Millennium party over, world back to old routine

PARIS, Jan 2: The party of the century was over today and it was time for the big clean-up as the world prepared for another 1,000 years of the daily round and doomsday sects felt foiled. reports AFP.

The first millennium baby arrived in New Zealand at one minute after midnight, and a 16 year-old Sri Lankan gave birth to what were thought to be the millennium's first triplets.

Meanwhile in a Malaysian midnight village locals were abuzz with millennium talk focussed on farmer Liong Chong Shen who apparently sighted a large apelike animal known as "mawas" in his orchard.

He saw two of the "bigfoot" beasts -- one around 1.8 metres tall, covered with long black shiny hair, and the other around 1.5 meters with brown hair. The animals just stared at him and walked back into the jungle.

But others fearing or hoping for strange signs and portents -not to speak of cataclysmic events -- were left feeling de-

A Philippine cult vainly dug underground tunnels and piled up provisions after predicting an "all consuming rain of fire"

The leader of Papua New Guinea's Rainbow Church began the new millennium in jail after preaching the world would go dark Saturday and all expatriates would vanish from the country as the clock struck on January 1.

In Las Vegas, reveller Chris Kennedy took a sanguine view of apocalpyse now. The prospect of midnight catastrophe was just one more reason to party beforehand with his friends, he

"Either we will have a big hangover in the morning or we'll be dead," said Kennedy, of Salt Lake City

In Washington, his president spoke out against any tendency towards US isolationism, saying US peace and security in the new millennium depended on engagement with the rest of the Bill Clinton had earlier paid tribute to Russian President Boris Yeltsin, who provided the end-of-millennium surprise with his resignation.

Some 10,000 Russians flocked to Red Square for midnight, only hours after the announcement. Meanwhile grim reality continued in Chechnya, where heavy fighting flared up, with Russian forces accusing rebels of attempting another attack with toxic chemicals.

Chinese President Jiang Zemin also struck a grim note in his New Year's address, stepping up pressure for Taiwan's reunification with the main-

China will not sit idle and tolerate any act calculated to split China, pursue the socalled 'independence of Taiwan,' or harm the fundamental interests of the Chinese people on both sides of the Taiwan Straits," he said.

In Britain, Prime Minister Tony Blair looked ahead to the new century with characteristic breeziness as the nation cleaned up after declaring its millennium celebrations the biggest, best and safest party

Meanwhile thieves stole a valuable Cezanne oil painting from a museum at Oxford while revellers were still thronging the streets outside.

Grim reality also intervened in Venezuela, where for thousands left homeless by killer floods the first day of 2000 was marked Saturday with trauma, disease and depression.

At refugee centres housing those who lost all to the torrential rains, women and children stood in line for hours awaiting medical attention, with children suffering from diarrhoea

In the Middle East, Israelis relaxed after none of the three things they feared -- suicides by Christian cranks, the Y2K bug and Palestinian unrest -- oc-

In Bethlehem, 2,000 doves soared into the air to the crack-hostages felt the government should not have released the three guerrillas, among whom was a Pakistani cleric who played a key role in fomenting

Muslim separatism in Indian

Prime Minister Vajpayee, in an obvious attempt to limit the political damage, highlighted the fact that his government

He also vowed to step up the

But analyst Rao said words

"Tomorrow if militancy be-

"It will be a morale booster

Military and police officers

-- many of whom voted for the BJP because of its tough stance against terrorism -- were unusually critical of the prisoner

On Friday, rumours gripped

New Delhi that Home Minister

Lal Krishna Advani -- a Hindu nationalist hawk -- had resigned to protest against the "surrender" by the government.

cials, but Advani, who surprisingly distanced himself from Vajpayee and his trusted advisors throughout the eight-day crisis, remained inaccessible to ramnaiam Swamy, demanded the prime minister's resigna-

One opposition leader, Sub-journalists.

This was denied by BJP offi-from the political fallout of his Kashmir, the government will have itself to blame. The release

Kashmir.

gotiations.

decision.

ling of fireworks in an unprecedented party for Palestinians. But elsewhere the Lebanese army was combing an area in the north after losing four soldiers killed and two missing in an ambush by fundamentalists.

