Jhenidah growers deprived of fair price of jute

From Delwar Kabir

JHENIDAH, Oct 19: Jute farmers have been deprived of fair price as price of their products has been decreasing day by day in the markets. The farmers are actually not in a position to recover their production cost this year. The low price of jute may discourage the farmers in cultivating jute from the next year, said some jute farmers.

In different markets of the district one maund of Shamba (tosa) variety of jute is being sold between Taka 340 and 360 while the Lali (red) variety between Taka 375 and 400. But the some variety was being sold between Taka 410 and 425 per maund about a month back.

According to Agriculture Extension Department (AED) office sources, they have set a target to produce 153,175 bales of jute on 15,325 hectares of land in six thanas.

District-wise break-up was 2,785 hectares in Jhenidah sadar thana, 2,845 hectares in Saikupa, 2,285 hectares in Harinakundu, 2,455 hectares in Kaliganj, 1,830 hectares in Kotchandpur and 3,125 hectares of land in Mohespur thana. But a total of 4,810 hectares of land was brought under the same programme which was 10,515 hectares less than the target.

AED sources said, the farmers virtually did not show their eagerness to cultivate jute on their lands for low price of jute for the last couple of years. Furthermore, there was no sufficient rainfall in Chaitra and Baishakh months during the sowing season.

Talking to Arsad Mandal, 52, of village Harihara, Montazuddin Sheikh, 37, of village Chatura, Ibadat Hossain, 43, of village Shyampur and Dulal Chandra, 40, of village Dhala-harachandra who came to sale jute at Saikupa hat, told, jute farming is not a profitable concern now.

According to them, all of them were compelled to cultivate jute in small scale due to its low price.

They said, at least Taka 500 is being spent to produce one maund of jute. The money is required to prepare land, to purchase seeds, day labourers' charge, for purchasing fertiliser and pesticides, for cleaning weeds rotting jute sticks, for separating fibres from and for transporting the product at various markets.

The farmers have been moving here and there to sale the golden fibre, but in vain. The middlemen and traders do not show their eagerness to buy jute of a higher rate than the market price.

Kamalendu Saha, 34, a middleman of jute at Saikupa bazar told that the market price of jute in Jhenidah district fluctuates depending on the market of Daulatpur in Khulna district. But the rate of jute is lower there. It compels them to stop purchasing jute from the growers.

Acute housing problem in Cox's Bazar

From Our Correspondent

COX'S BAZAR, Oct 19: House rent has increased manifold in recent years in this resort town due to acute shortage of accommodation.

Tenants, especially from fixed income group, find it difficult to keep pace with the rent hike.

Because of accommodation crisis, a large number of professionals, both of private and public organisations, are facing hardship to maintain their families in the district headquarters.

The accommodation crisis both for residential and commercial purposes has been attributed to lack of adequate investment in housing sector here.

The crisis mounted especially after the 1991 devastating cyclone and tidal surge.

Many non-governmental organisations came here to participate in rehabilitation work, causing severe accommodation problem.

After the devastating natural calamity, Rohingya influx aggravated the crisis. After the influx, accommodation problems became acute again following the setting up of the new offices of NGOs and United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR) here.

On the other hand, absence of the Bangladesh House Building Finance Corporation (BHBFC) activities for many years has also added fuel to the crisis, local people said.

