Osama considering US warns of more military retaliation

LONDON, Aug 22: Saudi dissident Osama bin Laden. Washington's main suspect in the bombing of US embassies, is considering retaliation after US air strikes against Afghanistan and Sudan, a Londonbased Arab newspaper said Friday, reports AFP.

"We will answer Bill Clinton in deeds not words, the battle has not started vet," Al-Quds Al-Arabi editor Abdel-Bari Atwan cited a spokesman for bin Laden as saying in a telephone call from Afghanistan. The spokesman said the US air strikes had been failures. the editor told the news agency.

"Osama bin Laden is unhurt and the American attack failed to accomplish its aim in eliminating him," the spokesman Atwan also quoted bin Laden's spokesman as saying that the air strikes killed six aides of the billionaire fundamentalist — three Yemenis, two Egyptians and one Saudi.

Bin Laden is believed to be still in Afghanistan "under the protection of Taliban" militia. The United States said Friday it did not know bin Laden's whereabouts.

President Bill Clinton on Thursday named bin Laden as the mastermind behind the embassy bombings in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam on August 7.

Clinton also blamed the bin Laden network for the deaths of Belgian, Pakistani and US peacekeepers in Somalia, a plot to assassinate the President of Egypt, a bombing of the Egyptian Embassy in Pakistan and the murders of Germany tourists in Egypt.

The President also said that the group planned to bomb US Boeing 747 aircraft.

strikes against terrorists WASHINGTON, Aug 22: The United States warned Friday it war of the future, and I think we have to understand the imporcould launch more military tance of having a sustained opstrikes in a "sustained" cameration here," she said.

Emerging from their briefing, members of Congress described an escalation of the US campaign against terrorism.

"We are in an escalating period," said senator Gordon Smith, a Republican from Oregon. "We should not be panicked but we should be prepared for a new kind of warfare."

Senator Charles Robb, a Democrat from Virginia, said the US attacks were "a new ball game, a welcome new ball game.

The missile strikes Thursday inflicted major damage on suspected terrorist training bases in Afghanistan run by Saudi extremist Osama bin Laden, a senior White House official said.

They also "functionally destroyed" a pharmaceutical plant in Sudan suspected of aiding the manufacture of chemical weapons, said national security adviser Sandy Berger. "I am absolutely certain that had we not done this we would have been the victim of attacks in the not-so-distant future. Berger said after a one-hour meeting with President Bill Clinton and his foreign policy advisers. Clinton returned to his family vacation in Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts late Friday which he had interrupted Thursday to return to the capital. In New York, Sudan filed a formal complaint with the UN Security Council and called for an emergency council meeting. Sudan's UN Ambassador Mohammed Erwa handed the protest to council president Danilo Turk and diplomats said Turk would consult with other council members on whether to call a meeting.

UN chief Kofi Annan was "concerned" by the missile at-tacks, the UN said Thursday, adding that he condemned terrorism in all its forms.

Many in the Muslim world, along with Russia and India, criticised the launch of at least 75 cruise missiles at facilities linked to bin Laden, a Saudi multimillionaire, US officials believe masterminded twin bombings August 7 at US em-bassies in Kenya and Tanzania. Fears of retaliation for the missile strikes were "very high," according to a senior US official amid Muslim threats of a Jihad, or holy war, against the United States.

The State Department issued a worldwide warning to Americans to "exercise much greater caution than usual" while security was stepped up for the 7,000 US troops serving in Bosnia with the NATO-led stabilization force.

US allies defended the strikes and warned their nationals to avoid Afghanistan and Sudan.

Caution alerts went out after two UN workers in the Afghan capital were wounded by gun-men Friday while travelling with a group of other officials in a mini-bus.

Britain, the United States' closest military partner, "urgently" revised travel advice to tell its citizens to avoid Sudan, Afghanistan and Pakistan.

France urged French relief groups to leave Afghanistan while the German air force cancelled humanitarian aid flights to Sudan.

Joining much of the Muslim world, however, Russian President Boris Yeltsin condemned of the missile strike.

Religious activists burned US flags and torched effigies of Clinton in demonstrations across Pakistan.

A demonstrator wearing a mask in the likeness of President Clinton hoists a bomb over his head during a protest Friday in Boston. Chanting cries for peace, more than 70 demonstrators gathered in front of the federal building on City Hall Plaza Friday to protest the US missile attacks on suspected terrorist sites in Sudan and - AP/UNB photo Afghanistan.