Meanwhile a year-long Bible-reading project began in Spain's Valencia Cathedral as the clock struck midnight. Members of more than 100 churches, religious, sporting and social associations will take part in the readings, designed to "unite people of goodwill and bring God's word

And a race to produce the world's first millennium wine anderway in the Australian cutback town of Bourke where a couple began harvesting their grapes as the clocked ticked over to 2000.

The first drop to be called Genesis Chardonnay 2000 and expected to be ready some time this week, has already been secured by Christie's for auction later this year.

An Egyptian policeman sits on a camel as the sun rises at the Giza pyramids, south of Cairo, on the New Year's Day, at the end of a 12-hour concert by French multi-media wizard Jean Michel Jarre. Some 50,000 people attended the music and laser show, which ended as the first rays of light hit the ancient wonders. -AFP photo

Putin won't act hastily

BJP to pay heavy price for hijack deal: Analysts

NEW DELHI, Jan 2: India's ruling Hindu nationalists could pay a heavy political price for freeing three pro-Kashmiri Islamic militants to end the country's longest hijacking saga, analysts said Sunday, reports AFP. Prime Minister Atal Behari Vajpayee's BJP party had for decades prided itself as a hardened fighter against terrorism and criticised previous governments here for succumbing to terrorist blackmail. But the abrubt release of the lease of the 160 hostages aboard the hijacked Indian Airlines plane at Kandahar in Afghanistan has clearly robbed the party of its nationalist

"It is a serious setback for the BJP, because its leaders always projected themselves as those who could deal with terrorism with a firm hand," political analyst G.V.L. Narasimha Rao told AFP.

The fact that even at the be-jailed militants to secure the re- a brave front, claiming they would not yield to the hijackers, is all the more damaging to their image." Rao said.

"Whatever the compulsions, it's a setback. Vajpayee's standing has come down by a few notches."

The Indian opposition, still reeling under its shock defeat in September-October elections, has already fired its initial

Devi Sharan Sharma (2nd L), captain of the hijacked Indian Airlines Airbus, gestures as he relates the ordeal to Indian Prime Minister Atal Behari Vajpayee as other crew members look on during a function at Vajpayee's residence in New Delhi on Saturday.

of Tokyo, data on the position of the rods used to control nuclear reactions was not sent to the appropriate computer screen even though the data was fected and the position of the rods was verified by other means until the problem was corrected on Saturday afternoon, the TEPCO spokesman the computer had reset its date to February 2036. Technicians corrected the date and opera-was at the Shika nuclear power plant run by Hokuriku Electric (186 miles) northwest of Tokyo.

where problems were reported with a system used to send data on radiation emission and the pany headquarters and the gov-state of the power plant to com-

Power Co 9505.T about 300 km tions returned to normal.

Investigations found that

The longest-running glitch

At no time was safety af-

Rebels blow up gas pipeline in Gauhati

GAUHATI, Jan 2: Suspected separatist querrillas Sunday blew up a crude oil pipeline using a land mine in India's remote northeast, police said, reports AP.

There were no casualties "The explosion ripped apart at least 20 feet (six meters) of the pipeline leading to spillage of crude," said LN Tamuly, a top Assam state official.

No group claimed responsibility for the attack. But police blamed the United Liberation Front of Asom, or ULFA, for the blast in Sibsagar district, 380 kilometers (250 miles) east of Gauhati, the Assam state capi-

The pipeline was owned by state-owned Oil and Natural gas Corporation. It was expected to be repaired in a day or two, officials said.

123 die in yr-end festivity in Colombia

SANTAFE DE BOGOTA, Jan 2: Colombian authorities said on Saturday that they registered 123 dead and 240 injured during the celebrations of the end of the year in the country. reports Xinhua.

The number of deaths dropped 16 per cent, and that of injured 33 per cent, compared to the previous year-end, police irector General Luis Eenesto Callbert told the press.

A group of men on foot threw in the first hours of Saturday a hand grenade into a house, killing a young man and injuring 17 people, four children among these.

Another group of men threw a hand grenade against hundreds of people who were feasting the end of the year in the main plaza of the Guadalupe village, in the northeast of the over Chechnya

MOSCOW, Jan 2: Vladimir Putin, catapulted into the Kremlin by Boris Yeltsin's shock resignation, said he had no intention of acting hastily to end Russia's military campaign in Chechnya after making a flying visit to the region, reports > Reuters. Putin made a vigorous start as Russia's acting president with the trip to the breakaway region on Saturday to wish his troops a happy new year.