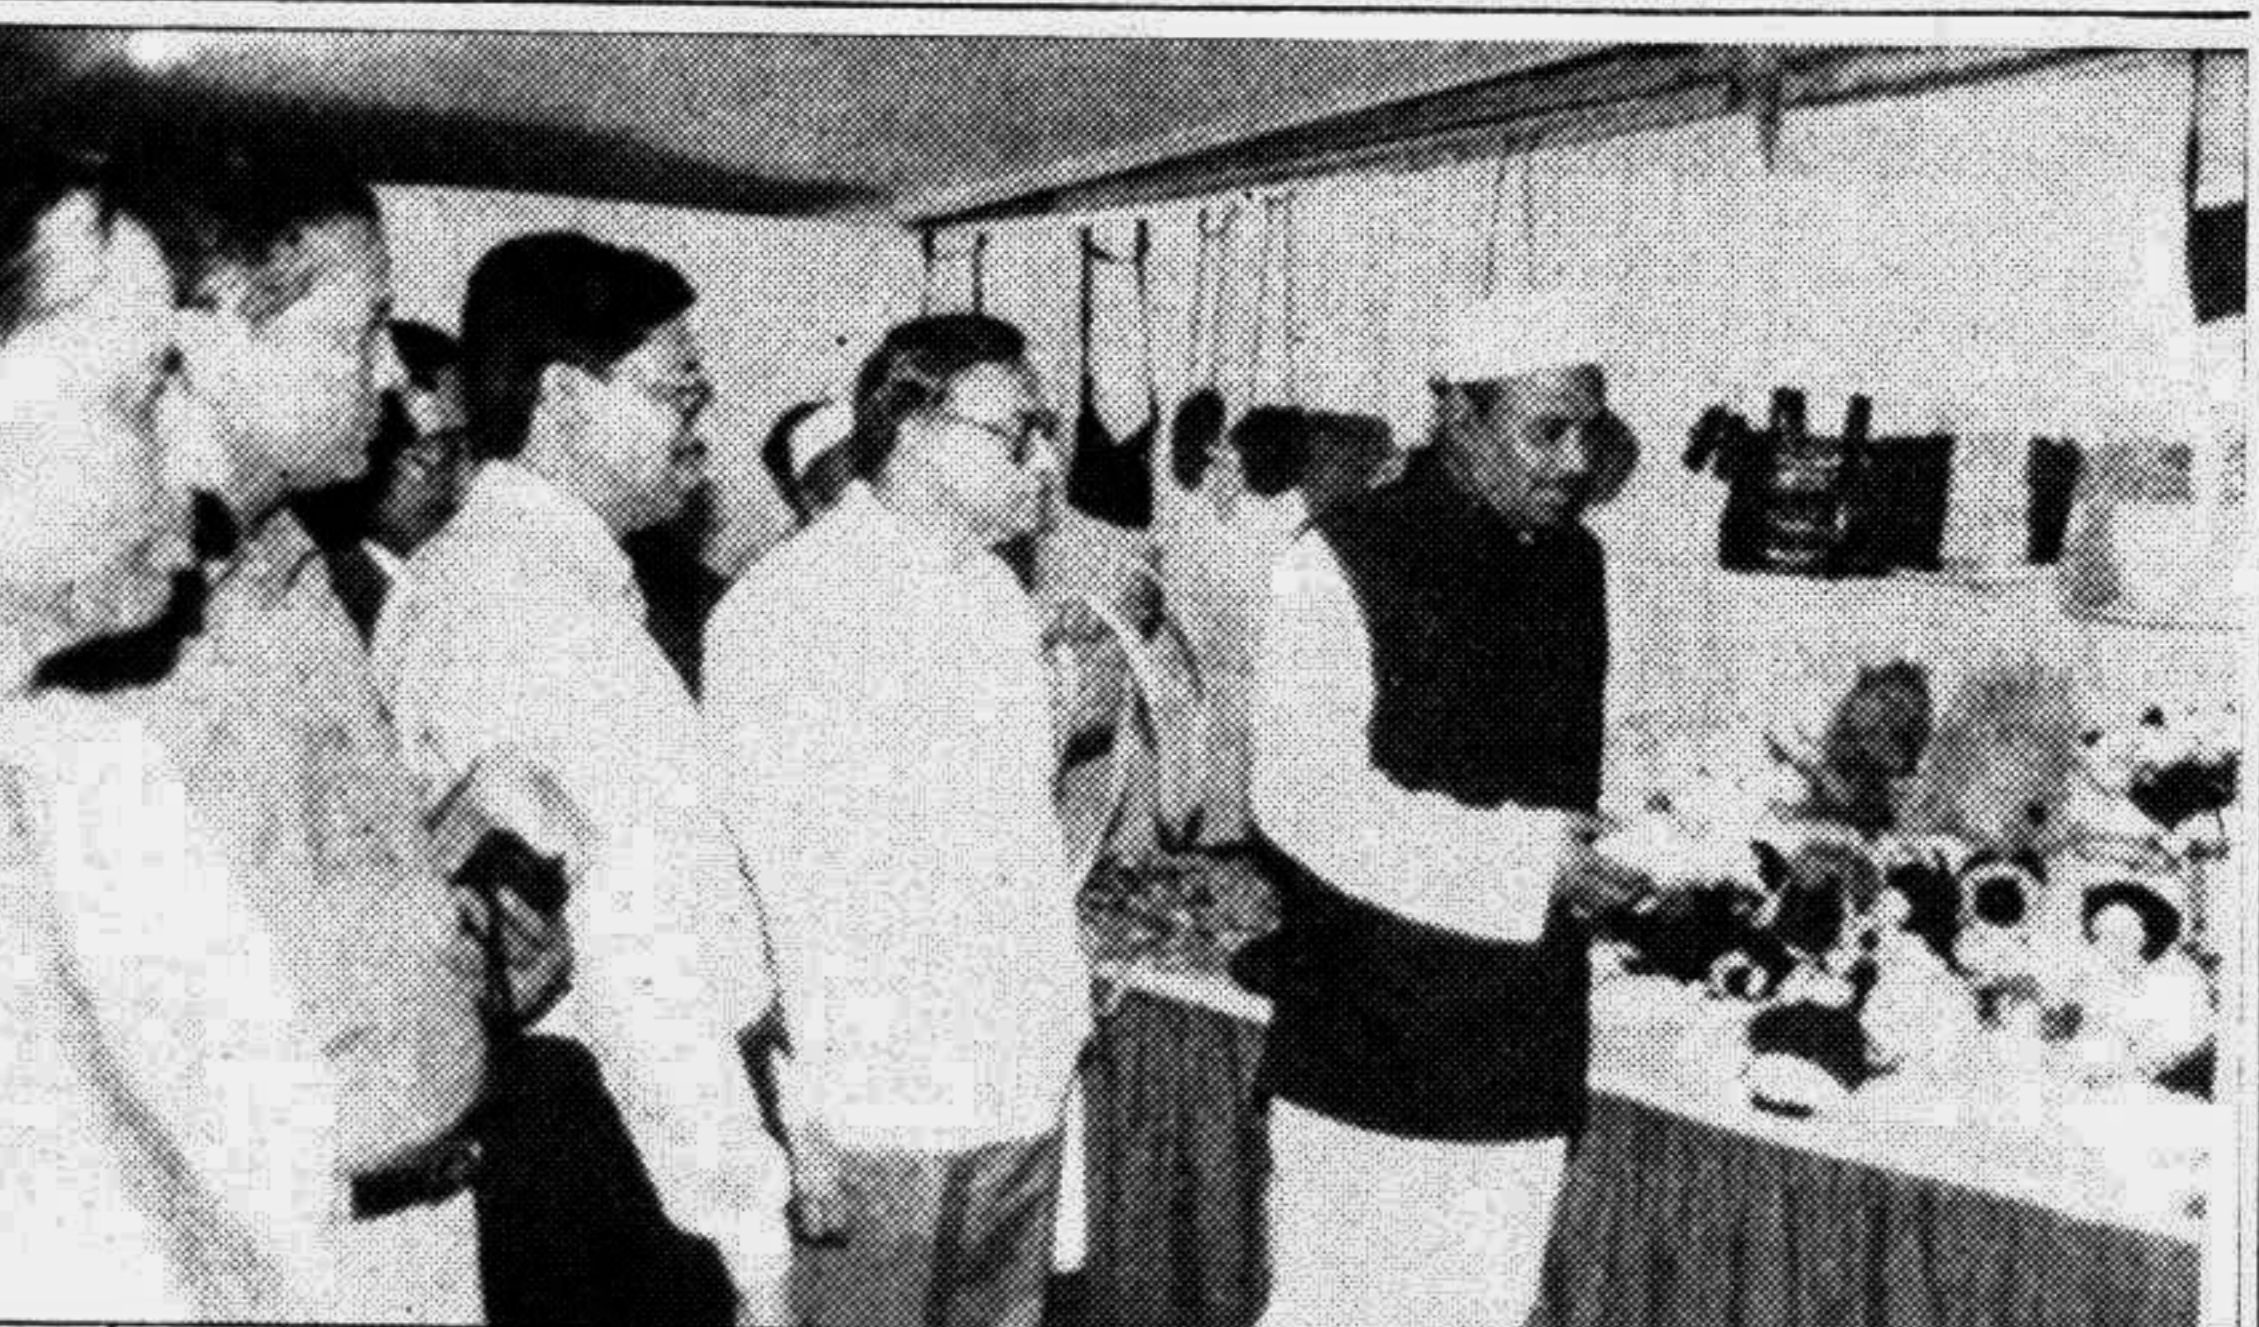

The regional office of the HBFC is located in Chittagong and hence the interest of the town was ignored.

HBFC loan disbursement programme has remained suspended in the district for the last 8 years. Suspension decision was taken by the authority in view of slow pace of recovery of loans, according to official sources.

HBFC office started its activities in greater Chittagong district in 1974. Rules and regulations were not followed while disbursing loans. So taking advantage of these loopholes, most of the residents did not repay loans they borrowed, forcing HBFC to suspend its operation.

When asked whether any step has been taken by the authorities concerned to recover the outstanding loans, a HBFC official on condition of anonymity told this correspondent 350 cases has already been filed with courts. Besides, more cases will be filed soon, the official added.

"Cooperation from the city residents is urgently needed to keep the metropolitan clean", the official said, seeking anonymity.

Most of the residents do not deposit garbage in dustbins. They drop litter and garbage in roadside areas.

Besides, stray dogs and cats make the situation worse. The animals often visit the open dustbins and rummage through wastes, causing much suffering to pedestrians.

The city corporation conservancy authorities collect about 200 metric tons of garbage everyday.

According to sources, 274 sweepers clean roads, lanes and by-lanes everyday in 30 wards of the corporation.

For cleaning city drains there are 120 sweepers. 46 sweepers cleanse Saheb Bazar, Hagram, New Market, Shal-baghan, Naodapara, Bus Terminal, Binodpur, Talaimari, Sadhur Mor, Laxmipur and TB Road kitchen markets.
