LONDON, July 24: Twenty-one wickets fell on the first day of the Warwickshire-Essex county champi onship game at Edgbaston on Thursday for a total of only 239 runs, reports Reuters.

As all matches in which 15 wickets or more fall in a day are automatically referred to the pitches committee of the England Cricket Board at Lords. this game is sure to result in a visit from the board's top groundsman Harry Brind. When Warwickeshire were all out for 190 in 52.4 overs. with their captain Brian Lara making nought, it looked as if that county's see-saw form was the cause. But Essex made only 139, as fast bowler Ed Giddins took four wickets, and Warwickshire lost one wicket for 23 runs in their second innings. In contrast the second day of the match at Northampton brought the home side 608 for six declared in 146 overs. Rob Bailey took his overnight score of 149 to 188 and the in-form 20-year-old Graeme Swam hit 91, his third big score in two games. Derbyshire had made 161 for four by the close. Surrey's Martin Bicknell, one of the county's top bowlers took five for 34 as Gloucestershire were bowled out for 167 at Cheltenham in 57 overs. Surrey added 111 but lost five wickets, to their first innings lead of 130. Owais Shah made 140 and added 161 for the fourth wicket with Paul Weeks (67) as Middlesex piled on 448 against Yorkshire at Lord's.

Shah, one of the most promising young batsman in the country, batted 314 balls and hit 18 fours. Yorkshire replied with 90 for two.

John Crawley, whose form puts him in line for a return to the England squad, completed his second successive century for Lancashire as they totalled 366 against Glamorgan at Clowyn Bay.

He batted for 226 balls and hit 21 fours. England reject Robert Croft had some consolation for his disappointment when he took the wickets o Crawley, Warren Hegg, Graham Lloyd and Ian Austin for 76.1

Jason Gallian, a Lan chashire batsman who has had injuries and few runs since he joined Nottinghamshire at the start of the season, was on his way to his first century for his new county with an undefeated 81 at Portsmouth.

Hampshire made 301 in reply to Notts first innings of 128 Notts were 140 for two in their second innings.

MEMORABLE KNOCK ON A MEMORABLE OCCASION: South African skipper Hansie Cronje pulls during the course of his brilliant hundred against England on the first day of the fourth Test at Trent Bridge, Nottingham on July 23. The innings was particularly sweet for Cronje as he was making his 50th appearance in Tests.

NOTTINGHAM. Cronje ended a run of 31 Tests without a century by scoring 113 not out to steer South Africa to 302 for seven wickets at the close on the first day of the fourth Test against England on Thursday, reports Reuters.

The South African captain, equalling Johnny Waite's national record of 50 caps, epitomised controlled aggression from the moment he came to the crease with the total on 68

He stamped his authority on the match with a hooked boundary off Dominic Cork before turning his attention to leg-spinner lan Salisbury Cork bowled three successive overs of short pitched deliveries to Cronje, who used to be suspectible to such bowling, but they were despatched for 21 runs as Cronje appeared to duck, sway or hook at will.

He then launched a savage attack on leg-spinner lan Salisbury who was driven over mid off and past mid on by Cronje for three fours before being pulled over deep mid wicket for six. Cronje's 50 came from 75 balls with seven fours and a six.

His century followed in even July 24: Hansie time from 169 deliveries with 13 fours and a six. It was his sixth Test century but his first as captain after scoring the others under the captaincy of Kepler Wessels in his first 18

> Only Angus Fraser, with 4-42, bowled with discipline on a green wicket offering some movement while Cork bowled too short. Darren Gough inconsistently debutant Andrew Flintoff largely innocuously.

England captain Alec Stewart's brave decision to bowl first seemed to have been justified in the morning session when Gough removed openers Gerhardus Liebenberg (13) and Gary Kirsten (7) with just 26 runs on the board

Darvil Cullinan's breezy innings of 30 ended in the second over after lunch when he clipped Fraser to square leg but Jacques Kallis played a valuable anchor role in adding 79 for the fourth wicket before debutant Flintoff claimed his first international wicket with a good off-cutter.

Fraser claimed three more wickets before the close of play to prevent the home side from being completely dominated but it was very much South Africa's Jonty Rhodes (24) was unlucky with an lbw decision that looked high. Shaun Pollock was almost majestic in strocking 50 from just 70 balls with six boundaries before edging to Stewart and Mark Boucher (4) offered no stroke to an inswinger and was lbw.

What happens to the formidable Australian cricket teams when they play on tours of India and Pakistan? Mesmerised by the Indian rope trick and the ruins of Mahenjodaro? The debacle is not difficult to explain at least at the local level.

Spin bowling is out of date in the first world of economics. capitalism, power and belief in force, power, and misuse or overuse of it in and out of season, especially outside the first world (of power). Might is right and power is symbolised by fast bowling. Spin bowling is not tough, but yielding, beguiling and adaptive, getting around the obstacle and defence in unexpected ways, as running water does (the universe is reflected in a drop of water). When your opponent can change his poise, he is dangerous, because you can't read him. In cricket, literacy at the wicket counts, and any communication gap communi-cation between the wickets is

Some believe that spin bowling is vegetarian stuff; it is all fibre and no meat muscle! The Bengalees have the dubious negative fame of being brainy and wily, because, as one foreign critic put it, they eat the insects of water, namely, fish (which is rich in phosphorous, and good for the brain)!

