To remember Flo-Jo

INDIANAPOLIS. Indiana. Sept 30: Florence Griffith Joyner, the world record-setting sprinter who died last week at age 38 of a heart seizure, will be remembered at ceremonies here on Sunday, reports AFP.

USA Track and Field and the Indiana Pacers, the National Basketball Association club whose uniforms Joyner redesigned in 1990, will conduct ceremonies at Market Square Arena.

Griffith Joyner set the women's 100-metre world record of 10.49 seconds here at the 1988 US Olympic trails, although many have contended the mark was wind-aided.

Speaking at the event will be Al Joyner, the 1984 Olympic triple jump champion and Griffith Joyner's husband, several 1988 Olympians and US athletics and Olympic officials.

King faces another suit

NEW YORK, Sept 30: Heavy-weight contender Hasim Rahman and promoter Cedric Kushner are together again. while promoter Don King appears to be out of 100,000 dollars and much more it Kushner gets his way, reports AP.

Kushner announced Tuesday he is suing King for damages in excess of 12 million dollars in a suit that charges King induced Rahman to pull out of a Sept 26 bout against David Tua.

The fight was to have been televised by HBO as a preliminary to Lennox Lewis' WBC heavyweight title victory over Zejlko Mavrovic.

The suit was filed Monday in federal court.

Kushner contends he has a exclusive contract with Rah man. He said he found out Rahman signed with King when Rahman pulled out of the Tua match.

"The question is whether or not King paid him 100,000 dollars to break his contract and not fight Tua," said Richard Edlin, attorney for Cedric Kushner promotions.

Rahman said King gave him the money.

Haleem Ali, Rahman's uncle, said he talked with King on Monday and was told, "If Rahman messes with him he could fix it so he wouldn't be able to fight (for a title)." "He said he controlled the ranking," Rahman said. Of his return to Kushner.

Rahman, ranked No 3 by the IBF, said: "I feel as if a load is off my shoulders and I'm ready to fight. I know I made a mistake and I'm trying to correct it and go on with my career."

Osieck named new Canadian soccer coach

TORONTO, Sept 30: Holger Osieck, a longtime coach who helped Germany win the 1990 World Cup as an assistant, is the new coach of the Canadian men's soccer team, reports AP.

Osieck, 50, was appointed Tuesday to the positions of national team head coach and technical director. He replaces Bob Lenarduzzi, who resigned in November in the wake of Canada's failure to qualify for the World Cup finals in France.

"I firmly believe that we have made the very best choice. said Jim Fleming, president of the Canadian Soccer Association. "He was our first choice and I'm excited about our future possibilities with Osieck at the Fleming received close to 100 applications from around the world for the top soccer coaching job in Canada.

He settled on Osieck, who was an assistant to Franz Beckenbauer at the 1990 World Cup in Italy.

Osieck was a defender as player and briefly played for the Vancouver Whitecaps in 1977. While in Canada that vear, he also served as an assistant coach of Canada's World

Azteca, Jalisco host Confederations Cup

UNDATED. Sept 30 (AP): Mexico's two biggest cities will play host to the upcoming

Confederations Cup, the soccer's world governing body FIFA announced Tues-

The eight-nation competition will be held in Mexico City's Azteca Stadium and Guadalajara's Jalisco stadium January 8-20.

Guadalajara was chosen over other cities such as Monterrey and Queretaro because Jalisco Stadium seats 70,000 compared to Monterrey's 55.000-seater — a spokesman for the Mexican Soccer Federation said. Azteca holds 114,000

National teams competing at the tournament include the United States, Mexico, Bolivia, Brazil, France, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, as well as the winner of the Oceania Nations Cup, still being played in Australia.

FIFA President Joseph Blatter will arrive in Mexico on Saturday to supervise Sunday's tournament draw.

Earlier this month, the heads of several soccer associations said they were unhappy with FIFA's decision to hold the tournament in January — when leagues in the southern hemisphere are in full swing and those in Europe are off With clubs required to release players for their national teams, many squads are left without their stars for league competition.

Two weeks ago, Australian soccer coach Raul Blanco urged European teams not to field second-string sides at next year's Confederations Cup despite it being scheduled in the northern hemisphere's off-sea-

Blanco said, it's possible that European nations may not send full-strength teams to Mexico if the tournament is held in January.

