Games get ready to roll

BANGKOK, Dec 2 (AP): For a few hours Sunday, Thais will be able to cast aside worries about the lingering Asian economic crisis and revel in a spectacular cultural celebration marking the opening of the 13th Asian Games.

Several thousand people got a sneak preview of the festivities Tuesday when the final rehearsal for the ceremony was thrown open to the public at the last minute.

The rehearsal was originally supposed to be open, then last week was turned into a closed activity for what organisers said were security reasons.

"Besides, we don't want to give away the climax of the event," Somjaiyuk Engtrakul, chairman of the ticketing committee, told reporters about an hour before Tuesday's rehearsal began.

But stadium guards somehow slipped up and about 1,500 ordinary citizens were admitted to the crowd that was originally supposed to be limited to members of the press, foreign dignitaries, government officials and the Games organisers.

With the gates breached, the decision was made to admit all comers, and many of the stadium's 60,000 seats quickly filled up.

The lucky spectators watched 7,614 performers take part in a nearly four-hour show of lavishly-produced acts with the theme 'Friendship Beyond Frontiers'.

The combined budget for the opening and closing ceremonies is 70 million baht (1.94 million dollars) that includes a large share of donated and at-cost labour.

For an overture, songs written by the country's multi-talented King Bhumibol Adulyadej, the world's longest-reigning monarch, were played by the Western-style Bangkok Symphony Orchestra along with the Fong Nam band, a kind of ensemble with traditional Thai elements.

The emphasis shifted to the visual for the next act, as hundreds of performers in ancient Thai garb marched down the centre of the field to a majestic tune, followed by people-drawn chariots.

Hundreds of primary school students dressed in colorful outfits for the next two performances, celebrating both the unity of Asia and Chai-yo, the cartoon elephant mascot of the Games. Elephants have long been a symbol of Thailand.

The athletes' march then followed — with performers as stand-ins — with representatives of the 41 countries taking place in what organisers bill as the last major sporting event of the 20th century.

At the actual event on Sunday, King Bhumibol will officially proclaim the Games open.

Issaraporn Suktha, a gold medal weightlifter for Thailand at the last Southeast Asian Games, will then carry the torch into the stadium, and Somluck Khamming, a boxer who won Thailand's first-ever Olympic gold medal in 1996 in Atlanta, will take it the last lap to light the flame.

The artistic high point came next, as the warlike beat of drums announced the Gathering of Heavenly Spirits, a show based on the Indian Ramayana epic, the basis for much of traditional Thai mythology, literature, and performing and fine arts.

The field became a swirl of giant snakes, swans, birds, angels, and other mystical creatures, all cheered by the crowd.

Another performance celebrating the unity of Asia capped the show, with four large swan floats pulled to the middle of the field, to each tethered a giant balloon symbolising the sun, moon, earth and a giant lotus.

SCARY! Thai police confiscated these suspected bomb making equipment in Bangkok on December 1. Four Pakistanis have been arrested in this connection. The incident took place just days before the start of the 13th Asian Games in the Thai capital. —AFP photo

To avoid traffic jam ...

BANGKOK, Dec 2: The tens of thousands of sports fans expected to flock to the 13th Asian Games daily are being urged to use shuttle buses to avoid worsening Bangkok's world-class traffic jams, reports AP.

Bangkok has taken extraordinary measures to ease congestion during the two-week Games. New highways link the main venues, schools will be closed to keep parents off the roads, traffic-choking roadworks will be closed and thousands of traffic police are being deployed.

But Virach Chkativat, director of the Centre for Public Transport for the Games, fears it won't be enough if people insist on taking their private cars to the sporting events.

"I want to ask games spectators to refrain from taking their cars to the main venues," Virach said Tuesday.

Thais assign bug squads

BANGKOK, Dec 2: (Reuters/Internet): Bug squads will stand watch round the clock at the Asian Games swimming arena to counter invasions of insects from the countryside, officials said on Tuesday.

Thousands of dead insects have been found floating in the pools at the partially covered arena at Thammasat University on the northern outskirts of Bangkok.

