Baresi voted player of the century

Milan 100 and kicking

MILAN, Dec 17: Franco Baresi was voted AC Milan's player of the century at a gala evening here on Wednesday.

The leading light was Herbert Kilpin, a textile industry technician from Nottingham, who had arrived in Italy in 1891 and had played for Internazionale Torino (now Torino).

FRANCO BARESI

I'm going to found a club there that will be a devil for you. Kilpin, who was both coach and captain of the team under president Alfred Edwards, chose the team's colours accordingly -- red for the devil and black for the fear they would induce in their opponents.

stoppable Swedish trio Gunnar Gren, Gunnar Nordahl and Nils Liedholm -- known collectively as 'Gre-No-Li' -- winners in 1951 of Milan's first league title for 44 years.

Nordahl, with the possibly unbeatable record of 210 goals in 257 matches, is still the club's all-time top scorer.

The 1970s brought a single league trophy, though three Italian Cups, while the 1980s started with Milan being caught up in the 'Totonero' illicit betting scandal and relegated by Italy's soccer authorities.

However, Milan changed dramatically when media mogul Silvio Berlusconi heli-coptered in to save them in 1986, hiring Sacchi and a Dutch trio to match the Gre-No-Li -- Van Basten, Ruud Gullit and Frank Rijkaard.

Shevchenko Ukraine's Player of the Year

KIEV, Dec 17: Ukrainian international striker Andriy Shevchenko, who is currently with Italian Serie A giants AC Milan, was on Thursday named Ukraine's Player of the Year, reports AFP.

Shevchenko, who also won the award in 1997, was selected following a survey conducted by the Ukrainian Football newspaper of 600 of the country's top football specialists, journalists and fans.

Beckham gets driving licence back!

LONDON, Dec 17: Manchester United and England star David Beckham on Thursday won back his driving licence, even though a judge upheld speeding conviction against him, reports AFP.

Judge Barry Woodward, sitting at Manchester's Minshull Street Crown Court, said that he would not endorse Beckham's licence, which already has 10 points on it, because of the 'special circumstances' which had caused him to break the limit.

Moore tops personality poll

LONDON, Dec 17: Former West Ham and England star Bobby Moore has been voted British sports personality of the century by the readers of Sports Illustrated magazine's national Sunday newspaper, reports AFP.

The World Cup-winning captain, who died of cancer in 1993, was a runaway winner of the poll ahead of Manchester United's George Best, with Sir Stanley Matthews third.

Premiership preview

Time running out for Chelsea

LONDON, Dec 17: Chelsea take on English Premiership leaders Leeds United at Stamford Bridge on Saturday.

The London club are desperate to revive their flagging championship ambitions, reports AFP.

Vialli's team of foreign stars appear to have no trouble raising their game when faced by glamorous European opponents from less distinguished Premiership opposition.

The London club are currently top of Group D in the Champions League, having beaten Dutch champions Feyenoord 3-1 at home and held the competition's favourites Lazio to a 0-0 draw in Rome.

However, league defeats at the hands of Watford, Derby and Sunderland have contributed to Chelsea's faltering title hopes and leaves them 14 points behind Leeds - although Vialli's team do have two games in hand.

Chelsea's French international Frank Leboeuf believes Chelsea's dual personality can be overcome and that they can close the gap on David O'Leary's young guns.

"We just have to think about the way we played against Lazio and play the same way," he said. "If there is a solution, we need to sort it out very quickly."

Leeds, meanwhile, will be licking their wounds after losing 4-2 on penalties to Leicester City in the fourth round of the League Cup on Wednesday after drawing 0-0 out very quickly.

These are testing times for O'Leary's side, who also face a tough battle in the next round of the UEFA Cup where they will face Italian giants AS Roma, conquerors of Newcastle United in the previous round.

