Sharif charged with treason

Nawaz Sharif

ISLAMABAD, Nov 11: A special anti-terrorist court will hear charges of treason and kidnapping or hijacking against Pakistan's deposed premier Nawaz Sharif and seven others, if convicted they could be sentenced to life in prison or death, reports AP.

The charges were filed with police in the southern port city of Karachi after midnight on Thursday accusing Sharif and seven others of treason and in the case of kidnapping involving an airliner — hijacking.

He also was charged with assembling people with the purpose of committing murder and physical endangerment, both charges carry a lesser prison term.

The charges, laid by the military government nearly one month after overthrowing Sharif in a swift and peaceful coup, stem from an Oct. 12 episode in which the passenger aircraft returning Army Chief Gen. Pervez Musharraf to Pakistan was refused landing rights in the southern port city of Karachi.

Also on board the passenger airliner were 200 passengers and crew members, including more than 40 students from US-operated international schools throughout Pakistan, attended by children of US diplomats.

Eventually the aircraft landed, but with barely 10 minutes of fuel remaining, according to Musharraf and aviation officials.

A disgruntled army overthrew Sharif's unpopular government on Oct. 12 after the prime minister fired Musharraf and tried to induct a junior general and close ally as the new military chief.

Sharif has been in army custody since the coup.

The Clinton administration appealed Wednesday for protection of legal rights of the accused.

"We have continued to raise our concerns with Pakistani authorities about former prime minister Sharif's well-being and our concern he be accorded due process," the Deputy State Department spokesman James

PM arrives in Durban

From Toufique Imrose Khalidi

DURBAN, South Africa, Nov 11: Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina arrived in this Indian Ocean city to attend the opening ceremony of the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM) tomorrow.

Foreign Minister Abdus Samad Azad, PM's Principal Secretary Dr S A Samad, Foreign Secretary CM Shafi Sami and PM's Press Secretary Jawadul Karim are accompanying her as members of the official delegation.

President Thabo Mbeki of South Africa heads a distinguished list of speakers at the opening ceremony of the CHOGM, officials here said.

The other speakers will be Commonwealth Secretary-General Chief Emeka Anyaoku, Prime Minister of Singapore Goh Chok Tong, Prime Minister of Jamaica P.J. Patterson and Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, Head of the Commonwealth.

Briefing journalists on the CHOGM to be held from November 12-15, Chief Anyaoku also outlined topics likely to come up during the discussions, including the special theme, People-Centred Development: The Challenge of Globalisation.

BNP threatens civil disobedience movement

By Staff Correspondent

BNP secretary general Abdul Mannan Bhuiyan yesterday said the opposition will start 'civil disobedience movement' and will not go to court for bail if the current trend of filing of false cases and harassment of BNP leaders and activists continued.

He said unspecified number of leaders and activists of BNP and its front organisations across the country could not stay and sleep at their respective homes due to police harassment.

C'wealth summit opens in Durban today

Globalisation, democracy and good governance main issues

From Toufique Imrose Khalidi

DURBAN, South Africa, Nov 11: The Commonwealth cannot flout its own principles whatever the circumstances in Pakistan may be, Secretary-General Chief Emeka Anyaoku said today.

"I believe Commonwealth cannot depart from the basic principles," Chief Anyaoku told a press conference here ahead of the biggest ever summit of the 54-nation grouping starting tomorrow.

The gathering of 47 heads of government — the largest ever — and 52 national delegations is expected to discuss an increasingly broadened agenda including democracy, good governance, human rights, globalisation, debt relief, economic development and small states.

"People-Centred Development: The Challenge of Globalisation" has been chosen as the theme for this year's CHOGM. The host President Thabo Mbeki has said the is-ssues at stake will be globalisation, democracy and governance.

Pakistan has already been barred from the summit and remains suspended from all sorts of inter-governmental meetings, a decision taken by the Commonwealth Ministerial Action Group (CMAG) immediately after the October 12 military coup that toppled the elected government of Prime Minister Mian Mohammad Nawaz Sharif.