On Tuesday European soccer leagues escalated their confrontation with FIFA saying they would refuse to release players for the tournament in January

Representatives of the English and Scottish leagues said they had joined those from Italy, Germany, Spain, France, Portugal, Belgium, Denmark, Switzerland. Greece and the Netherlands in defying FIFA.

Meeting in Brussels. Belgium, the delegates said their clubs would not release any players because of conflicts with domestic league play.

There was a very strong feeling among delegates in Brussels today that this competition will only congest the fixture list and put increased strain on the players selected." Scottish Premier League chief executive Roger Mitchell said.

"The Confederations Cup is played in the middle of most countries' championship schedules and there was an overwhelming feeling it didn't make sense to have players taken away from their clubs at this stage. FIFA said last week that it would reduce the time clubs are required to make their players available for the Confederation Cup, but that was not enough to head off a mass revolt by the European leagues.

The United States, Mexico Bolivia, Brazil, France, Saudi Arabia, Egypt and the winner of the current Oceania contest in Brisbane, Australia, will participate in the eight-nation tournament.

Clubs in Italy and England. especially, would be hard hit by the loss of French, Brazilian and American players.

Italy's Serie A has 12 French players and eight Brazilians. including Inter Milan's Ronaldo, who could be called up for the tournament. They would miss three rounds of Serie A

In England, Arsenal would lose French players Emmanuel Petit and Patrick Vieira, while Chelsea would lose their French stars. Marcel Desailly and Frank Leboeuf. Two US goalkeepers. Kasey Keller of Leicester and Brad Friedel of Liverpool, could also be called up.

Moya survives a scare

MALLORCA, Spain, Sept 30: Carlos Moya won an epic second-set tie-break against Ion Moldovan to book his place in the second round of the Mallorca Open on Tuesday, reports Reuters.

The French Open champion took the first set 6-4 but was then held up on his victory march as the Romanian. ranked number 289 in the world, started to find his rhythm.

Moya, struggling a little in his first match on clay for two months, eventually took the second-set tie-break 13-11. He next faces Slava Dosedel, the Czech player who upset Spain's Carlos Costa 6-4, 6-3.

Another former French Open champion, Sergi Bruguera, had a much more com-fortable 6-3, 6-3 win over Czech Jiri Novak, while Alberto Berastegui was similarly untroubled as he cruised past Nicolas Lapentti of Ecuador 6-2, 6-4.

Fernando Vicente won an all-Spanish clash after his opponent Julian Alonso retired in the second set with a wrist in-

Israel's security concern

SYDNEY, Sept 30: Israel is pressing the Australian government and Olympic officials to allow its secret service agents to bring their own guns at the Sydney Games, a report said today, says AFP.

The Sydney Morning Herald said that following the 1996 Atlanta Olympics. Australian security officials met the Israeli secret police, Shin Bet, who said they would demand a range o special security arrangements for the 2000 Games.

The Israelis are known to have organised much of their own Olympic security, with or without the permission of host nations, since the 1972 Munich Olympics when Palestinian terrorists killed 11 Israeli athletes and officials. The paper said among de mands made was that Israeli athletes be housed on the second floor of the Olympic Village with competitors from neutra and friendly nations below and surrounding them.

Tyson has to wait a little longer

poned from Saturday after the results of psychological tests on the troubled boxer failed to arrive here by a Monday deadline.

Marc Ratner, executive director of the Nevada State Athletic Commission, said Tuesday he would not determine a new date until Thursday, after making sure Tyson's psychiatric report arrives.

"It's a matter of our doctors being able to read the reports and then getting all the commissioners together at one time." Ratner said. "I will eventually come up with a date."