Clinton gave Lewinsky

'going-away' gifts?

WASHINGTON, Aug 22: Last

was a potential witness in a against President Bill Clinton.

the pair met privately at the White House and he gave her an Alaskan stone carving and other gifts, sources familiar with Clinton's grand jury tes-

The gift-giving is the first detail to emerge about the last known visit between the two, a 15-to-20-minute get-together that is a key element of prosecutor Kenneth Starr's investiga-

on condition of anonymity.

said the president told grand jurors he gave Lewinsky a throw rug or blanket, a decorative pin her three additional gifts in the Sunday morning meeting, a point not disputed by the president - a box of chocolates, joke sunglasses and a bag from the black Dog store on Martha's Vineyard, where the Clintons have vacationed for three years.

items were going-away presents, the sources said. Lewin-

The president testified the Prosecutors believe he gave

and the stone carving.

The sources, who spoke only tion of obstruction of justice.

timony said, reports AP.

Hardline Taliban say

US attack not against Osama, it is against Islam

US missile attack

UNSC to discuss Sudan's

complaint tomorrow

ISLAMABAD, Aug 22: The hardline Taliban today intensified its attack against the United States saving Washington missile strikes were not against a Saudi dissident but proof of enmity against Islam and the Muslim world," reports

The Taliban's foreign ministry said in a statement broadcast on Radio Shariat early today that the US strikes again alleged terrorist camps in Afghanistan were not against exiled Saudi billionaire Osama Bin Laden. "The American attack is not against Osama it is a pretext to show their enmity against Islam and the Muslim world, it said in a statement broadcast by Radio Shariat.

The Taliban reiterated its pledge never to hand over bin Laden, who has been living in exile in Afghanistan. It also denied US accusations the shadowy Islamic extremist mastermind the bombings on US embassies in Africa Before the attack Osama has been transferred to a safer place and no force and no attempt can force Afghanistan to hand him

UNITED NATIONS, Aug 22:

The UN Security Council will discuss on Monday a Sudanese protest against a US cruise missile strike on a pharmaceuticals plant, the council presidency said Friday, reports AFP.

Permanent Representative of Slovenia, whose country currently holds the Council presidency, said "there was a consensus among the 14 other members that the Sudanese latter is best raised on Monday" in in-letter from Bishop Gobrial

Roric, State Minister at the Foreign Ministry, was still being translated from Arabic into whether the 15-member council would decide Monday whether to agree to Sudan's request for a fact-finding mission to verify

US claims that the plant manufactured a precursor chemical plaint Friday with the UN Security Council over the US mis-

Sudan filed a formal com-

for VX nerve gas, he said.

As a result it was not known

He said that the Sudanese formal discussions.

English.

sile attack.

Samuel Zbogar, Deputy

over to the American government, the Taliban said.

Osama is a guest of the Afghan people who has assured that he will not act from the territory of Afghanistan against any country, it said.

"He is not believed to be involved in the Nigeria and Kenya bombings, the Taliban statement added

"Therefore the American aggression against Afghan territory has no justification."

"This is a unilateral decision by that country (United States) which will not prevent the anti-US feelings of the Afghan na-

The Taliban also reiterated their pledge to protect shadowy Saudi dissident Osama bin Laden whom Washington accused of masterminding the bombings against US embassies in Nigeria and Kenya which killed 257 people including 12

Americans earlier this month. "The American attack is not against Osama. It is a prefect to show their enmity against Islam and the Muslim world," it said in the same broadcast.

Diplomats in Washington await instructions

Sudan invites US to inspect alleged chemical arms plant

BAGHDAD, Aug 22: Sudanese Foreign Minister Mustafa Osman Ismail asked the United States on Friday to send a factfinding committee to inspect the alleged chemical weapons factory in Khartoum, reports paign against terrorists following missile attacks on targets in Sudan and Afghanistan, re-

Cohen said new strikes were "a possibility" and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright spoke of a long-term struggle in "the

that we are developing, there may be more (strikes) in the future," Cohen said after briefing members of Congress with Albright and General Hugh Shelton, Chairman of the joint

Sudanese Foreign Minister

Osman Ismail immediately

warned that any new strike against Sudan would bring rest assured that it will not escape justice from the Sudanese people, the Arab and African peoples, and the international community if it repeats this action again," Ismail told jour-

States was engaged in a long-

Albright said the United

"This is unfortunately the

"The United States should

"We have contingency plans

Defence Secretary William

ports AFP.

war of the future."

chiefs of staff.

swift retaliation.

nalists in Baghdad

term struggle.

