Nat'l Science Week in February

The 22nd National Science and Technology Week will be observed in February, reports BSS.

This was decided at a meeting of the National Organising Committee held in the conference room of BCSIR in the city.

The science week will be observed in two parts. In the first part, three-day science exhibitions and competitions will be held at district and thana centres across the country from February 1 to 18.

The four-day central exhibition and competition will be held in Dhaka in March. Best competitors from the district and thana centres will take part in the central exhibition.

The Ministry of Science and Technology is organising the week.

US embassy, USIS to remain closed Nov 26

The American Embassy, the US Information Service (USIS), the USIS Information Resources Center and the student counseling service will remain closed on Thursday on the occasion of Thanksgiving Day, a national holiday of the United States, reports UNB.

The Americans observe the Day on the fourth Thursday in November every year to offer thanks for the good fortunes of the previous year.

The holiday was first observed by the English settlers in North America in 1621 to celebrate a fruitful harvest with a day of feasting and thanks.

In 1789, President George Washington proclaimed that the Day be observed by all religious denominations to promote "A common spirit of gratitude to the Almighty."
