Surja Deeghal Bari in Verse

Recreating the novel Abrittee Academy begins its expedition

By Nafid Imran Ahmed

THE haunted house, Surja Deeghal Bari, a famous thriller by Abu Ishaque, is a celebrated novel in Bengali literature. Almost every thriller lover has read the great novel. Abrittee Academy, a recitation group of some promising young students of Dhaka University, staged this great novel in verse, as their first presentation in the field of recitation.

Mojumdar Viplob, the director of Abrittee Academy, directed this recital which was staged at the Shaukat Osman Memorial Auditorium of the Central Public Library on August 30 and Teacher Students Council Auditorium, University of Dhaka the next day. At the opening ceremony the author Abu Ishaque himself officially introduced the stage version of his creation.

"The importance of learning Dhrupadi", said the author in his speech at the opening ceremony, "in creative art and culture is inexpressible."

Staging a story is in itself a hard task to keep all the original elements of the story intact — to present it in verse makes the whole presentation even more difficult but Abrittee Academy has shown its talent by making a success of their adaptation. They have kept the item smooth flowing by following the original structure, story and characters as much as possible.

The story is expressed in different ways, sometimes with self narration by the characters. Sometimes to keep the relation between the middle, theatrical expressions has also been made use of.

Ashe, Bangla 1350 Shaal, Bhater Joniya Lora. (The year is 1350, and they have all returned... and there is a fight for survival) The show started, telling the sad story of Bangladesh during partition. The Bengali year 1350, fight for food. People from different villages migrate to the cities for work. The poor people can only stand and watch the richer gorge on delicious food while they have to fight, sometimes even with dogs, for food.

The story centres on a family of three in a village called Joypur and the house called Surja Deeghal Bari. After their father deserts them Hashu (Mijanur Rahman) and his sister Mamuna (Rashna Shameen Nipun) live with their mother Joygun (Shukla Das Gupta). The only source of their income is selling eggs. The strange house which they live in has lots of frightening stories. The strange house faces the east-west side, whereas all the houses in the area face the north-south direction. One story had it that whoever lives in this house will be childless. Hashu and his sister listen to the frightening stories about the house from their mother. According to Joygun the house was owned by two brothers Hatem and Khadem, and their children were drowned to death. After the death of their children they dispose of the house at a throw away cheap price to the great grandfather of Joygun. It was not only the stories that made the house seem strange to others many people had in fact gone through ghostly experience. Sometimes a bride was seen walking along the roof and she would vanish into thin air when seen, leaving and creating a stormy wind behind. The new owner's daughter-in-law had died of no apparent reason. Three of his cows also perished. The story is both mysterious and interesting.

Abrittee Academy put up a good performance, and judging by the applause by the audience present, the show was a success.

A Soothing Performance

Kaveri charms with her light classical music

By Shahana Parveen

THE Indian Cultural Centre at Satmasjid Road, Dhanmondi, had a delight in store for cultural music lovers last Saturday. Kaveri Sengupta gave a solo performance of Bengali light classical musical at 6.30 pm in the evening.

The programme started almost on time and after a brief introduction, Kaveri started her rendition with a Kabi Pranam for Kazi Nazrul Islam — 'Na Mithile Asha, Bhungile Khela'. This was followed by 'Shakhi' and 'Abhiman'. Atul Prasad's 'Pagla Montare Tui Baadhi', Nidhu Babu's 'Ashatey Rekhech e Pran' and many more. Despite a little problem with her voice, which kept cracking in the beginning, she soon overcame it and sang very well. Some of the songs were so well rendered that they transmitted the audience to almost a total state of calmness. Classical music, many not so keen to it must have understood, is indeed soothing for the soul.

The entire show was good and almost all the songs were well delivered. A minor distraction was the fact that the stage was very bare. There was no background to speak of and the artist and the three musicians accompanying her, sat on a simple white linen setting. This kind of trivial inadequacies do take the pleasure out of watching a show on stage no matter how well delivered the music pieces are.

A major disappointment at gatherings like this in our country is the indiscipline behaviour of the participating audience. A section of them create a continual nuisance by keeping up a continuous buzz. If the music isn't appealing to them, they can simply avoid such places (or once there, walk out of it).
