPSP in next month.

Nicholas Etheridge said the SAF programme will only be useful if the findings are known to the people who might be able to apply this information in their work.

Hence, he said, the government asked that one of the last SAF activities to be funded should be this dissemination seminar for fitting use of these resources.

Canadian High Commissioner said the SAF programme was planned 7-year back with the intent of furthering the objective of FPH.

37,000 cases pending in different courts

About 37,000 cases are pending in different courts in Dhaka, showing a dismal condition of the judiciary, reports UNB.

The cases are awaiting disposal, some of them for more than 20 years, in Metropolitan Magistrate Court, Special Tribunal Court, District Sessions Judge Court and Divisional Judge Court.

Court sources said 24,765 cases are pending with Dhaka Metropolitan Magistrate Court, 6,929 with Special Tribunal Court, 4,505 with District and Sessions Judge Court and 575 with the Divisional Court.

In many cases, delay in disposal of the cases led to disappearance of evidences and witnesses.

The pending cases filed during the last 21 years include murder, snatching, dacoity, terrorism and extortion.

Police sources said they have submitted chargesheets against the accused of most of the cases but the cases have been delayed due to complex procedure of trial in these courts.

The unusual delay made many petitioners skeptical of whether the cases will be disposed of at all.

Talking to UNB, an advocate said it is impossible to dispose of many cases after 20 or more years as it may be found that many evidences are lost or witnesses have died or left the country.

Deputy Commissioner of Detective Branch Syed Bazul Karim attributed the delay in disposing of the cases to the complexity in the trial procedure.

He advocated necessary reforms in the trial process. He also pleaded for introduction of "summary trial" for disposing of important cases.

'Bangladesh has good chance to join UNSC for 2000-2001'

NEW YORK, June 16: Bangladesh has an excellent chance of gaining membership to the United Nations Security Council for the years 2000-2001.

Several countries, including those belonging to the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC), are likely to support Dhaka's bid for a place in the UN's most important organ.

This optimistic assessment was made by Bangladesh's Permanent Representative to the United Nations Anwarul Karim Chowdhury.

Talking to UNB at UN Headquarters in New York, Ambassador Chowdhury said the present government's role at the UN has won admiration from both developed and developing countries, raising its profile at the international arena.

Ambassador Chowdhury, however, cautioned that Bangladesh still needs to rally more support. "This is going to be a formidable task," he said.

The only other country to have announced its intention to seek the Council membership for 2000-2001 is Cambodia.

Phnom Penh's seat at the UN is currently vacant due to controversy over its representation at the UN, but Ambassador Chowdhury said this is no reason for Bangladesh to feel safe.

Bangladesh had served at the Security Council only once, in 1979. At that time, it shook the diplomatic world by handily beating Japan. Eight years later, in 1987, it tried again but lost hopelessly to Malaysia.

Ambassador Anwarul Karim Chowdhury, who had coordinated the 1979 election campaign for his Foreign Ministry desk in Dhaka, said Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina is personally involved in garnering more support for Bangladesh.

At the UN, Bangladesh is active in several UN bodies. Ambassador Chowdhury is currently heading the powerful fifth committee of the General Assembly, responsible for setting the guidelines on budgetary and administrative matters. He has been praised by most countries for his deft handling of such thorny issues as UN reform and assessment of contributions by member states to the UN.

US Ambassador to the UN Bill Richardson has publicly acknowledged Bangladesh's role in the fifth committee at a speech he delivered in Dhaka two months ago.

Bangladesh is also chairing the Working Group of the Economic and Social Council involved in reviewing the role of its various subsidiary bodies.

Many developing countries are particularly pleased with Bangladesh for its initiative to popularise micro credit within the UN system.