But Chief Anyaoku said a decision would come only from the Commonwealth heads of government meeting (CHOGM) after considering the report from the C-MAG whose four members went to Pakistan late last month.

He also stopped short of saying that a decision to expel Pakistan was forthcoming as the Commonwealth did in case of Nigeria in 1995 after a military take-over. He also did not disclose the contents of the C-MAG report for the CHOGM.

"The ministerial mission was engaged in quite constructive discussions with the military regime ... I myself had a talk with General (Pervez) Musharraf ... should engage in further discussions. The question (of expulsion) comes only after that," Chief Anyaoku said.

A special meeting convened by the secretary-general on October 18, the Group decided to suspend Pakistan from its Councils and decided that four of its ministers (Canada Barbaños, Ghana, and Malaysia) should travel to Pakistan as soon as possible. Their two-day mission to Pakistan took place from 28-29 October.

"C-MAG will have one last opportunity to review its recommendations to Commonwealth Heads of Government on

Golden Jubilee celebrations of Notre Dame college

A farce is going on in the name of edn: President

Dismissing the present education system as timeworn, President Shahabuddin Ahmed yesterday said cancerous irregularity and immoral acts gripped country's entire educational sector, reports UNB.

"Erosion of moral values in society is very painful. As the ideological viewpoints are not clear, a total farce is going on in the name of education," he said in a swinging comment on the academic debacle.

Addressing the inaugural function of Golden Jubilee celebrations of Notre Dame College, the president lamented that in some educational institutions there are terrorism, arms race and even killings in the name of student politics.

"What a family, society and country could expect from those involved in such activities," asked Shahabuddin.

The president listed the reasons behind the cancerous situation in the education sector and said the irregularity going on in the education sector cannot be good for the nation.

The reasons are: coming to classes without preparations, not being present and giving lessons to students at classes regularly, suggesting students to use notebooks to prepare for examinations, private tuition to increase income without giving proper lesson to students, copying in the examinations, delaying the examinations without enough reason, session jams, misuse of time before and after the examinations and unnecessary delays in announcing examination results.

"There does not exist an atmosphere congenial to giving or taking lessons in the educational institutions," Shahabuddin told his campus audience.

Underscoring the need for higher education, he said there is a great need to give attention to the country's higher education.

Because, the skilled manpower needed to run public and

A little more attention, please

By Shehab Ahmed

The Osmany Udyan, a park managed by the Dhaka City Corporation (DCC), is in a bad shape though a change in government decision has saved the park from being the site of a convention centre for the Non-aligned Movement (NAM) Summit.

The park is yet to be freed of a number of structures and encroachments, the latest being the Titas Gas Company which took over a sizeable area, raising walls.

The NAM convention centre will now be built at Sher-e-Bangla Nagar at the site of the trade fair beside the Chandrima Udyan.

The change in government decision followed citizens' protest against construction of the convention centre. They demanded retention of the only open space between old and new parts of the city amid a concrete jungle.

But a slum reportedly managed by certain railway employees and a mess for 35 people adjacent to a railway mosque are there. A mosque committee headed by a retired railway employee collects a monthly rent of Tk 350 from each 'boarder' of the mess, sources said. Although there are at least three mosques in the surrounding areas, none knows why the tin shed mosque was built.

An Awami League office beside the Golapbahi mosque and a former railway club, later converted into a 'Muktijoddha Sangsad Club', occupy portions of the park. The central office of ruling Awami League is just on the opposite side of the road.

Beside the Muktijoddha Club, a few squatters live in their plastic shanties. But the shabby park with a small dirty pond and hundreds of trees is still home to varieties of birds including several pairs of egrets.

The birds find the park a perfect sanctuary, feasting on insects, worms and aquatic life including some small fish that

Tragic death of 2 cadet college boys

From Staff Correspondent

SYLHET, Nov 11: Two students of Sylhet Cadet College were crushed under a roller on the college ground this morning.

