TT is the magical world of old Bengal that Rezwana Chowdhury Bonna takes us to with her collection of old Bengali songs. "Ogo Nithur Daradi" is a collection of songs, by Atul Prasad, DL Roy and Ra-janikanta brought out by Soundtek recently.

Bonna's voice is an institution by itself. Her singing style is accepted, applauded and enjoyed by almost everybody. She is next to non in the field of Rabindra Sangeet with this venture into the world of old Bengali melodies. Bonna shows her versatility in the range of music that she has mastered. Ogo Nithur Daradi is thus a journey into oblivion, it's like a pleasure ride on a gondola in

The smooth flowing music with enchanting words have made the works of great masters as DL Roy, Rajanikanta and Atul Prasad classics. They were unique in their field combining the best of eastern music to churn out immensely popular and memorable music in Bengal. The songs in the cassette therefore have a unique advantage of their own. Pices like Dhir Shamirey Chanchal, Aji Eschechhi, Amra Emni Boshey, Ogo Nithur Daradi, Ami Shara Shokalti, Jodi Tor Ridh Jamuna, Hari Premo Gogoney etc are therefore timetested classical numbers that most music lovers are already familiar with.

Bonna just takes us on a journey again through the world of these pieces based on a strong classical note and makes us relive through their charm.

Some of the pieces are exceptionally well tuned out. To men-

Reality, Extension of Reality and Cinema

The most prolific film-maker of the post-Ray era Buddhadeb Dasgupta conducted a six-day workshop at Goethe Institut organized by Rainbow Film Society

HEN I Look at a painting for some time I began to see images beyond the lines or the canvas. In poetry I perceive a pattern arising from the verbal signs, which appear, shifts and desolve in the mind. When I began to make films my only desire was to produce those non static images that I had seen behind closed eyes" - said the film director Buddhadeb Dasgupta comparing painting and poetry with his work. Organized by Rainbow Film Society a five day-long workshop on reality, Extension of Reality and Cinema ended at Goethe - Institute Dhaka, May 6. Conducted by the maker of such films as Grilayudda, Lal Daraja films Buddhadeb Dasgupta the workshop project had the slogan "Better Film, Better Audience, Better Society ". The workshop has had a very good response from the young generation of our country, their quest for learning really amazed the organizers. There were as many as 31 participants and most of them were students. The workshop was divided into several parts. It started at 9:30 a.m. and continued up to 5 in the evening beyond. The workshop began with a lecture everyday followed by screening of a film, then after a short break it continued with a discussion class and at the end of the day the participants saw the film again that had been discussed.

Course director Buddhadeb Dasgupta

On the penultimate day of the workshop the lecture class was taken by renowned West Bengal poet Samarendra Sengupta. Among the famous films screened at the workshop Paris, Texas - by Wim Wenders, Sacrifice - by Dream - by Akira Kurasawa and Orphan were notable.

Talking about the workshop project the Buddadeb Dasgupta said that he was very pleased to see enthusiasm among the participants. Buddhadeb likes to picturize the sociological interpretations of life in his films and visualize the real becoming the surreal and the surreal desolving into the real. He wants to share his knowledge and experience with the young genera-

Talking about the workshop

the Secretary General of Rainbow Film Society Ahmed Mujtaba Zamal said that he is very happy with the workshop, the society wanted to get the students interested in the workshop and the great response from them assured the society's achievement.

The Rainbow Film Society was established at 1977. From 1978 to 1981 the society organized many workshops. Now after 18 years the society once again started organising workshop projects. The Society has organized film festivals too including International Film Festival in 1992 and film festivals in 1995 and 1997. The Society will organize an international film festival in January in the
