DWASA urges govt to extend stay of German team

Dhaka Water and Sewerage Authority (DWASA) has requested the government to extend the stay of the German disaster relief organisation engaged in purifying water in the city, till the end of this month, reports UNB.

The THW, a government organisation of Germany, has been running a water purifying unit in the city since September 23 and is scheduled to leave on October 17.

WASA Managing Director Khondaker Azharul Haq told UNB today that they have urged the government to request the German organisation to stay up to October 31.

Their stay for a few days more is needed to meet the demand of pure water mainly of the slum-dwellers and floating people in Agargaon and the surrounding, he said. "It is a temporary arrangement to meet the emergency need when the city's water supply is disrupted due to flooding." At present the water supply in the city has returned to normal as well the WASA pumps are operating.

THW team leader Michael Labonte said their stay depends on the necessity here and the government decision of Bangladesh and Germany governments.

WASA and different non-government voluntary agencies are now collecting purified water from THW's unit on a lake in the Agargaon national parade square.