The victims are Iqbal, 13, son of Mostafizur Rahman of Manipurhat, Kishoreganj and Reza, 13, son of Dr Moynuddin Ahmed of village Munshirhat under Patharghata thana in Barguna district.

Sources in the college said, Iqbal and Reza, both students of class VII, went to the field to attend a routine parade in the morning. The parade ended at 6-15 am, but Iqbal and Reza along with some other students of the same class started pulling the roller, kept on one side of the field. Suddenly they went under the roller and were run over by it.

Iqbal died on the spot. Reza was rushed to Sylhet MAG

It's an AL-Siddiqui fight

A day in Tangail-8 constituency

By Nazmul Ashraf, back from Tangail

Awami League has virtually launched a 'war' against Bangabir Kader Siddiqui Bir Uddin over the ensuing parliamentary by-election in Tangail.

Siddiqui is facing a tough challenge from the ruling party, in the by-elections scheduled for November 15.

An AL-Siddiqui 'battle' is brewing as the polls date is nearing. Both the sides are considering the by-election as a 'prestige-fight'.

Ending his long-drawn battle with the ruling party hierarchy, Siddiqui resigned from parliament recently, necessitating the by-election to Tangail-8 seat he had won in 1996 election on AL ticket. He was later expelled from the party on disciplinary ground. Siddiqui is contesting the by-polls as an independent candidate. Its leadership challenged by Siddiqui, the ruling party seems to have laid utmost importance to the by-polls, putting all its might behind party candidate Shaukat Momen Shahjahan.

The Tangail-8 constituency comprising Shakhipur and Bashail thanas is now vibrating with frequent visits by ruling party heavyweights.

The AL launched a special drive to win over voters only recently while its expelled leader has been seeking re-election soon after he resigned from parliament on August 29.

With only three days left for the polling, campaigning is now on its highest pitch. The AL is trying to weaken Siddiqui's stronghold for long while Siddiqui struggling to consolidate his strength in the area where his courageous role during the War of Liberation is almost a legend.

Dr S A Malek, Political Adviser to the Prime Minister, is in the constituency for more than a week now. He is backed by some 20 junior leaders of the party in an extensive campaign.

IRD maintains high quality of education supervised by American teachers. It has two campuses in Dhaka City equipped with modern furniture, air-conditioning, rich library and computer-laboratory.

Systematic extortion all the way

Police collect over Tk 32 lakh a day from trucks in one route alone

During a recent visit to a truck terminal in Dhaka, The Daily Star correspondent was confronted by a group of truck drivers. "We (newsmen) always brand us as unruly, uncaring and even killers," said a truck driver. "Why don't you write about our plight. Come with us on a trip and see for yourself how much harassment we go through."

The Daily Star then decided to send a reporter and a photographer in a truck, concealing their identity. They went up to Khulna from Dhaka and filed this report.

The entire process is efficient, disciplined and surprisingly well laid out. The 335 km road from Dhaka to Khulna is systematically earmarked at different points by roadblocks. For an ordinary passerby, the roadblocks might look reassuring as there are police posted at most of those.

For the truck driver whose identity is not given here for various reasons, it was a usual 'police beat'. The driver had to pay in exchange for a 'coded token' bearing a date of expiry. With 30 years of experience, the driver said that not a single truck out of the estimated 50,000 in the country is exempted from this.

The truck loaded with iron rods was stopped at 11 points during the trip and police, in collaboration with labour unions, extracted a total of Tk 650. On an average, 5,000 such trucks ply the route every day and the daily toll stands at a staggering Tk 32,50,000. Trucks carrying cattle and other things, such as vegetables, have to pay more.

"Thousands of passenger buses also pay the police in a different arrangement because, with people on board, those are not stopped on the road," said the driver. "Crores of taka are this way and its share reaches the highest level."

In exchange for the tolls, the drivers enjoy utmost liberty on the roads. They can overtake, drive faulty vehicles and get away with criminal activities on the roads. Their relationship with police is based on payment of tolls, which is reflected in their lack of respect for law enforcing men along the routes.