"I think that everything we have done so far has been justified," Putin said on his return to Moscow from Chechnya, in remarks broadcast by Russian NTV and monitored by the BBC in London.

Three months into their campaign to crush Islamic militants. Russian troops have taken control of most of Chechen territory except Grozny and the rebels' mountain hideouts in the south.

"We have no intention to liberate anything by acting hastily," he said in other remarks carried by Russian radio station Echo Moskvy.

"We plan to act in the best possible way, which means as few losses as possible among our servicemen and no losses among the civilian population." Putin, a tough-talking former spy, has won a cordial endorsement from US President Bill Clinton and other Western leaders for stressing Moscow's commitment to democratic

The 47-year-old Putin, who retains his post as prime minister, is keen to show he is firmly in control ahead of an expected March 26 presidential election.

'There will be no power vacuum, even for a moment. There has been no vacuum, nor will there be one," he told his countrymen in a New Year's Eve address before flying to Chechnya.

Fierce clashes meanwhile tern containing chloride and continued in outlying neighammonia near Russian posibourhoods of the Chechen capitions in Chechnya, creating a tal, Grozny, on Sunday and green cloud that hung over the both sides acknowledged losses city and could pose a danger to in the fighting. civilians there, ITAR-TASS Russian forces also accused news agency said.

the rebels for the third time in a Russian troops donned gas week of using hazardous toxic masks, but none was physically materials in their efforts to reaffected by the chemicals, the pel the Russian offensive. agency said, quoting unnamed Rebel fighters exploded a cis-Russian military sources.

Acting Russian President Vladimir Putin (R) signs tographs to Russian soldiers after an awarding ceremony in Gudermes, 30 km east of Grozny on Saturday.

N-plants in Japan free from Y2K bug problems

TOKYO. Jan 2: Computer Number 2 nuclear plant north malfunctions at Japanese nuclear power plants, possibly connected with the Y2K bug. have all been cleared up and did not affect safety or power generation, company spokesmen present in the computer.

said today, reports Reuters. Five different problems. most connected with data monitoring, emerged at four separate nuclear plants on Saturday, marring Japan's otherwise good performance in the millennium handover.

But all had been solved by evening, a trade ministry official said today, adding that there were no new reports of any trouble.

Power company officials said they were still looking into the causes. "It is too early to say with certainty that this was Y2K-related," added a spokesman for

Tokyo Electric Power Co Inc

9501.T (TEPCO), Japan's biggest

At TEPCO's Fukushima ernment in case of emergencies.

Ex-Beatle star Harrison leaves hospital

LONDON, Jan 2: Ex-Beatle George Harrison has left hospital two days after an intruder stabbed him in the chest at his mansion home, and is expected to make a complete recovery in a few weeks. Harefield Hospital announced here Sunday, re-

The 56-year-old was deemed sufficiently recovered to return home Saturday night.

"Harefield Hospital can conafter being assessed as medically fit by a consultant thoracic surgeon," a hospital spokesman said.

chest when he tackled the intruder at his home in Henleyon-Thames, west of London.

He suffered a one-inch (2.4 cm) stab wound to the chest, provoking a minor collapse of his right lung, as he struggled with the attacker.

Kumaratunga advised to seek treatment in US

President Chandrika Kumaratunga, who escaped assassination in a suicide bombing. has been advised to seek further treatment in the US to restore vision in one eye, a press report said Sunday, reports AFP.

"They indicated that she may seek further treatment in the US," the Island said, adding. however, that experts at Moorfield hospital in London had sume her normal duties.

Kumaratunga, 54, in her first television interview since surviving the December 18 suicide bomb attack here, told the BBC she was likely to permanently lose the use of her right

"Medically, (the doctors say) I can carry on, but probably

There had been speculation dent Kumaratunga leaving for but there was no official word suicide cadre of the Liberation dressing an election rally.

The blast killed 26 others and wounded 110 people who were at Kumaratunga's final election campaign rally held at Kumaratunga, who was

Millennium triplets

COLOMBO, Jan 2: A 16-yearold Sri Lankan village girl became a historic mother when she gave birth to triplets soon after the new millennium dawned at Colombo's main ma ternity hospital, media sources here said today, reports Xinhua

Doctors at the hospital have claimed that the teenage mother, Iresha Dilrukshi, and her triplets, all girls, could be the world's first triplets of the third millennium.

