European soccer scene

PARIS, May 14 (AFP) : Barcelona have what should be an easy home match with Valladolid on Saturday as they continue their serene march towards a successful defence of their Spanish title with their leading rivals - notably Real Madrid - already preparing for next season.

In Germany the fat lady has already sung with Bayern Munich confirmed as champions but in Italy the two-horse race between Lazio and AC Milan looks like going to the wire.

PRIMERA LIGA Barca may be coasting towards a championship in their centenary year but it is Real Madrid that seem to be making all the headlines at the moment - mainly for the wrong reasons.

Coach John Toshack has not spared the feelings of his wellpaid stars - three weeks ago he called them "goats" - as he begins the reconstruction of the mediocre "meringues". Yugoslav Predrag Mijatovic and Croatian Davor Suker have made their displeasure very clear at the Welshman's lessthan-subtle attempts to steer them towards the Bernabeu Stadium exit door. A host of other stars -

Clarence Seedorf, Fernando Redondo and Christian Karembeu Toshack's out-trav.

French World Cup winner Karembeu also indicated he would not go quietly, saying: "Next season I will be one of those who help Real win again." He conceded his form had been disappointing, however. As far as new signings are concerned Real officials opened negotiations Thursday with Arsenal's French striking prodigy Nicolas Anelka after the player revealed his unhappiness of his treatment by the English press. Real host Oviedo Sunday in only fifth place after a miserable season where the only bright spot was their World Club Championship victory.

Barca may be nine points clear of their rivals but even the Catalan giants may have to reconsider their recruitment policy if the Spanish players' union has its way.

The union is campaigning for a limit of three non-European foreigners on Primera Liga clubs - a notion that has received the backing of Spanish Prime Minister Jose Maria Aznar. The Nou Camp outfit's Dutch coach Louis Van Gaal promptly told Aznar that he knew nothing about football and should confine his opinions to politics. Real Betis host Deportivo La Coruna while Villareal visit the destination for Espanyol. Salamanca are home to Alaves, Atletico Madrid make the trip to Real Zaragoza and Extremadura square up to Tenerife.

Athletic Bilbao and Valencia is Celta Vigo host Real Sociedad while Real Mallorca play their match at Racing Santander on Friday as they prepare for their Cup Winners final with Lazio.

Lazio, incidentally, are a point in front of rivals AC Midondo and Christian Karembeu lan and will have just one are reported to be also in match left to play after Saturday's showdown with Fiorentina. Should they become the first team this season to win in Florence and relegated Empoli manage to win their first away match of the season here against Milan, Lazio will be crowned champions. But the likelihood is that this year's race will go right down to the wire, with Lazio facing a difficult game at home to UEFA and Italian Cup winners Parma, and Milan down in

Perugia on the final day. Lazio coach Sven Goran

Eriksson is having to ration his players' appearances before the clash with Mallorca.

AC Milan are also wary of banana-skins in their match against Empoli; a walkover in theory, but potentially difficult in practice if they get off to a poor start and then lose their

MCC women debut

LONDON, May 14 (Internet report): For the first time in its 212-year history, MCC fielded a women's XI and wasted little time in making their mark against a Surrey Under 21 Select X1.

The historic match was staged at the Bank of England ground in Roehampton and was the first of four scheduled games in the Club's busy 1999 cricket programme.

A distinguished crowd, featuring some of MCC's leading figures including the President, Tony Lewis, and Chairman of the Cricket Sub-Committee, Ted Dexter, saw an entertaining game end in a draw despite a superb unbeaten century from MCC skipper Wendy Watson. Surrey U21 won the toss, chose to field and immediately launched a containing campaign against the experienced MCC openers.

Lunch was taken with MCC Women on 116-2. Surrey continued to field well after the interval, but failed to make the breakthrough they needed. MCC captain Wendy Watson - who described the occasion as "a big step forward" - went on to make 102 before declaring at 225-4.

Surrey began their reply confidently, but never achieved the run rate required to challenge the MCC score. Opening bat Chrissy Rapley made a spirited 33 before being dismissed caught-andbowled by Coral Handley. An unbeaten 54 from Emma Beamish in a 78-run partnership with her captain. Sarah Midwinter, helped Surrey to 153 for 4 at the close.

MCC Women will play their next fixture on Monday 17 May against Oxford University WCC at The Parks, Oxford,

Maradona invited to Falklands

BUENOS AIRES, May 14: Argentine soccer star Diego Maradona has been invited to visit the Falkland Islands despite a ban on Argentine passport holders from visiting the disputed archipelago.

