

English refs to go high tech

LONDON, Jan 7: English Premiership referees and their assistants are set to get an extra item of kit next season — a three-way communications system enabling them to keep in touch, reports AFP.

Premier League's referees' officer Philip Don announced Wednesday that FIFA had given permission for the three match officials to talk via headsets in a scheme inspired by a similar experiment in rugby union.

"It is an idea we have been discussing with the FA since September and we have noted that rugby union has had these communications between the officials for a couple of years," explained Don.

"There is no suggestion that the comments between the officials will be transmitted on television like in other sports. FIFA does not allow this anyway."

News that the officials would be fitted up with microphones came after a spate of controversial decisions which prompted claims that linesmen had missed some incidents or failed to inform referees.

But Don said the new technology was not being introduced as a knee-jerk reaction to recent problems.

"It just shows we are into backward when it comes to technology if it can be used to assist the referee and the other officials," he said.

Don believes the microphone links will help linesmen warn referees of incidents that may happen behind their backs without having to flag furiously as happens at present.

Marseille sign Ivorian Guel

MARSEILLE, France, Jan 7 (Reuters/Internet): Olympique Marseille have signed Ivorian Guel for a fee of 10 million francs. The French league leaders said on Thursday.

The 23-year-old midfielder, who has won 35 caps for his country and was voted his country's player of the 1997-98 season, is Marseille's second winter recruit after Brazilian defender Edson.

Guel, who will mainly be in competition with Roberto Pires and Jocelyn Gourvenne for the Marseille playmaker role, could start on the bench in Sunday's League match in first round match against RC Lens.

The league championship resumes on January 16 after a break of four weeks.

Marseille face successive away matches against third-placed Rennes and second-placed Girondins Bordeaux.

Brazil blank Bolivia

TANDIL, Argentina, Jan 7: Goals by Eriberto, Lincoln, Fabio Aurelio and Edu gave Brazil a 4-0 victory over Bolivia on Wednesday, in a first-round match of the South American U20 soccer championship, reports AP.

Playing with their typical style of passes from side to side and swift forward rushes, the Brazilians easily defeated Bolivia, who only tried not to lose by a wider margin.

Earlier Wednesday, Uruguay defeated Colombia 1-0 with a first-half goal by Javier Chaventon.

Brazil and Uruguay head Group B with three points each. Colombia, Uruguay and Paraguay, who play their first match on Friday against the Bolivians, have no points.

In Group A, defending champions Argentina and Chile have 3 points, Ecuador, Venezuela and Peru, none.

The top three of each group will play a round robin final round for four berths in the world youth championship scheduled for April in Nigeria.

Inter rue Baggio's miss

ROME, Jan 7: Uruguay's Daniel Fonseca salvaged a 1-1 draw for Juventus at AC Milan on Wednesday after his teammate and compatriot Paolo Montero was sent off for a second consecutive match, reports Reuters.

Fonseca ran on to a ball from Antonio Conte after 84 minutes, turned inside defender Roberto Ayala and slotted a right foot shot under keeper Sebastiano Rossi.

His 74th Serie A goal cancelled out Demetrio Albertini's 27th minute spot kick and saved Juventus from their fourth defeat in their last six league outings.

Albertini had hammered home his penalty after Juve's Igor Tudor misjudged a sliding tackle in the box on George Weah.

The big Croatian defender appeared to have made amends for his foul four minutes after the interval when he headed home a freekick from Zinedine Zidane.

But the referee disallowed what appeared to be a perfectly valid goal, possibly for shirt-tugging on Oliver Bierhoff as the freekick was taken.

The decision fired up Juve who controlled the match from then until the 60th minute when Montero was dismissed for deliberate handball — his second bookable offence.

The Uruguayan was playing his first match since he was sent off against Fiorentina last month.

Parity was restored six minutes later when Milan's George Weah saw red for a late challenge on Alessandro Birindelli and with both sides reduced to 10 men it was Juventus who had the better of the losing exchanges.

Zidane came close with a low long range shot and Fonseca almost sneaked a winner in injury time.

Juve's point lifted them to seventh, still 10 points behind leaders Fiorentina, while Milan remain fourth.

Roberto Baggio missed a second half penalty as Inter Milan stumbled to a 1-0 defeat at Parma earlier in the day.

Baggio, who scored 11 penalties out of 11 in the league last season, stepped up to take the 72nd minute spot kick after Ronaldo had been brought down by Italy defender Fabio Cannavaro.

The former Italy captain, famed for his penalty miss at the end of the 1994 World Cup final against Brazil, hit his shot low and hard but wide of Gianluigi Buffon's right hand post.

"I did it to please the public," joked a relaxed Baggio after the match. "Seriously though, I just hit it as I would any other penalty but unfortunately it was too far wide."

Parma had taken the lead through Baggio's Italy teammate Diego Fuser, who curled a sweetly struck freekick inside Gianluca Pagliuca's near post after 51 minutes.

Their eighth Serie A victory of the season kept them within three points of Fiorentina who beat David Platt's Sampdoria 1-0 thanks to a 27th minute strike by Mauro Pui Costa.

Christian Vieri scored his first goal for Lazio in his first Serie A appearance after a four-month injury lay-off.

Hingis gets the better of Davenport

PERTH, Jan 7: Martina Hingis sent a warning to world No. 1 Lindsay Davenport that she's ready to regain her top ranking with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-2 victory in their clash at the Hopman Cup on Thursday, reports AP.

Although Jan-Michael Gambill then put the United States back on level terms with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Ivo Heuberger, Switzerland took the doubles 6-3, 6-3 to leave the Americans with no chance of reaching the final.

It was the Swiss player's second-straight win over Davenport since conceding top spot to the US Open champion in October.