Chiraphan Chanmanee, the Swimming Association of Thailand's coordinator for pool facilities, said pest control units had been assigned to exterminate insects within and around the pool every two days when the Games begin this week.

Belgian baffles Eyles

DOHA, Dec 2: World champion Australia Rodney Eyles was bundled out of the World Open squash championship in the second round by Belgium's Stefan Casteleyn who had never got through the qualifying competition before, reports AFP.

Casteleyn 24 won in 61 minutes 12-15, 15-10, 15-13, 17-16, and now plays the English left-hander Chris Walker ranked 12 the two have never played other before except in the English league.

Eyles who has had a poor season and only once progressed beyond the quarterfinals in four tournaments must have anticipated danger, because Casteleyn in past meetings had always run him close without beating him.

Casteleyn who since Monday is ranked 21 in the world said "I always thought it was a matter of time before I got one in on Rodney and, as it happened I did it on this big occasion."

It was Casteleyn's superb athleticism and his ability to play telling shots at the right time that carried the day. He was also calmer in critical situations such as at 13-all in the third game in which Eyles had fought back from a 4-3 deficit and in the closing stages of the decisive fourth.

This time, Eyles led 12-10, only to hit down to lose the next two rallies.

As the crucial game reached its climax, Eyles suddenly seemed to realise that his title was falling out of his grasp and raised his game to the high level at which he played last year's final against Peter Nicol, in Kuala Lumpur.

At the same time, however, Eyles was becoming increasingly tense and began to dispute the referee's decisions.

Casteleyn remained calm and got to match point with an incisive volley drop. But in the next rally, he mistimed his return at a ball which was almost hugging the backhand wall and the game went into setting.

Now both players scored alternately. Eyles won the first point with a volleyed drop and then was penalised for obstruction.

A backhand drop put the champion 16-15 up.

The Belgian's response was a volley drop, aimed only a hair's breadth above the tin. The ball died as it fell.

Eyles's nerve cracked and he conceded the decisive point with a desperate shot as his return of serve drummed the tin.

Australia had a disastrous day all round as Dan Jenson failed to justify his tenth seeding, bowing to Australian-born John White, who in September claimed registration for Scotland as Edinburgh is his father's place of birth.

Two games down, Jenson made a spirited recovery and saved a match point in the fourth game to stretch the contest to a fifth game before going down 15-11, 15-12, 12-15, 16-17, 15-10.

Jenson's exit left only two Australians surviving in the last 16, Anthony Hill, the seventh seed, and Billy Handreel.

Top-seeded Peter Nicol, of Scotland, had a comfortable straight games win, in 34 minutes, over Amir Waigh, of Egypt, but did not look at his sharpest.

Nicol's main rival for the title, Jonathan Power, of Canada, had to fight harder than the 15-13, 15-13, 15-6 score suggested against Tim Garner of England.

Power, who suffered a nasty ankle injury a year ago and who wore a brace over it, overcame repeated attacks of cramp and plays his fellow Canadian, Graham Ryding, in the third round tomorrow.

Japan's hope

TOKYO, Dec 2: Japan hopes to win at least 64 gold medals at the Bangkok Asian Games starting Sunday, a team leader said on Monday, reports Xinhua.

The Asian Games are an "important event for us as we look ahead to the Sydney Olympics in 2000," Teruji Kogake said at a ceremony inaugurating Japan's team for the Games, Prince Akihito the younger son of Emperor Akihito, attended.

"We would like to win more gold medals than we had in the last Asian Games," in Hiroshima, Japan, in 1994, Kogake added.

Four years ago, China won the most 125 golds, followed by Japan with 64 and South Korea with 63.

Japan is sending 634 athletes to compete in all 36 sports to be contested in the Games and particularly hopes to win gold medals in judo, swimming, track and field, rugby, karate and yachting.

Blues Boy at 9:30 today
In Blues Boy, Mitch, Garner and Ryan must protect a young boy's life when his uncle, fresh out of prison, seeks to kidnap him for information leading to the recovery of one hundred thousand dollars in stolen money. A young boy, Willy Simon, comes to the agency to hire Mitch, Garner and Ryan to find his father Ned after they