They added that the young mother and her triplets were in good condition.

The triplets were born at 12:51, 12:52 and 12:53 am in the first hour of the third millennium. They weighed 2.05 Kg. 1.95 Kg and 1.9 kg respectively. according to the doctors.

Media sources said Iresha and her 25-year-old labourer husband, Mahendra, who got married on January 13 last year, did not earn much but they were confident of being able to give the best to their millennium triplets.

Off the Record

Living exclusively online

DALLAS: In an effort to prove how weird the world has become, a 26-year-old former computer systems manager walked into an empty Dallas house on Saturday with a laptop computer and said he doesn't plan to leave until 2001, reports

"Our vision is that new online shoppers will go to our site to learn how to utilise e-commerce." said Mitch Maddox, who legally changed his name to DotComGuy and set up a company.

added: "I'm going to come out being a loon." streaming video from dozens of digital cameras set up throughout the house. One camera points at the kitchen, several face the living room, and one even sits on a bathroom shelf-turned away

The DotComGuy project has a few ground rules: Maddox can have visitors, but can't go farther than the back yard.

"We certainly don't recommend that people lock themselves away from the world, but we will prove that it can be done," said Len Critcher, a friend of Maddox's and president of DotComGuy

Maddox's first monthly paycheck from the company will be 24 dollar, but it will double every month as an incentive to stay in the house, Critcher said.

Critcher helped line up sponsors to sustain Maddox through the year, including Gateway, which donated the laptop, and Peapod.com, which agreed to keep the house stocked with online, jumped on board when it realised its company could benefit from a little live, online exposure. "We are going to have people say, 'Hey, DotComGuy, how do I install a brand new modem or how do I get this or that Web site?" said service911.com's Jeff Lipschultz. "And when he uses ting on the floor of an empty room chatting online with visi-

Among his first buys online: shampoo, toilet paper, cleaning supplies and carry-out food.

Bug bites baby

SEOUL: Y2K computer glitches cut off heating and hot water went without heat for several hours Saturday when a central heating system malfunctioned. Technicians later fixed the problem, after switching the computer recorded a newborn's birthday as Jan 1, 1900 - instead of the correct Jan 1, 2000. Another hospital in the city was forced to shut down equipment used to measure a patient's bone density because the machine could not register the year 2000. Patients were not harmed in either case, hospital officials said.

These problems happened because technicians did not replace their outdated computer software," said Kim Sung-il, a Y2K troubleshooter at the provincial government.

10 killed in Delhi fire: At least 10 people, including two women and six children, died in a fire at Khureli in east Delhi early yesterday morning. Xinhua reports from New Delhi. Local police said that the fire broke out around 0200 local time in an electrical goods shop and spread quickly to an adjoining polythene sheets shop and then to the houses behind in which the victims were sleeping. The exact cause of the fire is not yet known and the incident is being investigated. Ukrainian ship sinks: A Ukrainian cargo ship sank early Sunday in the Black Sea and at least some members of the 12-man crew survived, the Russian Emergency Situations Ministry reported, AP reports from Moscow. A ministry rescue helicopter spotted two lifeboats in Russian waters near the site of the sinking, but it was unclear how many people were aboard, a duty officer in Moscow said. The Tiksi dry cargo ship. flying a Cambodian flag, was sailing between Nikolayeve, Ukraine and Poti, Georgia. The ministry said that the cause of the sinking was unknown, but it may have been stormy weather. No other details were available.

Two die in Lankan blast: A bomb exploded in an auto-rickshaw in eastern town of Batticaloa Sunday, killing two people and wounding three others, police said, AP says from Colombo.

No one claimed responsibility for the blast, but police blamed the main Tamil separatist group, the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam. Those killed were apparently taking the explosive to an intended target, but it went off on the way, a police officer said on condition of anonymity. Batticaloa, 220 kilometers (135 miles) east of Colombo, is under government control, but it often targeted by Tamil rebels operating from their jungle hideouts.

ports AFP. its London correspondent.

firm that George Harrison has been discharged from hospital

Harrison was stabbed in the

COLOMBO, Jan 2: Sri Lanka

Kumaratunga who returned home from London Thursday after treatment was told by doctors that it could be six months before she can open her right eye lid, the Sunday Island newspaper said in a report by given her the green light to re-have lost the sight on this eve. she said pointing to her right eye that remained shut during the interview with BBC.

over the weekend here of Presi-Arizona for further treatment from the authorities. Police said that a woman

Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) detonated explosives strapped to her body as Kumaratunga was about to get into her ar moured limousine after ad-

Colombo's Town Hall grounds. probably saved by her car, said she was the only leader who had "lived to tell the tale" after a LTTE suicide bombing.

