 Los Angeles is perhaps best known as the entertainment capital of the world—a sun-kissed golden metropolis of glitz and glamour. An unprepared LA is facing its worst nightmare as an endless stream of fiery, deadly lava creeps across traffic-choked streets while wreaking havoc below ground in the labyrinth of man-made and natural tunnels.

 A Festschrift in Honour of AMARTYA SEN
 Edited by K. Basu, P. Pattanaik & K. Suzumura
 A Festschrift in Honour of Amartya Sen
 Publisher: Oxford
 Price: Tk 740/-
 Professor Sen is one of the few economists whose research straddles the expanse of the subject, and he has worked and written in an astonishingly large number of areas. In acknowledgment of the varied interests encompassed by Professor Sen's work, which would be impossible to represent in a single volume, the editors have chosen to concentrate on welfare economics — to which Sen has made a seminal contribution. Thus two related strands in his work are reflected in this volume.
