Tighter doping controls

HONG KONG, Nov. 18 (AFP/AP): Drug scandals involving top Asian athletes have forced sports leaders to draw up emergency plans to counter the growing threat to next month's Asian Games.

Badminton world champions Sigit Budiarto, and Susanthika Jayasinghe, silver medalist in the women's 200m at the World Athletics Championships, have this week seen their part in the Bangkok Games cancelled or put in doubt.

South Korea's women artistic gymnastics squad and a Japanese snooker player have also been withdrawn over doping failures.

After China's problems this year, there is a risk that this will become an epidemic. The Olympic Council of Asia must act, said a member of the council's executive.

Within our resources were agreed to tighten controls in Bangkok but time is running out. The Games start on December 6. But Indonesia's hopes have already been rocked by the drug failure of Sigit, who was banned for a year by the International Badminton Federation (IBF) this week.

Sigit, who partnered Candra Wijaya to the world men's doubles title last year, tested positive for the anabolic steroid mandrolone at the Singapore Open in August.

We are determined to be proactive in tackling drugs in sport, said IBAF president Lu Shengrong of China, a member of the International Olympic Committee's anti-doping working group.

Jayasinghe's case could also be decided this week by the International Amateur Athletic Federation executive.

A sample given in April by the 22-year-old star Sri Lankan sprinter showed steroids. Her suspension was lifted in August with Jayasinghe claiming test Federation executive.

A decision on Jayasinghe will be taken when the arbitration panel meets Thursday and Friday.

The entire South Korea women's artistic gymnastics squad were withdrawn after four failed tests. The four and a South Korean swimmer, who was also banned, tested positive for a diuretic in pre-Games checks.

SUSANTHIKA JAYASINGHE

Most nations were forced to step up checks after 11 Chinese athletes including seven swimmers were caught out at the 1994 Asian Games in Hiroshima. China's swimming squad was again shamed when four members were sent home from this year's World Championships in Australia.

No country can not afford to take the Thai hosts have carried out extensive tests on its competitors. Hong Kong's athletes have been warned against taking traditional Chinese medicines and Japanese have been told a cup too many of strong Japanese green tea could put them over the limit.

The Chinese Olympic Committee (COC), which cannot afford another scandal, says it has redoubled warnings.

COC vice-chairman Li Funing said classes had been organised for coaches, doctors and officials in every sport to be contested by China warning particularly against furosemide.

Li said special random tests may be carried out in sensitive sports such as swimming and cycling before athletes go to Bangkok, every athletes will get a written warning.

China protested saying that the IAAF should reconsider the banning of several Chinese athletes if Jayasinghe is allowed to take part.

A decision on Jayasinghe will be taken when the arbitration panel meets Thursday and Friday.

Philosophical Kafelnikov

MOSCOW, Nov. 18: World Number 10 Yevgeny Kafelnikov believes his form this season does not give him right to play in the ATP finals in Hanover later this month. 'Sport Express' daily said Tuesday. Reports AFP.

I am happy to play in such a significant tournament, but with the form I was showing this season I could not hope to appear there, said Russia's top player.

Kafelnikov said he was pleased to have clinched his berth at Hanover by winning his second consecutive Kremlin Cup tournament, but added: 'If (Patrick) Rafter and (Richard) Krajicek had not refused to play in Hanover I would have finished the season 10th in the world.'

He said he agreed with the words of Monica Seles, who said women's tennis has hit a purple patch, while the ATP Tour was experiencing hard times.

Men's tennis is in crisis now. Stefan Edberg has retired and Boris Becker does not often appear on the court and no shining individuals like Andre Agassi or Pete Sampras have appeared in the recent time.

He also said his countryman Marat Safin has what it takes to go all the way.

Marat is a mature player already with his own style. He is respected by the world's strongest tennis players. He needs to get more experience to become one of the best. His physical and technical opportunities are almost limitless, said Kafelnikov.

Dr Don King!

RALEIGH, Nov. 18 (AP/Internet): Boxing promoter Don King will soon join the likes of writer Maya Angelou, singer Dionne Warwick and world heavyweight boxing champion Evander Holyfield.

King will be awarded an honorary doctorate degree from Shaw University for his humanitarian contributions to the poor and underprivileged. King's promotion agency announced Tuesday.

Don King has shown us what giving means in its truest sense, said Willie E. Gary, chairman of the board of trustees at Shaw, a private school in Raleigh. 'He has fed the poor and employed the unemployed.'

King, who has represented Muhammad Ali, Holyfield and Mike Tyson, is an active member of the NAACP and a major donor to several charities, school officials said.

Shaw periodically awards honorary degrees for outstanding contributions to mankind. Other awardees include Angelou, Warwick and Holyfield. King will receive the honorary degree Friday at the school's 133rd Founder's Day ceremony.

Popov seeks clarification

SYDNEY, Nov. 18: Russian swimmer Alexander Popov has called on the Olympic Movement to speed up attempts to finally define what is a banned drug, reports AFP.

The International Olympic Committee is holding a drugs forum next February to find a way through the legal minefield posed by drug-testing procedures which are increasingly challenged by the lawyers.

The forum was called after IOC president Juan Antonio Samaranch questioned whether Spanish riders who deserted the Tour de France cycling race in July were fleeing possible sanctions for drug use. The tour was engulfed by a drugs scandal when police raids uncovered widespread use of erythropoietin (EPO) — the hormone that boosts red blood cell production so important for stamina.

We have got to the point in sport now when it's difficult to say what exactly is a drug, Popov said Tuesday.

We've got to define exactly what you can take, added the Russian who has been based in Australia for the last six years.

However, Popov, who turned 27 on Monday, believes Olympic winners do not need drugs. 'You have got to experience the pain of training, knowing that pain helps you make that extra push to win a gold medal,' said the four-time Olympic gold medalist who was voted onto the IOC coordination committee overlooking the Sydney Games at Atlanta.

Popov had an unhappy time in Atlanta, which he described harder by the introduction of semifinals, instead of the usual qualifying system of heats and finals.

It will be harder than normal but Sydney will be hard anyway. I'm getting old, he said.

But he was not worried about a new rule on false starts which means any swimmer who dives before the gun will be immediately disqualified instead of having a second chance. 'I'm probably the slowest starter anyway, so it shouldn't be a problem,' he said.

Popov, who survived a Moscow street stabbing after the Atlanta Games, held out little hope for training future generations of Australian swimmers.

I could give them some of my experience, tips on technique but it couldn't motivate swimmers, he said.

Department of Government and Politics made their way into the final of the Jahangirnagar University inter department football tournament yesterday with a solitary goal win over History.

Burkey scored the lone goal in the closing seconds of the match.

The winners will meet Department of Geography and Environment in the final.