Hijacked plane may have crashed at Lahore, says pilot

NEW DELHI, Jan 2: The Inhad to land at Lahore only. dian airliner that was hijacked may have crashed at Lahore in Pakistan if it had not been allowed to land because the men holding a gun at the pilot's head insisted on landing, newspapers said Sunday, reports AFP. The Asian Age quoted Captain Devi Saran as saying the gunmen, who were armed with pistols and grenades, demanded the Indian Airlines Airbus must land at Lahore after its Christmas eve hijack. The plane, which had taken the cockpit and started giving off from Kathmandu in Nepal. made its first landing at Amritsar in northern India. But the pilot said the hijackers forced him to leave Indian territory as soon as possible.

"I was under pressure. There masks and followed instrucwas little fuel with me and the (Lahore) runway was given very late," Saran said. "We could have crashed, but by God's grace we landed safely. "The authorities in Lahore did not want the plane to crash there, so they gave me the runway lights. I did not have fuel to go (back) to Amritsar and so I

The pilot said the hijackers me stories and jokes. Actually, were in panic when the plane earlier touched down at Amritsar, an Indian town close to the Pakistan border. Saran also recalled how the plane, with 189 people on board, was hijacked. "The plane was flying over released three jailed pro-Lucknow when the five hijackers stood up, one got into the cockpit and announced that the plane had been hijacked. Only commands. "I could not hear any name but the person in the cockpit was called Chief. He was wearing a suit and a mask. The remaining four were also wearing tions issued by him. "Initially the passengers were not allowed to talk to each other ... They never abused me. They were nice, cool ... Neither did they misbehave with any of the airhostesses. Their attitude was okay.

(people) and at times they were

The plane was flown to Dubai after Amritsar and Lahore and landed at Kandahar in Afghanistan on December 25. The passengers and crew were freed on Friday after New Delhi friendly. They even used to tell we were at their mercy.'

Kashmiri militants. Before the eight-day ordeal ended, the hijackers killed a newly-wed Indian male passenone hijacker initially entered ger.

Hijackers'

last words NEW DELHI, Jan 2: "See you. We will be back soon," one of the hijackers of the Indian Airlines plane told stunned hostages at the end of the eight-day ordeal. newspapers reported Sunday. reports AFP.

This is only the beginning of our war against the Indian government." The Hindustan Times newspaper quoted one of the live hijackers as having told some passengers on their "At times they terrorised release on Friday in Afghanistan.

The Muslim men who hijacked the flight on Christmas eve after it took off from the Nepalese capital Kathmandu for New Delhi have been described by India as Pakistanis. The hijack saga ended when jacker told the hostages: "Bye, see you. God willing, we shall meet again. The released passengers also recalled that the hijackers kept praising the Taliban government in Afghanistan and running down India when the nego-

India freed three jailed pro-

The Times said another hi-

Kashmiri militants.

tiations were on with Indian officials. They told us that we should be thankful to the Afghanistan government since they were arranging food for us," said Kavita Sharma, a woman who was on the hijacked Airbus. The Indian government has just left you to die and will not do anything to save you, they different passengers and crew.

The hijackers, who were hooded, behaved differently to

His plan: live exclusively online, including ordering food, furniture and clothes and hosting a 24-hour live video feed of DotComGuy Inc. for the stunt. After locking himself inside the rented house Saturday, he The "live" part of the DotComGuy stunt involves 24-hour from the toilet and bathtub. The project's Web site is www. DotComGuy, com.

Dallas-based service 911.com, which offers computer advice our site, that's how people will learn about us." Saturday afternoon, the Web site video showed Maddox sit-in an apartment block and caused a hospital to record a newborn baby's age as 100, government officials said Sunday. reports AP. About 900 apartments in Pyongchon, just south of Seoul, system to manual control. In the nearby city of Ansan, a hospital said Sunday that its

All the reported Y2K problems in South Korea occurred in Kyonggi province surrounding Seoul. The region had been accused of neglecting Y2K preparations.