Esteban Cichello, and Argentine who also holds another passport, visited the Falklands recently and received from the islands' soccer league an invitation for Maradona and his family to visit, he told Reuters Thursday.

"To my surprise, I got an agreement to invite Diego with his family to visit the islands,"

Keegan free to take over

LONDON, May 14: The final barrier to Kevin Keegan being named as England's new full time coach has been lifted, reports AFP.

The Football Association are understood to have reached agreement with Fulham over a compensation package to enable Keegan to take over as Glenn Hoddle's permanent successor.

Fulham owner Mohamed Al Fayed had been holding out for a 1 million pound pay-off to make up for the 14 months remaining on Keegan's contract at the West London club.

However, it now seems that a compromise deal with the club has been agreed by FA bosses. who have also agreed terms with Keegan.

Lloyd, a bruiser and a gentleman

UNDATED (AFP): Away from cricket and you would have been forgiven for mistaking Clive Lloyd for a scatty, short-sighted librarian, fretting over a lost book.

Athletes, after all, are not meant to stoop, wear thicklensed spectacles nor speak in quiet and gentlemanly tones. In the cricketing covers or at the crease, however, the West Indian became transformed, either into the most feline of fielders or into a batsman so brutal that he risked being accused of assault and battery.

More than this, however, Lloyd will go down in cricketing history as the man who marshalled the most successful West Indian sides ever seen. Juggling the regional rivalries of Trinidadians, Barbadians, Jamaicans and the rest Lloyd - himself from Guyana led them to two World Cups, in 1975 and 1979.

He played 110 Tests and make 7.515 runs between his 1966 international debut in India and his final farewell, 19 years later.

He averaged 46.67 and made 19 Test centuries. His first-class tally of 31,232 runs included 79 order batsman. It wasn't so much what he did, however, as how he did it.

Not bad for a lower middle-

His innings of 102 for the West Indies in the 1975 inaugural World Cup final was a per-fect example of his methods.

Facing a crisis, with the West Indies at 50 for three, he responded by thrashing the Australian attack, including the great Dennis Lillee and Jeff Thomson, into submission with a merciless array of strokes all around the wicket. At Lancashire, his English county, he was regarded in awe. That same season, he hit six centuries for them, four in succession. The first of them, against Surrey at the Oval, reportedly included his mightiest hit of them all.

A full-blooded hook off English pace bowler Robin Jack-man landed among the traffic of Harleyford Road. The Oval groundsman Harry Brind estimated it at 150 yards - "easy". A year later, touring with the West Indies, he hit a double-century in two hours against Glamorgan which included 154 - seven sixes and 28 fours - in boundaries. The second hundred came in 40 minutes. Soon, however, Lloyd's knees began to give out. He hid in the slips for a while before. in 1985, finally calling it a day.

Ironically Lloyd today, as West Indies team manager, is overseeing a slow, sad decline in Caribbean cricket. His fans, however, prefer to remember his playing days. For county cricket as an allrounder, first at Worcestershire and then at Essex. "The whole occasion is just massive for me," said the 25year-old in his strong Australian accent. "It does have the extra spice for me because I grew up there." Brinkley is now concentrating on teaching after failing to establish himself as a professional cricketer. He seemed set to quit the game for good until he was lured back on an amateur basis by Scottish coach Jim Love in time for the World

"It is so pleasurable just to play for sheer enjoyment again," Brinkley said.

The Scots, who have yet to play an official one-dayer, got into the World Cup by finishing third in the 1997 ICC Trophy. They have limited their ambitions on Sunday to trying to be competitive - for most of the Commerce and Industries Minister Tofail Ahmed is expected to inaugurate the competition at the new-look stadium. Twenty-two teams, all 20 teams of the metropolise senior football league (Premier and First Divisions) along with the office league and services champions, will compete in the tourney. Eighteen teams, split into four groups, will participate in the knockout basis first phase.

Premiership race comes down to the wire

Alex Ferguson will have a mountain of chewing gum at his dispo-

when Manchester United take on Tottenham Hotspur at Old Trafford in a test of nerve that will decide the destiny of this season's English Premiership title, reports AFP. The Scot, who likes to chew away his touchline jitters, knows that victory in front of their own fans will guarantee a fifth title in seven years. Anything less, and Arsenal will be ready to pounce. Arsene Wenger's side, who trail United by a point going into the final game, host Aston Villa at Highbury hoping for a win and a United slip-up to retain their title.