Jelena Dokic scored her second upset win in two days, following up her win over Arantxa Sanchez Vicario with a 6-1, 6-3 defeat of Sandrine Testud.

But it was obvious from the first ball when Testud double-faulted that she was unwell. She generated little power in her shots, and after dropping the first set she called for the trainer. Although she continued, Testud barely moved for the ball and offered little resistance to her 15-year-old opponent.

Mark Philippoussis then outplayed Guillaume Raoux 6-1, 6-2 to give Australia a 2-0 lead. Although the hosts dropped the doubles, they advanced when South Africa could only manage a 2-1 win against Zimbabwe.

South Africa, who with France and Australia also had a chance to reach the final, needed to win 3-0.

Amanda Coetzer defeated Cara Black 6-3, 6-4, and Wayne Ferreira recovered from 1-4 in the first set to beat Wayne Black 7-5, 7-6 (7-4). But Ferreira suffered a groin strain during the singles and South Africa was forced to default the doubles.

face court action next week over complaints that the broadcast of Premiership soccer here runs as a cartel, raising prices and blighting choice for fans, reports AFP.

At the centre of the proceedings to be heard at the restrictive trade practices court, equivalent to the high court here, next Tuesday will be exclusive broadcast agreements for Premiership soccer.

The British government's Office of Fair Trading (OFT) competition watchdog has filed objections to the collective selling technique of the Premier League and to exclusive deals struck between the Premiership, BSkyB and the BBC.

The OFT considers that "in joining together to sell their rights collectively the clubs are acting as a cartel and one which would be unacceptable in any other industry."

The OFT added: "There ought to be a number of sellers in the market, the clubs, but there is only one, the Premier League itself. This leads to higher prices and less choice for consumers."

The court will investigate television contracts covering two separate periods: the 1992/93 to 1996/97 seasons, and the 1997/98 to 2000/2001 seasons.

BSkyB Satellite broadcaster has agreed to pay the Premiership 670 million pounds (938 million Euros or 1.1 billion dollars) for live rights to 60 of 380 matches played each season between 1997 and 2001.

The BBC has agreed to pay 73 million pounds (102.2 million Euros-120 million dollars) for extended highlights.

Individual clubs are forbidden to sell coverage rights to other channels.

The OFT said in a statement that "the lack of other broadcasters threatens to harm competition and the development of broadcasting generally."

Valencia hit by Vlaovic injury

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan 7 (Reuters/Internet): Valencia striker Goran Vlaovic is facing a further three weeks out injured, the Spanish first division club said on Thursday.

Vlaovic, who played in all seven of his country's World Cup matches in France but missed the start of the current season with a groin injury, suffered further bad luck this week when he strained a calf muscle in training.

The injury is a further blow to Valencia, who will be without Adrian Lie for a similar period after the Romanian World Cup forward injured an ankle in a league game against Espanyol before Christmas.

BBC, BSkyB face legal action

LONDON, Jan 7: Rupert Murdoch's BSkyB broadcaster the English Premier League and the BBC

face court action next week over complaints that the broadcast of Premiership soccer here runs as a cartel, raising prices and blighting choice for fans, reports AFP.

Suker strikes Salamanca

MADRID, Jan 7: Two second half goals from Davor Suker led Real Madrid to a 3-1 win over visiting Salamanca and moved them up to third place in the Spanish First Division on Wednesday, reports Reuters.

And they could go top on Sunday if they can win at league leaders Mallorca. Mallorca have 29 points from 16 games while Celtic Vigo are one point behind in second place.

Real and Valencia also have 28 points from 16 games but are third and fourth respectively on goal difference.

Suker, the World Cup Golden Boot winner, has been kept on the bench for much of the season by Real coach Guus Hiddink but celebrated his recent return to the starting lineup with his best performance of the season.

The teams were tied 1-1 at halftime but after 54 minutes a cross from the Brazilian midfielder Savio caught the Salamanca defence sleeping and Suker was on hand to slot the ball home.

Real were on top throughout the match and they ensured they took all three points in the 70th minute. Dutch midfielder Clarence Seedorf bolted down the right wing and although his cross

Moeller wants million dollar compensation

BONN, Jan 7 (Reuters/Internet): Germany midfielder Andreas Moeller is asking his former club Eintracht Frankfurt to pay him 1.1 million marks over alleged irregularities in a transfer deal, his manager was quoted as saying on Thursday.

Moeller's manager Klaus Gerster said Eintracht were due to pay Moeller 1.8 million marks ($1.07 million) as part of his contract when he joined them from Borussia Dortmund in 1990.

The player received 900,000 marks ($536,300) and was later ordered to pay 1.1 million marks ($655,500) as income tax, based on the sum he was supposed to have received from Eintracht, Gerster added.

went behind Savio. Suker darted in from the left to put the European champions into an unassailable lead.

Salamanca though gave their hosts an uncomfortable few minutes in the first half.

Against the run of play after 29 minutes, a pass by Portuguese midfielder Rogerio cannoned off the legs of Fernando Hierro and fell at the feet of Carlos Casartelli, who blasted the ball past Bodo Illgner in the Real goal.

But Salamanca's dreams of an upset only lasted six minutes.

Raul Gonzalez nipped in to head home the equaliser after a Seedorf thunderbolt from 35 metres could only be tipped against the crossbar by Salamanca goalkeeper Bogdan Stelea.

The loss means Salamanca's woes remain unresolved. They lie 17th in the 20-team Spanish First Division and have lost their last four games.

After sacking former coach Miguel Angel Russo on Monday, backroom staff man Baltia Sanchez took charge of Salamanca for Wednesday's match, becoming the team's caretaker coach for the third time in as many seasons.
