An acute case of 'millenniumitis'!

By M. R. Rousseau

More conscious sections of the people of this country have apparently been suffering from a case of acute 'millenniumitis', a craze for welcoming the new millennium to be ushered in on the morning of the day breaks radiant on the horizon of January 1, 2000 AD.

It appears that all sections of our people, especially those living in the urban areas of the society are more conscious about the coming phenomena. They are never allowed by the media to forget for a moment about the coming event! Advertisers of all sorts of products have been telling their clientele about the most impressive thing that is going to begin from the beginning of the next, the third to be precise, millennium! These are usually termed as follows: "Buy the refrigerator of the next millennium, now". "Come to us, if you are looking for the best offer for the new millennium". "Visit us, if you are looking for the best roasted chicken of the coming millennium" and that sort of stuff.

I, for one, cannot help looking at the arrival of the new millennium as a simple case of beginning of yet another year, comprising 365 days or just 12 months, as you please. There are many like me who do not seem interested in giving much to the coming millennium. Not right away, at least. They, like the wise men of the olden days, prefer to look before they leap!

The morning, more experienced ones amongst us say, will show the day. Understandably they do not mean the morning of the very first day of the century, let alone the millennium! What they mean is, let us not be unnecessarily ecstatic about this millennium thing. For, none amongst us, nor the consumers' durables being advertised for through the media, will live through the coming millennium. Nobody did during the last two.

Too much of everything, they have been saying for a long, long time, is no good. The Shakespeare fellow, I am given to understand, had written a piece entitled "Much ado about nothing"! Mighty farsighted was he, the founder of Communism, at least he must have had some premonitions about it all. What a pity, he remains to be fully understood and appreciated to this day. Nor was this other bloke called H.G. Wells who dared to fly his Time Machine into the third millennium world. Or did he? He might have. But he sure did not have the guts to go on record by writing anything about it. He could have been charged with giving advice, in advance, to the speculators, war-mongers and hoarders of the millennium. Thank god, neither of them attempted to do so. I, like many others, feel relieved, come what may, including the third millennium!

tribute to Moni Singh

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina yesterday paid tribute to the memory of Comrade Moni Singh, the founder of Communist Party of Bangladesh (CPB), on the occasion of his 9th death anniversary, reports BSS.

In a message on the eve of the anniversary, the Prime Minister said Comrade Singh, the advisor of the exiled government during the War of Liberation, devoted his whole life to the economic emancipation of the poor.

Comrade Singh tried to establish the political rights of the working class and turned out to be the example of an honest and devoted politician, she said.

Hasina said Comrade Singh was a firm believer of the ideals of Marxism-Leninism and a real Communist leader. A legendary political personality, Comrade Singh participated in the anti-British armed struggle and organised movements against 'Danku' system and tyrant Pakistani regimes.

Comrade Singh played an important role in organising international support in favour of the War of Liberation in 1971, and put in his efforts in the War by forming a guerrilla outfit involving the activists of the Communist Party, NAP and Chhatra Union, Hasina added.

The books contained the images and thoughts of the artist which he wrote down on the books from 1987 to 1991 - some of them in the form of paintings.

Worried Khan told BSS on Wednesday that somebody might have taken them for fun or some other reason. "But, to me, these books are like my children," he said.

He made a fervent request to return the books. He also said that rewards will be given if anybody finds the books and return those to him.
