Workshop at Srimangal

USAID granted $ 600m in fisheries, agri sectors since '71

From Iqbal Siddiquee

SYLHET, Sept 17: The USAID has so far granted 600 million US dollar for the development of agriculture and fisheries sector in Bangladesh since 1971.

Gordon H West, Director of USAID Mission in Bangladesh said this while speaking at a day long workshop on held at Srimangal in Moulvibazar district Friday last.

The session of the workshop on USAID-aided project, Management of Aquatic Ecosystem through Community Husbandry (MACH) was presided over by the Deputy Commissioner of Moulvibazar, GKM Nurul Amin. Joint Secretary, Ministry of Land, MA Gani, who is also the Vice-President of the national-level committee of the project, was present as the chief guest, aid while team leader of the project, William J Collis delivered the introductory speech.

The USAID Mission chief said fish is traditionally the major source of protein for poor people of Bangladesh. It provides about 70 per cent of animal protein. Showing some statistics, he said approximately 13 million people of Bangladesh are engaged in fishing and fisheries-related activities, and majority (11 million) of them are seasonal and subsistence fishermen. They rely on open water for income in the last 20 years.

The decline in the inland fisheries and floodplain catch is estimated to have been between 40 to 60 per cent, while at the same time, the population has increased by 42 per cent. The continuing decline in fish catch is caused by overfishing, increased agricultural usage of dry season water, obstruction of fish migration patterns by flood control structures and roads and habitat degradation due to pollution pressure, West observed. He said that, it is important to try to reverse this trend because of the vital role of fishing. It helps improve the incomes and nutrition of the landless poor in Bangladesh.

The Mission Chief informed the Management of Aquatic Ecosystem through Community Husbandry (MACH) was initiated in 1998 with a grant from Winrock International (an NGO of USA). Winrock is working with three subgrantees, the US private voluntary organisation, CARITAS and two Bangladeshi NGOs-CNRS (Centre for Natural Resources) and BCAS (Bangladesh Centre for Advanced Studies) in collaboration with the Ministry of Fisheries and Livestock and the Ministry of Land.

The 5.3 million dollar US project has been working initially in two areas—one south of Sylhet and the other west of Dhaka which have approximately 15,000 hectares of open water where about 2,000 families earn their living directly from fishing. The project activities include, raising awareness among fishermen about the need to improve the habitat including promoting plant and animal diversity, promoting equitable access by local populations to the natural resources of the floodplain, promoting co-management of floodplain resources by communities and local government and identifying activities to generate alternative income (caged fishing).

It is estimated that, the fish catch will increase by 30 per cent at the pilot sites. Per capita fish consumption will increase by 15 to 20 per cent and alternative income will go up by 50 per cent for project beneficiaries. Indirectly, another 150,000 families are expected to benefit from increased fish catch through lower prices and greater fish availability.

The chief guest in his speech said no effective measure was taken for the development of the fisheries and forestry sectors during the last 30 years. Though it is too late, some steps have been taken to improve the wetlands, he said adding once there were tigers and deer in the forests of Moulvibazar, but those are almost absent now a days. The joint secretary informed that importance would be given to the opinions of the local people in the MACH project. Based on the success, there will be similar projects in other parts of the country, he added, so we should be sincere in implementing the project.

William J Collis in his speech informed, the MACH project is aimed at overall development of the renowned and vast Hail haor in Moulvibazar district having an area of 99,676 acres and of the people. The initial survey of 20 villages has been completed, he said. Besides, Turag-Bangshal basin development programme in Tangai and Kaliakoir thanas in Dhaka is also a small part of the MACH project, Collis added.

A good number of government officials, UP Chairmen, members and NGO activists took part in the workshop held at the Project Development Unit (PDU) auditorium of Bangladesh Tea Research Institute (BTRI) at Srimangal.

Tk 5cr sanctioned for protecting Chandpur

From Our Correspondent

CHANDPUR, Sept 17: Tk 5 crore have been sanctioned for Chandpur Town Protection Embankment.

Work of the embankment is going on in full swing. According to Bangladesh Water Development Board, Chandpur office sources, about 700 metre long embankment will be made in both sides of Natun bazaar and Puran bazaar of the town by dumping boulders in the River Meghna to check erosion. Everyday huge quantities of boulders are being dumped in the eroded areas. Besides, boulders are dumped in Haimchar area.

A protection embankment will be made at Haimchar area from Tajkherkandi to Katakhal along the bank of the River Meghna. The government has so far sanctioned Tk 1 crore 70 lakh for protection Haimchar area.

UNB from Shariatpur says: Natural calamities like river-bank erosion and cyclone left over 2.5 lakh people homeless in greater Faridpur during the last 25 years.

These homeless people have been living an inhuman life for lack of shelter, work and food. The government-sponsored VGF card programme and loan by some NGOs at high interest rate could not improve their condition.

According to Shariatpur Development Organisation, a local NGO, some 10,000 families lost their homesteads due to erosion by the River Meghna and Fadma in five districts of greater Faridpur during the period.

In its another survey, the NGO found that about 5,000 families were rendered homeless in cyclones in last 20 years. Marginal farmers and poor weavers are among the victims.