The foreign minister spoke to reporters after arriving in Baghdad a day after US missiles devastated a factory in the Sudanese capital. The United States said the plant produced the ingredients of chemical weapons. Sudan said it produced pharmaceutical products.

"We, as Sudanese, are ready to receive a specialised committee from the American administration to come and freely investigate whether this factory ... has anything to do with chemical (weapons)," Ismail said. Such a committee could also check whether the factory was owned by Osama Bin Laden, the Afghanistan-based extremist whom the Americans have blamed for the bombings of its embassies in Kenya and Tanzania on Aug 7, the foreign min-

If the Americans proved the factory was producing chemical agents. "We will accept the attempt (attack)," Ismail added.

The foreign minister said Sudan was also inviting the UN Security Council to send a committee to investigate the Ismail, who is making a three-day visit to Iraq, crossed into the country from Jordan UN sanctions imposed after Iraq's invasion of Kuwait in 1990 ban flights to and from

Meanwhile, Sudanese diplomats in Washington said Friday they were waiting for instructions from their government amid reports they were called home in the aftermath of the US missile strike.

Ambassador Mahdi Ibrahim Mohammed already was out of the country a spokesman for the embassy said. "We've heard the media rebut there is no confirmed decision," said Eltayeb Ali Ahmed,

the embassy's press spokesman,

"We are awaiting instructions

Security tightened, most Americans support

US can claim partial success

ports we're being called home

from Khartoum."

Government offices in the Sudanese capital normally are closed on Friday.

There was no stepped up security at the three-story embassy building in northwest Washington, and Ahmed said none had been requested.

"We don't feel there is any need," Ahmed said. "Our door is open and our purpose is to improve communications between the two governments."

He contrasted this with the "strange situation" in Khartoum where US diplomats ac credited to the government reside in Nairobi, Kenya and make periodic visits to Sudan which is on a US list of countries whose governments al legedly sponsor terrorism.

The No 2 official on the fiveperson embassy staff, Mirghani Mohammed Salih, told a news conference earlier in the day that the plant hit by US missiles manufactured medicines including anti-malaria drugs, and was privately owned.

'3 suspects held in Kenya confess to links with Osama bin Laden'

NAIROBI, Aug 22: Three men being held by Kenyan authorities in connection with the US embassy bombing have confessed to links with renegade Saudi millionaire Osama bin Laden, a Nairobi newspaper reported Saturday, reports AP.

The report in the Daily Nation newspaper also publicly identified two of the suspects for the first time: a Yemeni named Khalid Salim and a Lebanese man named Abdallah Nacha. US and Kenyan officials had already identified a third man in custody, Mohammed Saddig Odeh...

Neither Kenyan police nor American FBI officials would comment on the newspaper report, which said the three were the same men who had been seen filming the American embassy in Nairobi days before the Aug 7 blast.

The newspaper printed what it said was a photograph of the Yemeni man, Salim, smiling with his hands raised and clasped, and said he had been identified by three witnesses as the man who threw a grenade at embassy guards just before the massive explosion.

The report did not say how it obtained the photo or when it was taken. The three told police they had planned the bombing while pretending to be fish merchants, based in the Indian Ocean port city of Mombasa and financed by bin Laden, according to the report.

Suu Kyi's health improving as standoff on

YANGON, Aug 22: Opposition leader Aung San Suu Kyi's health was improving as she entered the 11th day Saturday of her standoff with Myanmar's military government over her right to travel freely, her colleagues said, reports AP.

Myanmar, also known as Burma, remained quiet following an announcement Friday by Suu Kyi's party, the National League for Democracy, that it would convene the parliament elected in 1990 in the near fu-

Analysts in Yangon expect the military government will respond with arrests of elected lawmakers before the NLD can hold a parliament session.

So far, the military has not responded publicly to the NLD's call. However, past attempts by the NLD to bring its party's lawmakers together for a meeting were met with mass ar-sky was planning to go to New York to take a job that presi-Dec 28, when Monica Lewinsky dential friend Vernon Jordan was trying to secure. sexual harassment lawsuit Starr is investigating whether Clinton told Lewinsky to return numerous gifts he gave her over the course of their affair, instructions that prosecutors believe could be obstruction of justice in the Paula Jones lawsuit. If Lewinsky had kept the gifts and Jones' lawyers had found out about them, she would have had to turn them over as evidence.

