that I can't accept," said Hitzfeld who had already handed Elber a 5.000 marks fine for being booked too often. Elber was suspended after collecting his fifth booking when Bayern lost 1-0 at Eintracht Frankfurt on October 31. their only league defeat of the season.

He was back from suspension in last Saturday's Munich derby against TSV 1860 and was booked again for throwing the ball away in anger. Bayern won

Two other Bayern players. midfielders Stefan Effenberg and Mario Basler, were handed hefty fines last month.

Effenberg was punished after being caught driving while over the alcohol limit and Basler for spending too much time at the Oktoberfest beer festival.

Kuwait's Cup joy tainted as coach chooses to depart MANAMA, Nov 14 (Reuters/Internet): Kuwait's celebrations at retaining soccer's Gulf Cup have been tainted because Czech coach Milan Macola is not renewing his contract. Kuwait won the biennial tournament with a 4-1 victory over the United Arab Emirates on Thursday -- their ninth success in the 28-year history of the competition.

But Macola said after the game that he would be leaving when his contract runs out in March.

"I have been in Kuwait six years and it's the best time to go," he said. "I have promised it to my family."

After four years in Kuwaiti club soccer. Macola took over the national team two years ago, leading them to the Gulf Cup just weeks into the job.

His second victory on Thursday was made easier when UAE had Adel Ibrahim sent off in the 23rd minute, three minutes after Bader Haji had put Kuwait ahead from the penalty spot.

Bashar Abdullah made it 2-0 in the 38th minute and although Hasan Suhail pulled one back, tournament top scorer Jassem Al Houwidi took his tally to nine with two more to complete the win.

favourite and top seed Marcelo Rios squandered a chance to become the world's number one player when unseeded Juan Antonio Marin of Costa Rica upset him in the quarterfinals of Chile's 315,000 US dollar Chevrolet Cup clay-court tennis event on Friday. Marin battled to a 6-4, 6-7 (5-7), 7-6 (7-5) victory over the Chilean world number two, who had to win this tournament to vault past American Pete Sampras and enter the upcoming ATP Tour World Championships at Hannover, Germany, with the top spot in the world rankings.

Sampras lost in the first round this week in Stockholm. and Rios trailed him by 605 points in the latest rankings. Sampras is now assured of holding the world's top ranking with 3,703 points to Rios' 3,670.

With the victory, Marin reached his third ATP Tour semifinal of the year, but not before Rios mounted a furious second-set comeback in their first-ever meeting.

Trailing 6-4, 4-0, Rios ral-

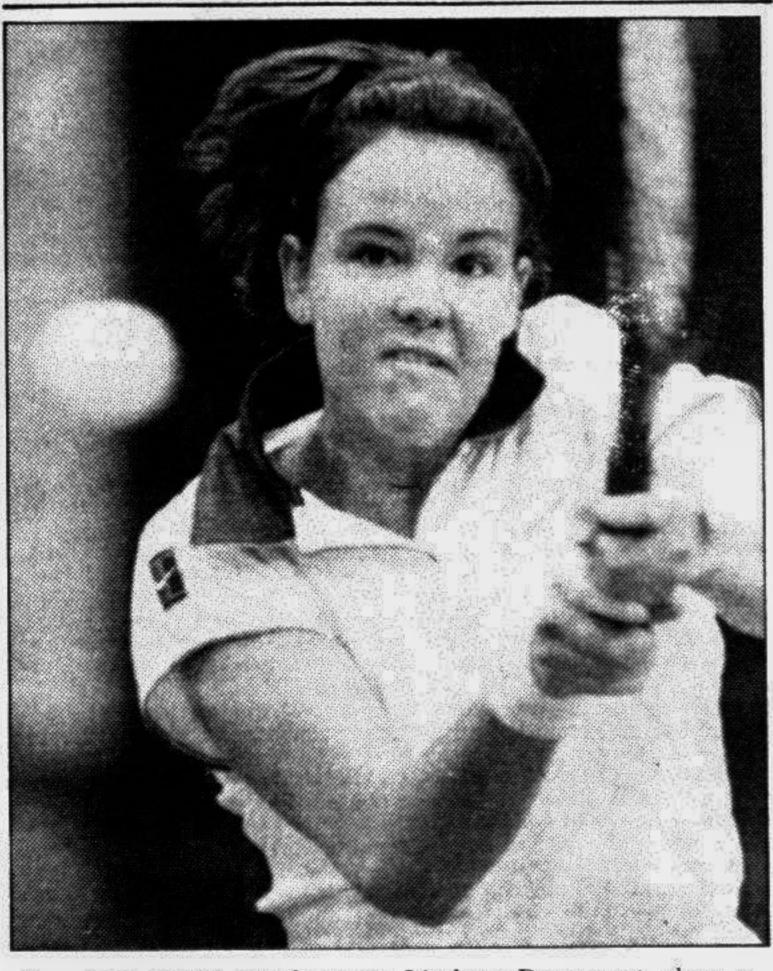

Clavet earned a semifinal berth by posting a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Nicolas Lapentti of Ecuador.

Second seed Felix Mantilla of Spain avenged a loss to American Jim Courier last week in Bogota by outlasting the former world number one 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 (8-6).

Mantilla -- who has won seven career titles, all on clay -will meet Moroccan Younes El Aynaoui in Saturday's semifi-nals. El Aynaoui, who has battled through two injury-plagued seasons, was leading sixth seed Mariano Puerta of Argentina 6-2,1-0 when Puerta retired with a left wrist injury.

