Clinton to push for middle-class tax reduction

WASHINGTON, Jan 3: President Bill Clinton plans to call for a tax cut this year along the lines of the array of tightly targeted proposals rejected by Congress last year, his chief of staff said Sunday, reports AP.

"I think you can expect the president to propose a tax cut in his budget and in his State of the Union." John Podesta said on CBS television's Face the Nation. "I think that it will be about the size that we proposed last year.'

The Republican-run Congress last year passed, and Clinton vetoed, a 10-year, $ 792 billion tax cut after rejecting the president's proposal for a targeted package of cuts totaling about $ 36 billion over five years that he had included last February in his fiscal 2000 budget proposal.

Govt mulls re-imposition of rice import duty

By Inam Ahmed

The government is mulling over the re-imposition of import duty on rice which was lifted following the 1998 floods to cope with a possible food cri-

Instalment Facility

Available

Last year's record all-time high rice production has rendered its import unnecessary. In 1999, when prices of coarse rice shot up to as high as Tk 14 a kg, the government withdrew the duty to facilitate its supply.

But the Food Ministry now suspects that taking advantage of the duty-free import regime, there has been huge import of taxable items in the guise of rice, sources said.

They said that about two million MT importable were recorded to have been imported after the floods. But when this figure was tallied with the export figures from India, it was found that there was a gap of half a million tonnes. "The figures of the Indian side show at least half a million less imports and unscrupulous businessmen must have imported taxable items declaring them as rice," said an official. The ministry sources said that despite a stable supply situation inside the country, 7000 MT of rice were still imported in November.

Meanwhile, the government's silos are already running at a full capacity of 1.5 million MT, leaving very little option for fresh procurement. To make additional purchases, the government has already asked some vital ministries to buy rice from the local currency components of different projects and implement the works through food-for-work pro-

The Water Resources Ministry alone will buy Tk 15 crore rice from the Food Ministry to implement its ADP projects.

Meanwhile, economists feel that the government's plan to procure two lakh tons of rice will be able to give very little price support and it will need go for at least half a million tons to one million tons of procurement for making any real impact on the market.

The government is also planning to expedite rice distribution for its food-for-works programmes and also to advance the timing of the VGD programme. At the same time, the volume of rice for test-relief and rural road management programme will also be increased for swift uptake of grains from the silos.

The government and the economists are now awaiting developments in the next two to three weeks. "If the price falls drastically, we might give extra support by enhancing our procurement target," said one official. "Because of the successive bumper production, people are already thinking that we have reached a higher production frontier, opening up scopes for agricultural exports," said Dr Kazi Shahabuddin of BIDS.

"But we have to sustain this trend and set a price competitiveness tone over the next five years to establish the market link. Countries like Thailand, Vietnam and the USA have already been making good harvests which helped them top the global rice exporters' list."

Eight insurance cos shelve their plans to go public

By M Shamsur Rahman

Eight insurance companies have suspended their plans to go public by December 31, 1999, because of the prevailing depression in the capital market.

Under the Insurance Companies Act, which makes initial public offerings (IPOs) a must for the insurance companies. these firms were supposed to float shares by the end of last year. But under-subscription fears refrained them from going public.

Malaysia records trade surplus for 25th month

KUALA LUMPUR, Jan 3: Malaysia recorded a trade surplus in November last year for the 25th consecutive month despite a rise in imports, the Statistics Department said today, reports AFP. The department, citing preliminary figures, said the surplus was 5.5 billion ringgit (1.45 billion dollars) compared to 6.5 billion in November 1998.

Exports for November totalled 27.9 billion ringgit, a rise * of 13.4 per cent over November 1998, while imports were worth 22.4 billion ringgit, an increase of 23.4 per cent. Electrical and electronic products accounted for more than 57 per cent of

During the first 11 months of last year Malaysia recorded a 22.9 per cent rise in its trade surplus to 63.6 billion ringgit compared to January-November 1998, the department said. Exports rose 10.1 per cent and imports grew 6.9 per cent.

The country's electronics industry is benefiting from booming global demand and the pegged currency is making exports more price-competitive. But analysts expect the huge trade surplus to shrink this year, with imports increasing further amid a recovery in domestic demand. When the economy starts to recover strongly or inflationary pressure mounts, they say, authorities may lift capital controls.

In another statement Statistics Department reported a 23.1 rise in the industrial production index in November compared to November 1998, with the manufacturing sector index soaring 32.6 per cent. The index rose 2.1 per cent compared to October 1999. In the first eleven months of last year the index rose 8.4 per cent compared to the same period in 1998.

Referring to the planned introduction of a 10 per cent goods and services tax (GST) in July, he said: "Then we think there'll be another 25 in March or April, and then they'll probably sit for a little while running into the introduction of the GST. then we think there'll be another 75 basis points which seems likely around about September or October.