Clinton's lawyers are arguing that his late-December giftgiving shows he was not concerned about whether Lewinsky had presents from him or not. His defenders also point out that Clinton gave similar gifts to many aides and friends and "didn't consider them a big

Yet the gifts, coming three weeks after her name appeared on a list of potential witnesses in the Jones lawsuit, also could be read as part of an attempt to keep Lewinsky quiet. At the time, Jordan was helping her find a job and had arranged a lawyer to represent her in the Jones case.

Off the Record

Anti-liquor movement — Indian style

NEW DELHI: Women in a tribal village in the eastern Indian state of Orissa have taken to chaining and beating up their drunk husbands in public to "cleanse" them of their alcohol dependency, reports IANS.

Women in Birsinghi, a village of about 200 residents, have formed a "Village Women's Council" to check the spreading menace of alcoholism in the area. And the movement is picking up, with women in neighbouring villages forming similar associations. The Times of India reported.

It all began when 30-year-old Jani Rudramma decided that enough was enough when her husband came home drunk yet another night. She dragged him out on the street and beat him up in full public view and the idea clicked with other village

Among tribespeople here, the responsibility of running the household lies on the woman as the men only drink liquor and sleep, the paper said. Instances of wife-beating are high.

The anti-liquor movement should begin from one's home. Otherwise, its impact would be lost and the people will not take it seriously." Rudramma, who is the president of the council, was quoted as saying.

Every evening, all the residents of the village assemble at the community centre and a "public trial" is held after which all men found drunk are tied to poles and beaten by their wives. Rudramma told the paper that the novel crusade which she started has made a headway. "To a large extent we have been able to succeed in our mission. Not only has the drive against liquor helped in improving our economic condition, our association has taken up various anti-poverty schemes and earned over Rs. 15,000 ($357) in the last two years," she was quoted as

Fresh landslides hamper rescue work in India

LUCKNOW, Aug 22: Rescue workers ran for cover from boulders hurtling down on a remote Himalayan village Saturday, where 202 people were already feared killed in an earlier landslide, reports AP.

Hopes faded of finding more survivors in the mountain village of Malpa, buried under mounds of rocks and mud.

No one was reported injured Saturday from the latest of nearly a dozen landslides that have rumbled down the mountains of northern India this season, lashed by heavy monsoon rains for three weeks. The total number of dead reached

The rain stopped Friday, but dense fog blocked a helicopter rescue of 18 survivors from Malpa, 300 kilometres (185 miles) east of New Delhi, said Ashok Kumar, the Uttar Pradesh state relief commissioner. Rescuers have found 32 bodies so far. The survivors, most of them injured by falling rocks and mud, are being treated by two doctors attached to paramilitary forces in the village.

Another report adds from Cairo: The Arab League Ministerial council will hold an emergency meeting at Sudan's request to discuss the US strike, a League official told reporters Friday.

level meeting of the League's 22 members will focus on "the US military action against Sudan and should announce Arab support for this country," the League's Assistant Secretary General, Ahmad ben Helli, said.

The League condemned the US attack Friday on the pharmaceutical factory in Khartoum, which Washington said was used to produce chemical weapons for terrorist use.

OAU concerned

The permanent-delegate

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug 22: The Secretary-General of the Organisation of African Unity expressed "deep concern" Friday over the US missile attack against Sudan - one of its 52 member states — and over the implications of the attack, reports AP.

from missile attack WASHINGTON, Aug 22: The United States could claim only partial success from the cruise missile strikes at suspected terrorist strongholds in Sudan and Afghanistan. Clinton administration officials warned of retaliation against Americans at home and abroad, reports AP. In Sudan, a purported chemical weapons plant was flattened. But the CIA and Pentagon were unsure if the strike in Afghanistan smashed a meeting of terrorist leaders as hoped. Cloud cover prevented spy satellites from assessing structural damage to the socalled terrorist university.

President Bill Clinton spent Friday calling world leaders before returning to his family vacation at Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts. The White House reported winning support from several allies, but Russian President Boris Yeltsin condemned the US action.

The administration said terrorist should expect more of the

Lawmakers generally praised the strikes, and Republican suggestions that Clinton was seeking to distract attention from the Monica Lewinsky controversy were more muted. "It was a very measured response," said Sen Rod Grams. As to the timing of the strike, he said, "It just shows the damage that has been done to the office of the president of the United States that these questions are being talked about.