He needed to win this event last year to clinch a berth in the season-ending event in Hannover but was stunned by Spain's Julian Alonso in the final. 6-2, 6-1.

Mixed bag on girls' bout

GOLD COAST, Australia, Nov 14 (AP/ Internet): An 11year-old girl is scheduled to fight in a boxing tournament which has been banned by one local government and condemned by medical authorities.

Zoe Norford was nominated for next week's girls' under-13 championship of the break-away Australian Amateur Boxing League, an official said Friday.

"There is nothing illegal about what we are doing," AABL secretary Dennis Magnay said. He admitted the organisation was forced to move the tournament from New South Wales to neighbouring Queensland because state laws against female boxing existed in the He conceded some people might be shocked by the idea of young girls boxing at the tournament, scheduled for Nov. 16-

"I understand how it can be a shock to their systems because it's something new, but given a few years it will be absolutely nothing," Magnay said. "We make sure that they are well protected -- that's the main thing.

"They wear a head guard, a compulsory breast protector. slightly softer gloves and box shorter rounds than the boys." Magnay said women boxers also had to undergo a pregnancy test the day of their fights. He said he was sure that in a few years, when people understood more about women in boxing, it would become more accepted.

"So many people are frightened about things they don't understand," Magnay said.

The Australian Medical Association is opposed to al forms of boxing but will campaign to ban all fighters under 18 years, a spokeswoman said.

AMA national president David Brand has said young boxers exhibited early evidence of brain damage in some studies, despite not being able to punch as hard as older fighters

"The danger of boxing for young people was underscored by the 1987 death in the United Kingdom of a 15-year-old amateur boxer, Joseph Sticklan, due to brain damage after his second fight," Brand said in a statement earlier this year.

"We are also concerned that young people may not be capable of making rational decisions about the dangers of boxing when choosing a sport."

The officially sanctioned Amateur Boxing Union of Australia does not endorse female boxers.

Graf rolls past Hingis Chase Championships in New nsylvania. Nov 14: Unseeded Steffi Graf, already recovering surgery, overcame a sore leg Friday to upset second-seed and defending champion Martina Hingis and move on to the semifinals of the Advanta Championships, reports AP.

Graf defeated Hingis 6-2, 4-6, 6-0 after having to leave the court momentarily for medical treatment on a pulled leg muscle. When she returned, Graf quickly retook command, allowing Hingis only eight points in the final five games.

Graf will meet sixth-seed Nathalie Tauziat, who downed Amanda Coetzer 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, in one semifinal matchup Saturday. No 1 seed Lindsay Davenport, the top-ranked player in the world, and fifth-seeded Monica Seles, also winners Friday, will face off in the York next week, which happened Thursday thanks to Seles' defeat of Ai Sugiyama, helped her get over her leg

"While they were working on it I just tried to tell myself to go for everything and go as long as you can," said Graf, who has competed in just 12 tournaments this season. "After making the (Chase) Championships. I felt I had nothing to lose. The only way to beat her is to go for my shots."

It paid off particularly against Hingis' serve, which Graf broke eight times in 12 attempts to run her record to 6-1 lifetime against Hingis. As for her sudden run of success, after a frustrating injury-plagued year. Graf really has no explanation.

"I've had it happen many times, showing up at a tournament with no preparation, coming off an injury and winning." said Graf. "In 1996 I came to Wimbledon and arrived the Saturday before the tournament and won that.

The loss hurts Hingis chances of overtaking Davenport as the top-ranked player in the world.

"I don't know what happened (Graf) with the injury." Hingis said. "But after she came back she pulled into another

"I haven't played against her in two years, so I didn't know what would happen."

Davenport had to overcame a slow start to defeat Amy Frazier 5-7, 6-3, 6-3. A point away from being down a set and a service break, the 22-year-old Davenport rallied to victory to ensure a meeting with Seles in the next round of the 450,000 dollar tournament at Villanova University.

Seles had little trouble with her doubles partner, Natasha Zvereva of Belarus, in a 6-0, 6-1

Seles needed just 40 minutes to win her match. Zverreva claimed she wasn't bothered by a strained left thigh which was heavily wrapped.

"In the second set I didn't give her too many free points and was able to win pretty easily. But Lindsay should be a really good test for me," he added. After splitting sets, Tauziat.

chief's rebuttal MOSCOW, Nov 14 (AFP) Russian football supremo Vyacheslav Koloskov on Friday denied press reports that he was under investigation by tax police over allegedly illegal Swiss

Bank accounts, Moscow Echo

radio reported. Koloskov said the Swiss accounts, which the Novye Izvestia newspaper claimed broke Russian law, had been opened on the recommendation of international football's ruling bodies FIFA and UEFA.

The president of Russian Football Union (RFU) said funds in the accounts were transferred there by the international bodies and were only used by the RFU to meet the various expenses of Russia's national teams.

The RFU press-service denied newspaper reports that tax police were still investigating the organisation's budget.

The fine has not, however, been returned by the police, the RFU said.

OUR CHOICE

Super Sunday on Star Movies

Ernest Scared Stupid tonight at 10

Lovable know-it-all Ernest P. Worrell is in for a devil of a time when he accidentally unleashes an evil demon from its sacred tomb and is cursed by a 200-year-old spell. Starring Jim Varney, Earth Kitt and Jonas Moscartolo.

Millennium on Star World

Kingdom Come, tonight at 11

In Kingdom Come, Frank searches for a serial killer responsible for the deaths of several cleargymen. An Unkempt Man enters a confessional inside a catholic church and addresses Father Brown in mumbled, hushed tones.
