Creativity : The Buzzword of Dress Designing

A four-day long fashion exhibition by Kainat ends at the Drik Gallery

By Abdus Saboor

In older days a glimpse of stocking was looked upon as something shocking but now anything goes. Fashion is made to become unfashionable and it exists only to be destroyed. The only way to survive in the extremely competitive fashion world is to remain creative all the time.

Keeping this in mind, Kainat, a relatively new fashion house of the city, began a four-day long fashion exhibition at the Drik Gallery on December 28 that ended yesterday. Popular television actress Shami Kaiser and her husband Ringo inaugurated the exhibition.

For Kainat, this is their third exhibition. Kainat has no outlet at present but the organizer of the show Mahbubur Rahman said, 'We are going to have our own outlet soon after the exhibition ends.'

The exhibition displays sari, shalwar kameeze, panjabi, shawl and children wear. Amirul Hasan Masud is the designer with the fashion house. Masud, who finished his studies in commerce, is a self-taught designer. His sincerity and devotion to creative art made it possible for him to design these fabulous dresses.

Masud generally uses local fabric, specially Comilla's Khaddar and Tant of Baburhat, in his apparel. There is extensive use of hand paint, brush paint and graphic form in block prints marked in the displayed dresses. In choosing shades, Masud's fascination for orange, red, yellow and white is evident. He has used both vegetable and chemical dye in his collection.

The prices are well within the reach of trendy people. The prices of shalwar kameezes are between 1150 and 2150 takas, the price of children wears is between 500 and 750 taka, shawls ranges in between 450 and 575 taka, general panjabi prices is between 650 and 700 taka while the exclusive panjabis ranges in between 1000 and 1200 taka.

A variety of saris have been displayed in the exhibition. There are cotton and silk saris and the silk saris have been exclusively designed to suit the contemporary tastes. The panjabis designed on Khadi fabric are all beautiful and unique.

The shawls, for both male and female, are the main attraction of the show.

Shomi Kaiser, when asked to comment on the exhibition, said, 'Though a few of the shalwar-kameezes are traditional, the shawls and panjabis designed on Khadi fabric are really refreshing.'

The show drew a large number of trendy people of the city.

Simple Yet Graceful

Fourth exhibition of Avalon at Alliance Francaise de Dhaka

By Saima Islam

The three designers of Avalon preparing for the exhibition.

DECEMBER '99 has witnessed an astounding number of exhibitions on fashion wear. Eid and the end of a millennium was spreading an almost contagious festive mood and giving the fashion lovers a chance to change their wardrobe to be prepared to welcome the next millennium. But how can another fashion house stand out in the midst of so many exhibitions?

Avalon, a booming boutique, organized their fourth exhibition in Alliance Francaise de Dhaka from December 23 to December 25. Their simple but sophisticated creative line surely stands out amidst a bevy of exhibitions on fashion wear.

Dilshad Ahmed started Avalon in 1996. She did women's wear only but this year her sister Subarna Ahmed and Subarna's husband Fazole Karim Khan also teamed up with her. The husband-wife duo designed the panjabis for Avalon that was included in the show.

The designers put emphasis on comfort as well as the looks and that's why they have used a lot of cotton but they did not forget the demand of the Eid shoppers. Their collection of chiffon and silk dresses were the main attraction of the show.

This year mixed works are getting popular. Block, machine work, tie and dye, brush and hand print are used together to create the eye-catching dresses, each one of which can be compared to the work of an artist.

Dilshad's specialty lies in her eye for the details. Most of the designers ignore the shalwar but for Dilshad shawls are as important as the dresses.

Her works reflect her sense of beauty that treats all the pieces with the same amount of importance to make it a creative whole. Dilshad adds a little bit of embroidery, works of Krush, or a touch of block or brush print in her shawls to make them attractive. The main attraction of her collection is no doubt the hand embroideries. The delicate patterns created on the clothes glimmer like an artist's ravishing creation.

Colours dominated this year's fashion world. Avalon's collections are also created keeping the new trends in mind. Not only the dresses, the panjabis are also defined with eye-catching colours- blue, black, green and even fiery orange.

'Many would stop and think before creating such a panjabi in fiery orange but for me these eccentric colours bring in the bohemian feeling that is not afraid to go against the trend and I am satisfied with the responses I am getting,' said Karim. For Panjabis they have used cotton, khadi, check and silk. Handprint, frolic and embroidery define their panjabis well.

The prices of their creative line are well within the reach of every one. The prices of the dresses range between Tk 1000 and Tk 2500, and the panjabis are priced between 350Tk and 1300 Tk. Avalon's simple but elegant designs will definitely add a chic touch to one's wardrobe.
