Workshop on ILO convention ends 50m children engaged in hazardous job worldwide

By Staff Correspondent

Speakers at a workshop on 'ILO convention and international labour standard' yesterday said that 50 million children below the age of 11 are engaged in various hazardous job worldwide and the International Labour Organisation (ILO) is working to eliminate this worst form of child labour on a priority basis.

Though the number of children engaged in various type of hard work would be around 250 million, the ILO is giving priority in elimination of worst form of child labour from the world," said Tim De Meyer, a specialist on international labour standard, at the concluding session of the four-day long workshop.

Meyer said that the ILO already adopted a convention aimed at stopping the abuse of children in various forms like slavery, forced labour, trafficking, debt bondage, prostitution and pornography.

"Besides, the ILO has also approached the World Bank and IMF to play a role in elimination of child labour and to ensure that their economic policies should not promote child labour," Meyer said.

The ILO area office director M A Hassanein and ILO labour standard officer Donald Kidd also spoke at the concluding session of the workshop held at ILO Dhaka office.

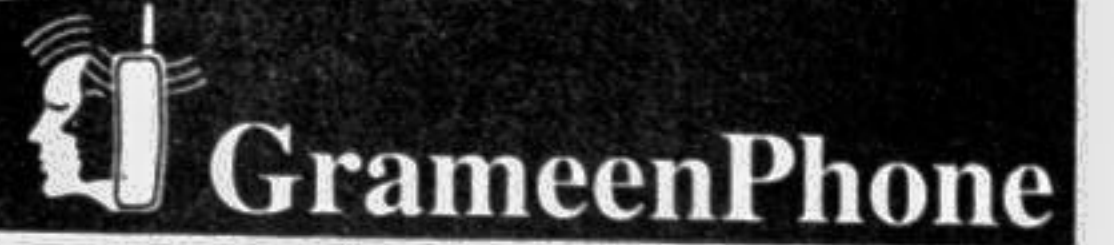

A total of 30 representatives from different ministries, NGOs, trade unions and employers' association took part in the workshop.
