Portraying Life of Polish Muslims

A Week-long photo exhibition on Polish Muslims opens at Shilpakala Academy gallery on July 12

By Fayza Haq

A photo exhibition of the life of the Polish Muslims will open at the Shilpakala Academy on the 12th of July and this will continue till the 18th of July.

The Polish Muslims are the Polish Tartars. These Tartars live in Poland today as descendants of settlers of the second half of the 17th century. The Moslems have enjoyed religious freedom and the settlers are either handicraftsmen or tanners or tradesmen. When Poland had been divided between its neighbours between Prussia, Russia and Austria, the Tartars did not create their own troops or cultural or social organisations. However, they took part in the struggles for Poland and a Tartar cavalry was formed. During the second World War the Tartar Muslims, like all other Polish people took part in the fight against Germany and the soviet Union. After the war, a lot of Tartars from the districts of Wilno and Nowogrodek, which was captured by the Soviet Unions, moved to Poland as repatriates.

The Tartars celebrate the birth of a boy or girl child with the 'azan'. The child is placed next to the Koran along with bread, salt, water and burning candles. The imam recites prayers and the child's name is kept. After sometime the circumcision of the boy takes place.

During a Tartar marriage there is more burning of candles, and placing of bread and salt. The imam writes into the contract the sum which the husband will pay in case of divorce. The girl's face is covered with a veil and wedding rings are exchanged.

For the Tartar funeral the imam is there too with the nose and ears of the corpse filled with cotton wool, and the body covered with a woollen grave-cloth. Candles are burnt and prayers are read. When the mourners return home they share a sweet dish.

The Polish Muslims are Sunnis. The Tartars are not hindered from free practicing and teaching of their religion. They offer 'zakat' and observe Ramzan, 'Kurban' is also observed keeping Abraham's offering of his son to God. The death of the martyr Hussein or Ashura is also kept in mind when a complot is drunk after a ceremonial dinner. Similarly, the Prophet Muhammad's birth is also observed among the Polish Muslims.

Natya Nandan Starts Its Journey

Publication ceremony of first ever theatre tabloid held

By Cultural Correspondent

JULY 7, 1999. Very few newspapers cover the events and articles on theater and drama. Four or five daily newspapers cover these events in their culture page. The real Drama Newspapers, that cover the cultural events, are rare to find, especially in our country. The few remaining theater newspapers are filled with intellectual discussions that the readers find hard to digest.

Natya Nandan is one of the pioneering newspapers to start writing on the play's staged in our country. Their main objective is to bring under focus the theater events from all over the country and to serve the drama lover and critics with some easy reading articles on different aspects of our drama world.

The first publication ceremony of the Natya Nandan was held today at the Mahila Samiti Auditorium. Due to some unknown reasons the function was shifted from the Guide House Auditorium, where it was scheduled. The ceremony started half an hour late. Among the invited guests, renowned dramatist and playwright Ramendra Majumder and Sarah Zaker was present. Prominent cultural activist Sayeed Ahmed was also present as chief guest. Editor of "Theater", Ramendra Majumder congratulated the whole team of the Natya Nandan for bringing out their first publication and asked them to maintain the standard they have set with their inaugural issue. Sayeed Ahmed was honored with the first copy of the publication.

In his speech he thanked the editor of Natya Nandan, Rokeya Pracchi, Sarah Zaker and Ramendra Majumder for their outstanding contribution to the paper. "The few papers and magazines that writes about drama and theater are of very poor quality and there are very few independent drama newspapers in our country", he commented. He ended his speech by congratulating and thanking the effort and the editorial team of Nata Nandan. Among the guests drama columnist Kamal Uddin Kabir and a member from the Munshiganj Theater also spoke on the occasion.

In her speech the editor Rokeya Pracchi said that she was very pleased to see the dream to bring out a tabloid on theatre come true. She started all alone and now she could not count the exact number of people working with her for the publication. She asked all the drama activists and performers to help her and to guide her on her ambitious mission. Being inexperienced, she requested comments from them that would help the paper mature.

Natya Nandan a colorful twelve page paper contains articles and events related to drama performance of home and abroad. The first publication of Natya Nandan holds not only articles on drama performance but also many writings involving the peoples behind the scene whose contribution in a drama performance are no less than that of a performer. Reaching out to the drama lovers and critics all over the country and provide them with different topics on drama is their main goal.