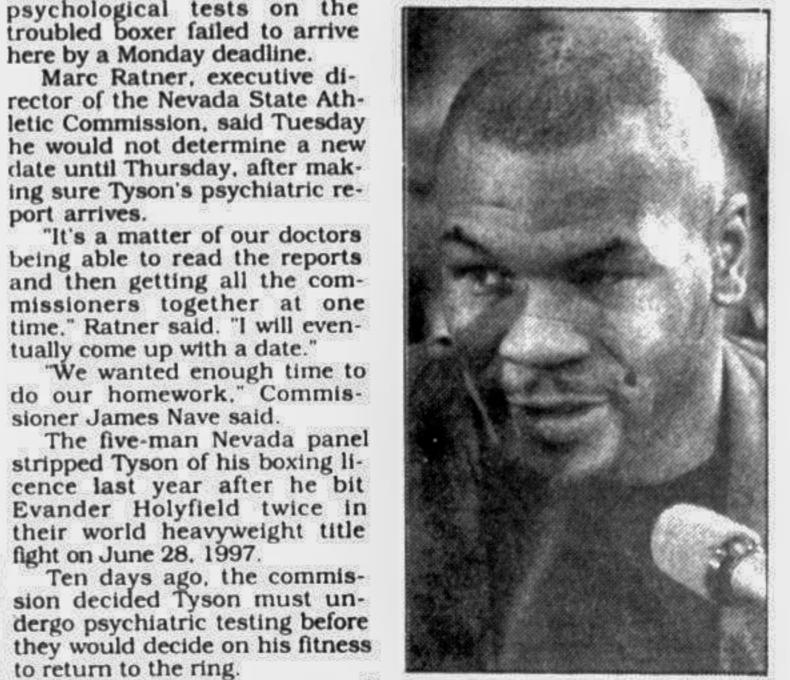

"We wanted enough time to do our homework," Commissioner James Nave said. The five-man Nevada panel

Kashmir preparing for nat'l winter games

SRINAGAR, Sept 29 (India Abroad News Service): Sending a strong message that the insurgency-torn state of Jammu and Kashmir is back to normal, the Ski Association of India has decided to train and select its national team on the worldfamous snowy slopes of Gulmarg in the coming winter.

This stands as a highlight of the national winter sports in Gulmarg, a tourist resort about 60 kilometres northwest of the state's summer capital Srina-

M Ashraf, state director general of tourism, told India Abroad News Service that the winter games would start in January. But the main event would be the training and selection of the Indian national team on the slopes of Gulmarg. famous among skiers in the world for the level of snow and Thirty contenders would be trained in Gulmarg and the final team selection made towards January-end. The team would play in the Asian winter games in South Korea. It is for the first time that the Ski Association of India has chosen Gulmarg for such an event. Association president Colonel Narinder Kumar has told the Jammu and Kashmir tourism department, the hosts of the national winter sports, that by doing so the association hopes to attract attention towards Kashmir as a peaceful and calm tourist destination.

Ashraf said the tourism department hopes to make a success of the national winter sports that covers various events like skiing and ice hockey. Jammu and Kashmir hosted the national winter sports for the first time in January this the greatest event of the Kashmir Valley in the restored democratic era after a prolonged federal rule necessitated by insurgency. The games were however year. The games were listed as marred by the massacre of 23 Kashmiri Hindus in Wandhama, a village in Chief Minister Farooq Abdullah's home constituency of Ganderabal. But Kashmir's tourism scene has had some bright spots this year. Apart from 150,000 Hindu pilgrimage in the summer. more than 100,000 domestic and about 10,000 foreign tourists visited the Valley in this period. "This is not as high a figure pilgrims joining the Amarnath

as over 700,000 we had in 1988, but these are nevertheless encouraging signs," Ashraf said. Medical Education Minister Sheikh Mustafa Kamal said the arrival of tourists in larger numbers than before in the nineties is a "definite sign of things improving in Kashmir." He asserted: "This message should go across."

Kashmir had seen a boom in tourism in the late eighties when on an average 650,000 to 700,000 tourists visited the Valley every year.

Of them, nearly ten per cent were foreigners, drawn from European, Middle East and Southeast Asian countries.

Though the arrival of the foreigners was far less, this has to be "viewed in the context of the unresolved hostage crisis (the whereabouts of four foreigners abducted in July 1995 are not known) and negative advisory by some of the Western countries, said Abdul Aziz, whose houseboat is anchored in the famous Dal Lake.

"These statistics hold prospects of brighter days ahead,' Aziz felt.

"We expect more tourists next year," concurred Yusuf Kandroo, a taxi driver who has had "best" of seasons of the past decade. He has made a number of trips to Gulmarg and Pahalgam, the two most preferred tourist resorts.

The arrival of more domestic tourists has encouraged the government to target the tourism potential within the country. There are tourists in various parts of the country. particularly western parts like Gujarat and Maharashtra, who have great spending capacity and we are eyeing them," Ashraf
