Christian-Muslim Relations

Criticism: Some people examine their conscience each day, especially in the evening, to accept responsibility for any wrongs they may have done, and to beg God for forgiveness.

With regard to Muslim-Christian relations, where self-criticism is lacking, there is a tendency to see faults only in the others. This can be an obstacle to constructive and lasting relations.

The difficult exercise of self-criticism has to be learned. In preparation for the Year 2000, Pope John Paul II wants the Catholic Church to examine her collective conscience on the failings of her children during the past thousand years. He says that the Church should become more conscious of the sinfulness of her children and recall those times in history when they abandoned the spirit of Christ. Instead of offering the world the witness of a life inspired by faith, they often indulged in ways of thinking and acting contrary to God's law.

It is encouraging that a liaison committee established two years ago between the Vatican's Council for Inter-religious Dialogue and four major world Islamic Organisations is able to help both sides to engage in such self-examination. This is to be recommended to other Christian-Muslim working groups.

Supporting Religious Freedom: There is no compulsion in religion as the Quran asserts (Q 2.256). Wise religious leaders and statesmen will continue to convince people that freedom of religion is one of the dearest of human rights and that no one should be prevented from exercising this right, provided that the just rights of other people are not violated.

Promotion of Development and Justice: Poverty, underdevelopment, injustice and corruption are fertile grounds for the rise or growth of certain religious conflicts. The right response is not a crackdown on religious extremists. It is rather a commitment of Christians and Muslims, and others, to justice, development, sound economic programmes, honesty in private and public life, and willingness on the part of the rich to show solidarity with the poor. Peace stands on the pillars of love, truth, development, justice and solidarity.

Joint Concern for the Use of the Earth's Resources: No one needs experts to tell us that the earth's resources are being ruined or depleted by greed, carelessness and war. Here is a rich area for Christian-Muslim collaboration in the next century, as the peoples of the world realise more and more their interdependence.

More Attention to the Spiritual Dimension: Christian-Muslim relations will make more progress in the 21st century if there is increased attention on both sides to the spiritual dimension. Knowledge of the other religion, religious freedom, meetings and common projects are good and important. But they are not enough. Greater attention to God is necessary.

Those who want to promote greater Muslim-Christian collaboration in the next century should encourage both sides to commit themselves deeper to God, growing adherence to God's will, prayer, asceticism, sincerity and love of one's neighbour. A Christian leader and a Muslim leader who are gifted with such high spirituality are more likely to understand each other and promote good relations, than two learned people from the two religions who practice little what they preach.

These reflections are just to touch on some of the desirable directions which Christian-Muslim relations can take as a new century will soon begin. May Almighty God give us, Christians and Muslims, what we need to respond to such a call together.

CARITAS FELICITATES THE HOLY FATHER, HIS HOLINESS POPE JOHN PAUL II ON THE 21ST ANNIVERSARY OF HIS PONTIFICATE.

We sincerely admire His ceaseless endeavours and dedication for attainment of peace and happiness around the globe. On this auspicious occasion we also wish the Holy Father sound health and long life.

CARITAS FLOOD '98 PROGRAMME AND ECHO SUPPORT

Bangladesh experienced the most devastating and unprecedented flood in 1998. To bring succour to thousands of victims of that flood Caritas responded immediately and implemented a huge relief and rehabilitation programme. During the peak time of flood Caritas distributed relief items among 46,300 families at a cost of Tk.18 million in different parts of the country under its seven Regional Offices. Under the post flood rehabilitation programme 37,764 families were provided support for Crop Recovery, Professional Rehabilitation, Housing and Water & Sanitation. Caritas also provided employment opportunities through Cash for Works for 275,444 mandays and constructed 29 Flood Shelters. Total expenditure for the post flood rehabilitation was Tk.163 million and a total of 368 Unions under 100 Thanas in 36 Districts were covered.

The ECHO funded Caritas Flood '98 Programme under the above was as follows:

- a) Crop Recovery Programme : Tk. 3,507,179
For agricultural rehabilitation Wheat, Paddy, Potato, Radish, and various Spinach seeds were distributed among 12,712 farmers as per local demand and practice depending on felt need and appropriate for the beneficiaries and physical environment at 70% subsidized cost.
- b) Professional Rehabilitation : Tk.12,197,846
Like crop recovery programme, Caritas distributed Draft Animals, Rickshaws, Vans, Push Carts, Fishing Boats & Nets, Sewing Machines, Poultry, and gave support for small trade, Nursery, Weaving, Carpentry etc. for 4,228 families. The criteria followed for the above supports are: the marginalized poor and landless, severely affected by the flood, those who did not receive support from other sources, those who did not receive any loan from Caritas or any other sources, and those who were at risk.
- c) Construction of Low Cost Houses - 2,599 Houses - Tk. 35,109,375
There had been wide-spread destruction of dwelling houses, specially of the poor families due to prolonged flood. So, Caritas had given priority to build low cost houses. Under the ECHO funded programme Caritas built 2,599 units of low cost houses for the poor and female-headed flood affected families.

Besides the above, during the current fiscal year Caritas will receive an amount of Tk. 32 million from ECHO for Housing, Water Sealed Latrines and Flood Shelters as the follow up programme of flood '98.

WE SOLICIT THE HOLY FATHER'S BLESSINGS.