Manchester United, two points behind Leeds on 36 points but with a game in hand, face a tricky away trip to West Ham - who have lost just one home game all season and on Wednesday ousted Aston Villa from the League Cup in a penalty shoot-out.

United, are boosted by their return to form in Europe having beaten Spanish side Valencia 3-0 in their second match in phase two of the Champions League.

Robbie Fowler, a late withdrawal from Sunday's FA Cup win at Huddersfield with further problems following his ankle operation, could play a part.

"I think it's only a matter of time before Robbie is back," Houllier said.

"He might even be in the picture for the weekend." Fowler is being closely monitored and his current problem has been diagnosed as ligament inflammation around his damaged ankle.

Middlesbrough, currently lying 10th in the table, take on seventh-placed Tottenham at home with manager Bryan Robson facing the most difficult test of his managerial career as he attempts to rekindle the club's season after suffering a nightmare giant-killing double.

A 2-1 League Cup quarter-final defeat at Tranmere on Tuesday came four days after Middlesbrough bowed out to lowly Wrexham in the FA Cup - effectively bringing an end to the club's hopes for honours this season.

All that remains is the challenge of finishing higher in the English Premiership than their ninth place last season - and reviving their fast-receding hopes of a first-ever qualification for Europe.

At the foot of the table, Aston Villa and Sheffield Wednesday lock horns in a game which could decide the fate of either manager with both teams looking to end disastrous league runs.

Villa, sixth from bottom on 19 points, will be looking to end a run of eight league games without a win, while Wednesday, without a point away from Hillsborough all season, are still rooted to the basement with just six points from a possible 48.

Watford, who have won only two of the eight home games this season, take on Everton, while sixth-placed Leicester are at home to Derby, third from bottom and with one away win from nine games on the road.

But you can't turn these opportunities down, and to come to play for a club the size of Sunderland and play in the Premiership, I didn't think twice to be honest."

Liverpool, in fifth on 30 points, host Coventry, a game the Merseyside club will need to win to keep up their recent surge up the table under Frenchman Gerard Houllier.

They will also be fresher than their opponents as they haven't played in the past 10 days while the Hammers have lost to Tranmere in the FA Cup, which United withdrew from owing to their participation in the inaugural World Clubs Championship in January, and then their marathon with Aston Villa.

Victory at West Ham could take United to the summit - albeit temporarily - with Leeds playing on Sunday, but they face competition from Arsenal in third place, a point behind Sir Alex Ferguson's men on 35 points having played a game more.

Arsenal will be looking for maximum points at home to Wimbledon, who have won only one game away from Selhurst Park.

Arsene Wenger's side have had a week of mixed emotions, firstly brushing aside Second Division Blackpool 3-1 in the FA Cup third round, and then coming to terms with a difficult draw against Deportivo La Coruna in the UEFA Cup.

"It is one of the toughest draws we could have," said Wenger.

"They are 10 points clear of Barcelona in Spain and have some excellent players, but it is a challenge that we don't mind."

Fourth-placed Sunderland will start as favourites at home to perennial strugglers Southampton who knocked Division One high-fliers Ipswich out of the FA Cup on Monday.

Kevin Kilbane, Peter Reid's new 2.2 million pound (£4 million dollar) signing from West Brom, goes straight into the squad and is likely to play some part in the match.

The 22-year-old Republic of Ireland international admits leaving the Division One club came as something of a wrench, but Sunderland's offer was one he simply could not turn down.

"It's sad, but there are always more chapters in life," he said. "I'd been at West Brom for two years and settled in well in the Birmingham area."

"But you can't turn these opportunities down, and to come to play for a club the size of Sunderland and play in the Premiership, I didn't think twice to be honest."

Liverpool, in fifth on 30 points, host Coventry, a game the Merseyside club will need to win to keep up their recent surge up the table under Frenchman Gerard Houllier.

United, are boosted by their return to form in Europe having beaten Spanish side Valencia 3-0 in their second match in phase two of the Champions League.