Berger said intelligence indicated some damage to the six sites that make up the Zhawar Kili Al-Badr camp in Afghanistan, suspected Sunni Muslim terrorist stronghold Spy satellite photographs showed "the attacks have significantly disrupted the capability to use these camps as terrorist training facilities, Berger said.

Another report adds: Military brass, tourists and commuters all found Washington battened down a bit tighter then usual Friday, as the govern-targets for terrorists. The additional precautions which included extra police, closer inspections of identifiment increased security around buildings, monuments and subway stations that could be cation and packages and new barriers at some building entrances, are attempts to deter any retaliation against Americans for US air attacks Thursday on what the White House calls terrorist sites in Afghanistan and Sudan.

No injuries or damage were reported at any of the protests. which were mostly subdued gatherings.

Twenty-five people gathered in front of the Federal Building in Hartford, Connecticut chanting "USA-CIA out of the Middle East." The lunchtime demonstration attracted no

One of the protest organizers professor Sadu Nanjundiah of Central Connecticut State University, said the raids were "nothing more than terrorism on our part."

Clinton spends extraordinary wèek doing battle on two fronts

WASHINGTON, Aug 22: Bill Clinton was back on vacation with his family Saturday after an extraordinary week doing battle on two fronts - the sex scandal that has dogged his presidency for seven months, and international terrorism half a world away, report AFP. Clinton seemed to hit bottom Monday, when in the most embarrassing moment of his presidency he testified for more than five hours about his sex life before the grand jury of independent prosecutor Kenneth

That save evening, in a nationally televised address, he confessed to "a relationship that was not appropriate" with former White House intern Monica Lewinsky. But far from turning the page on the affair, most analysts and even his own advisors judged the speech a failure because Clinton turned from contribution to defiance directed at Starr's probe. On Tuesday the president and his family left for Martha's Vineyard, an upscale island respoken with his aides and congressional leaders in an effort' to explain his conduct in the affair to them. But many democrats did not hesitate to express their own disappointment and anger publicly. Those facing reelection this fall are especially worried. White House Chief of Staff Erskine Bowles has even offered to counsel staffers troubled by Clinton's "deceit" on the Lewinsky affair, according to The Wall Street Journal. While the sex-and-perjury drama was unfolding, the president was thick in preparations for the missile strike against targets in Sudan and Afghanistan.

Before leaving Washington Tuesday, the president was briefed by National Security Advisor Sandy Berger on preparations for the strikes which had been in the planning stage since the previous Friday. On Wednesday, far from the

TV cameras, Clinton celebrated his 52nd birthday among fam-

He continued to work the telephones, keeping up on the secret plans for the strikes in response to the August 7 bombings of US embassies in Kenya and Tanzania. Berger spoke with several congressional leaders to warn them of the imminent attacks.

Meanwhile, the Lewinsky affair continued to grab headlines. Independent prosecutor Starr summoned the former intern to his grand jury a second time.

On Thursday, at 3 am (0700 GMT), Berger called the president to receive the green light for the missile strikes. At 1:30 PM, the first cruise missiles were launched from American ships in the Red Sea and the Gulf of Oman.

Shortly afterwards, Clinton stepped out of his retreat to make a brief statement before startled reporters, then left for Washington to address the nation for the second time in four Lewinsky's second grand sort off Massachusetts, but not ily and a small group of friends. jury appearance Thursday, before Clinton had privately He continued to work the which lasted close to four hours, was suddenly swept off the front pages.

Daily television specials consecrated to the seamy sex scandal and all its lurid details were hastily withdrawn, and replaced by special reports bearing titles like America strikes back," and "Target: Ter-by the fight against terrorism, and not by the desire to divert attention from the Lewinsky scandal. · Most major American newspapers also support the US at-

"In he surreal and cinematic atmosphere that suffused Washington all week," wrote The New York Times, some critics refused to believe the national interest was at stake, and accused Clinton of using cruise missiles to blast the Lewinsky affair off the radar screen.

measure of scepticism.

An honour guard, left, and a gathering of media look at the largest piece of the hull of the legendary ship Titanic ever to reach the surface, following its arrival in Boston Friday aboard the French recovery ship Abeille Supporter. The 20-ton, 26-foot by 20-foot section, which was recovered last week in the North Atlantic by RMS Titanic Inc will be . . — AP/UNB photo placed on display at the Titanic exhibit currently visiting Boston.