Graf to go down under

SYDNEY, Nov 19 (AFP/ Internet): Steffi Graf has entered the Sydney International in January, officials said Wednes-

Tournament director Barry Masters said the 29-year-old German, who has won three consecutive titles following a two-month layoff due to hand surgery, will return to White City on Jan. 10-16 for the first time since 1984.

Graf's win over Wimbledon champion and defending WTA champion Jana Novotna in New York on Tuesday means she has beaten the world's topthree players in a span of five

She beat Martina Hingis and Lindsay Davenport in Philadelphia last week.

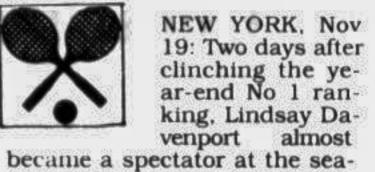

Graf's 21 Grand Slam singles titles are second only to Australian Margaret Court's 24. She has won 106 singles titles, including seven Wimbledons, five French Opens, five US Opens and four Australian Opens.

"I am looking forward to coming back to Sydney," Graf said from New York.

"It will be very good preparation for me. I need to play matches," she said of her plans to play the Australian Open in Melbourne after the Sydney son-ending Chase Championships, reports AP. Davenport was two points away from defeat when she rallied to beat Sandrine Testud of France 4-6, 7-6, (7-4), 6-0 and complete the opening round of the Chase Championships. Earlier, fifth-seeded Monica Seles overcame and upset stomach and a stubborn Anna Kournikova of Russia 6-4, 6-3, while No 6 Mary Pierce of France crushed South African Amanda Coetzer 6-1, 6-0. Having escaped one French woman. Davenport next will play another, eighth-seeded Nathalie Tauziat, in the quartournament. Other quarterfinal pairings will pit Seles against Steffi Graf in a battle of former No 1s. Pierce against No 2 Martina Hingis of Switzerland, and Belgium's Dominique Van Roost against Irina Spirlea of Romania in a meeting of unseeded

How true. With her right leg heavily bandaged. Testud showed no signs of the injury that forced her to retire from a first-round match a week ago in Philadelphia. She seemed to be in the right place at the right time to return Davenport's shots. And Testud replied with winners.

She captured the first set and led 5-4, 15-30 in the second, two points from a quarterfinal meeting with her French Fed Cup teammate. She never made Davenport survived. She took the next three points with two winners and an unreturnable serve. That made it 5-5, and after the two traded service breaks, they went to the tiebreak.

"It wasn't looking too good in the first two sets," Davenport admitted. "My game was pretty Testud had one last hurrah, game that has taken her to No 1 in the world. "The whole match just Kournikova never was able to get her game together as she continually double-faulted - 17 in all, including five in one

Still, she hit enough winners to reveal the talent she does have. Her groundstrokes were more crisp than those of Seles, and they frequently left Seles just standing on one side of the court, watching a winner sail

The 17-year-old Russian, making her Championships debut, also exploited Seles' lack of mobility, winning several points with drop shots.

But the veteran Seles, a three-time winner here in the Garden, won the points that counted. Now she has a date with Graf, who advanced into the quarterfinals on Tuesday by beating third-seeded Jana Novotna 6-7 (5-7), 6-4, 6-1. In her match, Pierce was

Seles counting on lady luck Jana Novotna in her opening

NEW YORK, Nov 18 (Reuters/ Internet): Monica Seles once ruled the season-ending Championships. Now she hopes her "lucky" victory over Anna Kournikova will help break a recent jinx and fortify her for a smashing showdown on Thursday with great rival Steffi Graf. Seles, weakened since Sunday by a mysterious stomach ailment, feasted on a whopping 17 double faults by generous Russian teen-ager Anna Kournikova and scored a 6-4, 6-3 victory Wednesday night -her first in the Championships since winning the event for the third straight time in 1992. "I have had just terrible luck here the past four years since I have come back," said Seles, who also missed a couple of Championships during her recuperation from the back-stabbing incident in Hamburg in

"In '95 I couldn't play. In '96, I had to default in the match (against Kimiko Date because of a shoulder injury). "Last year (against Arantxa Sanchez-Vicario) it was one of the worst matches of my career So I really haven't been lucky I've had kind of a bad streak coming in.

The bad streak could well continue, since Seles is going up against red-hot Graf, winner of her last two tournaments after coming back from an injuryplagued season. Graf vanquished Wimbledon champion match at Madison Square Gar-

But Seles believes her Garden luck might be changing. "I was lucky to pull it out tonight," said the 24-year-old Seles, who reported she has not been able to keep any food down since Sunday afternoon. "I just said, give it my best shot," revealed Seles. "If at some point I feel (sick) I will just default. I just said I would take it one point at a time and go from there on. I was lucky that I didn't have to do that."

After posting her first Championships win in six years, Seles said she was looking forward to playing Graf, five times a winner of this event. "Definitely, yeah," said Seles, who trails the 29-year-old Graf 8-4 in career meetings but has not faced the German since losing in the final of the 1996 U.S. Open. Despite Graf's recent struggles with injury, Seles believes the former world number one will remain a force in the game. "I think she will keep on playing as long as she can," said

Seles, who won the Du Maurier Open and Toyota Princess tournaments and was runnerup in Moscow among her last five events, said she was not surprised by Graf's sudden return to the winner's circle after wrist surgery.

"I mean, knowing Steffi. she is such a perfectionist," said Seles, who is aware of how dangerous a foe Graf is. "Obviously .
