Asian financial crisis hits regional IT firms hard

SINGAPORE, Aug 31: Asia's financial crisis has seriously impacted the information technology (IT) expenditures of regional companies, jeopardiz-ing plans to combat the feared millennium bug.

At huge risk are millions of small and medium enterprises (SMEs) in the region, on the low level of the supply chain, whose computer glitches at the dawn of 2000 could derail international trade with the United States and Europe, analysts

With less than 500 days to go, SMEs are the most behind in Y2K development in Asia-Pacific," Joe Sweeney, research director for the Gartner Group in Hong Kong told AFP.

He noted that firms in Asia most affected by the economic crisis had seen a cutback of 30 to 50 per cent in IT budgets.

"SMEs (in Asia) do a lot of trading via fax and phone there is a perception that the bug isn't a major issue if they only use PCs," he said.

"Companies don't realize that even minor interruptions on the supply chain... can affect especially when it reaches the level of international trade. it's the poor North American companies that are going to have a roughtime," Sweeney

With Japan in recession, incapable of lifting Asia into recovery, the region is counting on trade ties with relatively resilent markets in North America and Europe to help boost its sagging economies.

Despite the surge of it in Asia, the technology is merely viewed as an extension for increasing productivity as opposed to the United States and Europe, where it systems are at the heart of companies' opera-

ICC setting up service to probe pirate attacks

Star Business Report

A Rapid Response Investiga-tion Service is being set up to secure prompt counter measures when merchant shipping comes under pirate attack.

The service will be provided by the International Maritime Bureau, a London-based division of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) said the Chamber in a press statement.

The operation will be funded by a $110,000 grant for two years from the International Transport Workers' Federation (ITF) Seafarers' Trust. It expected to probe between 30-40 serious piracy incidents a year.

The new service aims to provide governments with prompt information about attacks so that they can take action against pirates without unduly delaying voyages.

IMB Director Pottengal Mukundan said the service should thus be able to meet the requirements both of law enforcement agencies and of shipowners. A further task will be to provide counselling for crew members who have been victims of pirate attacks.

"Only governments can be fully effective in suppressing piracy. Yet national law enforcement agencies complain that delays in receiving information about attacks prevents them from reacting fast enough to achieve results," the ICC statement quoted Mukundan as

"For their part, shipowners are understandably reluctant to have their vessels tied up for prolonged periods pending investigations.

Investigators attached to the new service will be rushed to the next port of call of a vessel that reports an assault, interview the crew. They will analyse the extent of losses and make a visual record of injuries or damage. This evidence will be submitted to the relevant law enforcement authority so that it can start investigations early.

In the past, attempts to bring pirates to justice have failed through lack of evidence, aggravated by the reluctance of some ships' masters to break tight schedules in order to allow crew members to testify.

Many of the attacks are in East and South-East Asian wa-

'Indian economy poised to gain momentum'

NEW DELHI, Aug 31: Finance Minister Yashwant Sinha said yesterday he was confident the Indian economy was poised to gain momentum and perform better, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported, says Reuters.

"The feeling of crisis is giving way to confidence and I am sure this sense of confidence will increase in days to come and the economy will gain momentum and put up a better performance," PTI quoted Sinha as saying in the southern city of

Hyderabad. Sinha said political instability was only affecting the sentiment and was not the reason behind the economic slow-

Economists say a slowdown in exports, lacklustre capital markets, a fragile rupee and shaky investor confidence have affected growth.

Commenting on the behaviour of the capital markets which have been sliding in the past few months. Sinha said: "some sentiments may result in depression in capital markets i is a strange animal."

Sinha said the impact of the economic sanctions, imposed by the United States on India after it conducted a series of nuclear tests in May, was easing.

"We have already forgotten the word sanctions there is also a rethinking in the United States on the issue since various studies have shown that America will suffer more if sanctions are imposed," he said.

He said now there was a better understanding of India's security concerns.

We have every reason to believe that our position on nuclear tests and security concerns are being better appreciated now," he said "whatever remains of the sanctions will fade away soon."

Sinha said the unilateral sanctions were hurting US interests. "They are aware of the fact that sanctions will cause more damage to the US than to a large country like India."

Japanese store says adieu to Hong Kongers after 23 years

HONG KONG, Aug 31: Shoppers looking for final discounts lined up in sweltering heat Monday outside the Japanese department store Matsuzakaya, which is closing after 23 years in Hong Kong, reports AP.

Matsuzakaya, which will closed its doors on Tuesday, was one of the several department stores to fall victims to the retail slump caused by the pro-longed economic crisis in the region. It employed 100 people in Hong Kong.

Last November, another Japanese retailer, Yaohan Department Stores, closed all of its nine Hong Kong outlets and one in nearby Macau, throwing 2,700 people out of work. Daimaru, the first Japanese department store to open in the territory after World War II, also announced it would pull out of Hong Kong at the end of The government reported last week that retail sales fell 16 per cent in June from the same month last year, with sales at department stores plunging 29 per cent in value and 30 per cent in volume. It was the eighth consecutive monthly decline since October when consumer confidence began to falter. Many retailers have been laying off staff and cutting salaries to ride out the retail slump. Tourist arrivals fell by more than 20 per cent in the first half of 1998. The government and some property giants have cut rent for retail stores.

Unemployment in Hong Kong is at a 15-year high of a 4.8 per cent, and is expected to climb further. The government announced Friday the economy shrank by 5 per cent in the second quarter in an official confirmation that the territory is in recession.
