

Living on the riches of sea

A bird's eye view of the Kuakata sea beach

Setting out for the deep sea ... and coming back with its riches (below)

For the fishermen in Kuakata, the Bay of the Bengal has always been the benefactor; so much so that they have started taking it for granted. Responsibility towards the marine eco-system is too academic for them to take interest in. Hardly do they know such apathy would harm them in the long run. Recently, A K M Mohsin went to Kuakata and arrested in frames a day in the lives of the sea and the fishermen

Cruel it looks though but to them that's how it should be done ... and then comes the gory part (below)

The wastes are left on the beach for the sea to take back ...

... or the sea gulls to feast on