The Shane Warne voodoo came down crashing in tropicalized India, perhaps humbled by humidity. The Australians have not been generally very successful during the tours of the subcontinent (starting with the culinary incompatibility). Australia may be hot and dry, but the tropical heat and humidity are more uncomfortable. It is sticky weather; but whether the wicket is sticky only the experts and the players can tell. That could possibly explain partly why the mighty nation Down Under are keen to get out of the Commonwealth (the major portion of the Commonwealth is tropical), and prefer to live without a queen.

In the tropics the weather is sticky, and the ball hangs in the air a bit longer, and the batsmen mis-time the ball, beaten in the air during the flight, or by the break after pitching. The true spinner is not spinning yarns, but spins a web, which may spell out the reality during the micro period when the bat and ball are about to meet, or miss. He makes the ball disappear for a fraction of a second. before the batsman finds it on the pad, between his legs. amongst the stumps, or in the hands of the wicketkeeper or a fielder. What's wrong with flirting? It is a fair sport. Reality is round, spinning.

dipping, dropping, and turning viciously till the last moment of uncertainty. The ball is not drugged, bugged or bribed; it is a googly missile in elaborate slow motion, aimed for the narrow opening between the bat and the pad, or nestle on the pad itself. A fast ball is hurried on to its target, and the swing and the swerve are expected and accepted in the true western spirit of gamesmanship. Is a googly a display of unsporting spirit at either or both ends of the wicket, namely with the batsman or the bowler? A fast ball is business-like; but cricket is not business. It is basking in the sun — that's how it started.

to the surprise of the organisers

There is some homely conspiracy in the unimaginative flight of the spinning ball after it leaves the bowler and before it reaches the batsman. Unimaginative because the laws of dynamics take over, as could be analysed by the computer, or slow motion flight studies. Cricket is not crooked if you play with the straight bat; but it is entirely a different talent for the batsman to make the ball hit the middle of the bat.

SHANE WARNE

ster of the palm) is always trying to prevent — he goes for the edges. Edgy shots makes the batsman edgy. He blames the cagey bowler, and glares at the bribed pitch - with the groundsmen nowhere in sight.

Today South Asia is the home of spin, the last bastion, led by India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. Their batsmen are accustomed to the variations of the spin and have learnt how to handle, fondle, and play the clearly overwhelmed by the response. "It's simply great," he was quoted as saying from the auction. "All these ellorts will go a long way to make our dreams a success." Waugh's involvement with Udayan began when a volunteer with the

note about the organisation at his hotel when he was in the city to play India in April. After reading about Udayan, Waugh

not only called a surprised

Dudeja, but also agreed to visit the institution which runs a home for the sons of leprosy patients and was hoping to build a similar home for their daughters as well. Waugh began his campaign to raise money for Udayan soon after he returned to Australia from the India tour. He managed to raise

25,000 dollars there, of which

10,000 was donated by the Canfrolicking baby. The Australians and the rest of the batsmen outside S Asia are not accustomed or exposed to top-class spin bowling for longer spells in day to day cricket, compared to fast or medium fast bowling in their local leagues. The S African batsmen are also weak in playing spin attack. Perhaps it has something to do with the national culture in every cricketing country. There is something common between the sultry sirens and the sultry weather.

The Indian batsmen overcame the wiles of Warne because they have played more slower balls than fast. Simply put, the critical statistical data is the number of man-hours involved in playing slow and fast bowlers. India today lack a couple of genuine fast bowlers of world class, as the Pakistan pair of 2Ws (Pakistan is situated at a higher latitude). The same is the problem with the mighty one dayers - Sri Lanka short of genuine pace (nearer the Equator).

Why cricket is so popular? It is a game of instinct (a trial between two individuals), the replication of man the traditional hunter from the era of the forefathers. The origin of cricket is not far to seek danda gulli. Pick up a stick and hit at the moving spot coming at you. That's cricket, if you are padded up in flannel, gloves helmet and spiked boots. How's that? Not out!

Villeneuve leaving Williams LONDON, July 24: Formula

One auto racing champion Jacques Villeneuve confirmed Thursday that he's leaving Williams to team up with the new British American Racing team, reports AP. The 27-year-old Canadian, who has struggled this season behind the McLarens and Ferraris, is a close friend of BAR's managing director, Craig Pollock, and will join the former Tyrrell outfit as soon as his contract with Williams ends at the end of this season. The widely-expected transfer has prompted speculation of other big moves as the major teams prepare for next season. IndyCar series leader Alex Zanardi has been linked with a possible move back into Formula One. Some reports have suggested he will team up with Villeneuve, a former IndyCar champion, or would replace him at Williams.

It also has been suggested that Williams' other driver Germany's Heinz-Harald Frentzen, might be moving on. Damon Hill, who won the F-1 world title driving for Williams in 1996.

Although Villeneuve won the world title driving for Williams, he, like Hill, has been frustrated this season that the latest model can't compete with the cars being driven by Mika Hakkinen and David Coulthard (both McLaren) and Michael Schumacher (Ferrari).
