EINDHOEVEN, Netherlands. Oct 11: Frank Rijkaard made a winning start as Dutch coach when his team beat Peru 2-0 in an international friendly on Saturday, reports Reuters.

Goals by Jaap Stam and Peter van Vossen in the 58th and 75th minutes secured victory for the Netherlands, who are joint hosts with Belgium for the 2000 European Championship finals.

Rijkaard, the former Dutch midfielder who has never coached until now, took over from Guus Hiddink when he went as coach to Real Madrid after the World Cup finals in France.

The new Dutch coach did not change much established by his predecessor, though he was without a specialist left-sided defender as Winston Bogarde and Arthur Numan were injured. Barcelona's Phillip Cocu, a utility player, took that role.

Manchester United defender Stam thrust the Dutch ahead when he headed home a Ronald de Boer corner.

After a Patrick Kluivert scoring effort was disallowed in the 66th minute for offside, Van Vossen extended the lead with his first international goal since May 1994.

UNDATED, Oct 11 (AFP/AP) : Denmark and England suffered blows to sever their pride in Sat urday's European Championship qualifying matches -Denmark crashing to a humiliating 2-1 defeat to Wales at Copenhagen and England being held to a bitterly disappointing 0-0 draw by Bulgaria at Wemb-

But while the 1992 European champions and England struggled, France under new coach Roger Lemerre snatched an away win over Russia.

ENGLAND-0, BULGARIA-0

England's dour stalemate against Bulgaria at Wembley in Group Five was almost a major setback and Glenn Hoddle's future as coach looks anything but rosy after he and his players were booed off the Wembley pitch.

After losing to Sweden in their opening match, England were expecting a win - especially against a side so comprehensively beaten at home by Poland only four weeks ago. But it was not to be.

England, who travel to Luxembourg on Wednesday, managed to carve themselves too few chances. Their best efforts came when Michael Owen slammed one shot over the bar and Sol Campbell headed just wide.

> POLAND-3, LUXEMBOURG-0 Poland, meanwhile, went top of the Group Five squashing Luxembourg 3-0 in Warsaw.

FRANCE -3, RUSSIA-2

France, desperate to forget the embarrassment of last month's draw in Iceland, threw away a two-goal lead against a well-drilled Russian side in Group Four before Alain Boghossian finally netted the winner nine minutes from bagged the winner four minutes from time. Soren Frederiksen had put the Danes in front on 57 minutes but Adrian Williams scored straight from the restart and the Danes, who could only draw with Belarus in their first match, never recovered.

SCOTLAND-3, ESTONIA-2

In Group Nine, Scotland needed two goals from substitute Billy Dodds on his international debut to scrape a 3-2 win over Estonia at Tynescastle.

The Scots were staring defeat in the face when Maksim Smironov put the Baltic minnows 2-1 up with just 14 minutes to go.

But an own-goal two minutes later by Sergei Hohlov-Simson, the scorer of Estonia's first goal, let the Scots back into the match.

Estonia's Marko Kristal was then sent off in the 82nd minute following a collision with Callum Davidson and Dundee United Striker Dodds, who had scored the Scots' first goal, hit the late winner.

CROATIA-4, MALTA-1 Croatia came from behind to beat modest Malta 4-1 in Group 8 at Valletta. The Maltese, who have usually served as a punching bag for Europe's top teams, parried admirably and often caught the visitors backline dozing off. But they crumbled after the interval despite a 1-0 lead earned by Hubert Suda on a 28th-minute penalty.

Defender Dario Simic traveled forward and hit the Maltese net with a header in the 54th minute. Davor Vugrinec. making his debut, scored twice in the next 20 minutes, while master poacher and World Cup top scorer, Davor Suker, added the final goal with a crisp header in the 80th minute.

Croatia lost to the Republic of Ireland 2-0 in their opening qualifying match.

Papers call Hoddle to quit

LONDON, Oct 11(Reuters/ Internet): The campaign calling for England coach Glenn Hoddle to quit gained momentum on Sunday after his team's drab 0-0 draw with Bulgaria at Wembley on Saturday.

The goalless disappointment puts a huge question mark over England's chances of qualifying for the 2000 European championship and a question mark now hangs over Hoddle.

Sunday newspapers all castigated Hoddle and the team and most called for the coach to quit.

"The time has come for Hoddle to be honest with himself and the country by acting before it's too late," the Express on Sunday said.

"Resign. If not he should be sacked.

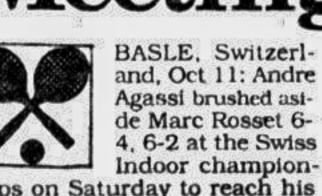

The People was equally blunt. "Now Hoddle should lose his job," it said in a back page editorial

The Sunday Times described the situation as: "Hoddle Cfisis -- England coach on brink after dire draw. The News of the World said:

"England were a disgrace. They were clueless, hopeless and gormless. It is hard to imagine how Hoddle can continue as coach after failing to inspire his side." The Sunday Telegraph headline read: "Point of No Return", with soccer correspondent Patrick Barclay writing: "This is certainly not the time for Glenn Hoddle to be negotiating a pay rise under the terms of his contract. Rather it is time to ask if he should be the national ships on Saturday to reach his second successive final and seventh of the season, reports Reuters.

The fourth seed needed just 54 minutes to dispose of the local hero, setting up a showdown with Tim Henman. The British number one had earlier booked his place in today's final with a testing 6-3, 2-6, 7-6 win over Sweden's Thomas Johansson. Agassi, runner-up at the Grand Slam Cup last weekend, enters the match looking for his fifth title of the year and a place in next month's ATP

World Championships. In-form Henman will be making his fourth appearance in a final this season. He also bids for his first back-to-back tournament wins after the successful defence of his title two weeks ago in Tashkent.

It will be the second time the two men have clashed, Agassi claiming one of his four titles this year when he toppled the Briton in straight sets in the Los Angeles final in July.

"The final will be a good one," said Agassi, now firmly reaching the final, speeding through his four matches without dropping a set. Early upsets that claimed the world's two top ranked players, Pete Sampras and Patrick Rafter, plus Australian Open champion Petr Korda, helped clear a path for Henman and Agassi, who never faced a player inside the top 20. By the time Agassi, normally a crowd favourite, had reached the semifinals he had already worn out his welcome with the fans having knocked out two other Swiss hopes ear-

The former world number one quickly dispelled any chance of an upset when he broke Rosset at 2-1 and never let up, closing out his third match of the tournament in less than an hour.

Henman, seeded six, needed a two hours 10 minutes to battle past Johnansson and stretch his unbeaten run to 11 matches.

Playing his familiar attacking style, Henman had the only break of the opening set and appeared in charge until the Swede took advantage of his first break opportunity in the second at 3-2. Winning five consecutive games, the Swede went on to take the second set and a 1-0 lead in the third before Henman could steady himself.

Henman looked back in control when he broke to go ahead 4-2 but then serving for the match allowed Johansson to break back, sending the match to a tiebreak which he recovered to win 7-5. "It came down to a couple of points and I won them," said Heman. "I hadn't lost my serve in a couple of days and when it happened it kind of threw me off for a while.
