By Fayza Haq

ARTIST Halide Salam, a professor of art from Radford University, held a press conference with artists, critics and journalists at the Designer's Den, at Gulshan yesterday. She showed slides of her work.

represent a melding of the spiritual and physical struggle for existence. Indeed Halide Salam certainly views the world as one without boundaries." Photographer and art critic James Knipe writes, "Her work is a visual testament to her sensitivity and understanding of the vast riches we possess in the inheritance from our past. Dr. Salam does not simply quote from her influences but she synthesises and extracts what she needs rather than resort to parody and appropriation."

In her own words, Dr Salam describes her work. "I have come to realize that nature around us is parallel in the marks and shape-forms that we carry within us and make in the spaces around us. My paintings mediate these proportions, each canvas is a discovery ground where deliberated forms may, through the secret means... connect with cosmic memory and provide a presence where knowledge is the known might take place."

Halide has her works exhibited in many countries around the world. Some of her most recent exhibitions include solo presentations at International

Visions-The Gallery in Washington DC in 1998, Art Institute and Gallery in Maryland in 1996, Devlet Gulzer Sanatlar Galerisi in Istanbul, Turkey in 1993 and group exhibitions at The Art Barn Gallery, The New District of Columbia Collage Society Exhibition, Invitational in Washington DC in 1991 (where she received the second place award), El Art Galerie, Spotkanie International Group Show, Invitational in Warsaw, Poland in 1991, Viridian Gallery, Third National Juries Exhibition, Guggenheim Museum in New York 1990 as well as many other places. In addition to her numerous shows, she also has publications including 'Arabesk' and 'Textile Art and History in Bangladesh'.

Halide Salam has won many awards for her work. They include The Radford University Foundation Award for Creative Scholarship 1998, The International Award of Merit from the Atrium Gallery in Salisbury in 1997, and entry into the International Who is Who Among America's Teachers in October 1998.

video 'Package Drama Destroying Aesthetic Film'

Badal Rahman's Sesh Chithir Pore screened

By Nafid Imran Ahmed

'PACKAGE Drama' - the meaning is quite familiar to us. Nowadays most of the television drama are packages. It is also a very good business. The budgets are usually very high for these private productions. Many people including film producers and directors are into this business. Many famous big screen directors are now directing package dramas. Badal Rahman is one of them. His specialty is aesthetic filmmaking. Based upon a short story written by Selina Hossain and directed by Badal Rahman Sesh Chithir Pore was screened at the Goethe Institut, Dhaka yesterday. Organized by Chalachitra Film Society a three day long discussion and drama viewing on the topic - 'The effect of package drama on creative filming' started yesterday. Every day two package drama or telefilm will be screened and after the show open discussion on the drama will be continued with the director himself. Sesh Chithir Pore is a package drama, which has been created in a different way. Though the story is very simple. It pictures a university professor's family who went abroad for higher studies and after few years disconnects all contacts with his family. He stops writing letters to his wife. His poor wife and only son Tushar played by Toni Dias lives with his parents. Another character Ruchira played by Afsana Mimi is a very close friend of Tushar carefully. At the ending sequence Tushar tells Ruchira about his love for her and they both were very happy. The drama ends in a very strange way. The effect of the last letter is expressed only by burning letters and hitting cricket ball by Tushar. The next minute he is proposing to his girlfriend and then the story ends. Which probably means that they happily lived ever after.

In one of the scenes he expresses his anger with a cricket bat while he was hitting no ball but air, fighting with his own. He falls in love with Ruchira. It all ends with a last letter from his dad, which made everything very clear. His father remarried and is never coming back. His shocked mother burns all his father's letters, which she kept very said the improvement of creative minded movies for the last twenty-five years are very shocking. No Government has ever given this media any importance. The reason behind he came to direct package drama instead of creative films was that at least this way he could show some creative works to people.

The three-day program will screen five more package dramas/ telefilms, which are Kup, Adhuli, Dokhiner Ghor, Onkar and Odekha Bhupon.
