Uncertainty over Rajshahi, Kurigram flood protection work

Erosion takes serious turn in Satkhira

From Our Correspondent

RAJSHAHI, Feb 14: Works on protection of Rajshahi city from erosion and flood before the next rainy season has become uncertain with the postponement of the works on revetment of the most vulnerable parts of bank of the River Padma.

Bangladesh Water Development Board (BWDB) took the project of the Padma River Bank Revetment at Alupatty, Fudkipara and Kumarpura of the city under Phase V of Rajshahi Town Protection Project under Border River Protection Development and Town Protection Project (9 sub-projects) during the year 1999-2000.

Rajshahi Town Protection embankment, an earthen-work

The authorities has not shown any reason of suspending the work," the contractor, Kh Mainul Islam said. He has already completed about 35 per cent of the work and spent about Taka 90 lakh, he claimed. He imported boulders from India and made cement blocks that have been placed at different points alongside the bank of the river.

When contacted, the Chief Engineer, North-Western Zone, BWDB, Rajshahi said that the work of the revetment of the bank of the River Padma had been postponed at the instruction from the Ministry of Water Resources and Flood Control. A bidder namely Milon Traders of Naogaon has submitted a com-

The lottery was held in presence of the four bidders and Kh Mainul Islam stood the winner. Accordingly, the Executive Engineer, Rajshahi O&M Division-I issued the formal work order on January 6 and Sub-Divisional Engineer, Rajshahi O&M Sub-Division-I issued the detailed work order on the same day.

"I have agreed to work on condition of getting payment of the bills when the fund will be available as there has been no fund for the work at present", Kh Mainul Islam said. "And I have already spent a handsome amount", he said.

A source in BWDB said that an influential minister, recently appointed from greater Ziaur Rahman.

Another attempt was made in 1991 to salvage the project and WDB completed construction of 179km embankment, 145km irrigation canals and 12 bridges and installation of 17 sluice gates, spending Tk 86 crore.

In 1991-92, a total of Tk 4.52 crore was spent for renovation and repair of the project.

Later in 1992-93, construction of two groynes, 540km riverbank protection work, 574 crossdams and two groynes, spurs were completed under Secondary Town Integrated Protection Project funded by ADB.

However, a 500-metre area of the flood protection embankstructure built about a century ago alongside the bank of the River Padma, had been seriously damaged by floods in 1998 and 1999 rendering the whole city at risk of being overflooded at any time.

The river, diverting its course to the Bangladesh side, has been directly striking the city causing severe erosions during last three years. A vast area has already been devoured by the river. At some places, as in Alupatty, Fudkipara, Kumarpura, Dargapara, Bulanpur, Talaimari, Dashmari, Shyam-pur and Shahapur, the river has approached closer to the city residences and the Town Protection Embankment and is flowing only a few yards of the bank on the side of the city.

It being apprehended that the River Padma would breach the Town Protection Embankment at those points in the next rainy season and in that case the whole city and the suburbs would go under five to 10 feet deep water within half-an-hour. To save Rajshahi city from such a devastation the project on Padma River Bank Revetment was taken on emergency basis by BWDB early this financial year.

The estimated cost of the work was Taka 2,50,58,621.

After all necessary formalities, the work was given to Kh Mainul Islam of Hossainigang, Rajshahi. The work order was given in the first week of January this year and scheduled to be completed by May next.

But suddenly on January 29 the work was suspended by the BWDB authorities.

plaint to the ministry of tampering in scrutinising and evaluating the bids and the ministry responded to it.

According to the official sources, a number of six bids were received. At first the Tender Committee A (TC-A) of the Chief Engineer, North-Western Zone, BWDB, Rajshahi evaluated the qualification and price of the bids and found all the six bids 'technically qualified'. TC-A submitted its evaluation report on December 21, 1999 to the Tender Committee-M (TC-M) comprising Member (O&M) Member (Finance), BWDB, Dhaka as the chairman, Member (Finance), BWDB, Dhaka as a member and Additional Chief Engineer, North-Western Zone, BWDB Rajshahi as the member-secretary.

After scrutiny and evaluation of the price bids, the TC-M found five bids 'responsive' and another one submitted by Milon Traders 'non-responsive'. TC-M explained, 'M/S Milon Traders has quoted the amount of Tk 2,38,05,690 only but the evaluated amount comes to Tk 2,38,05,610 only which is more than five per cent below the estimated cost and this stands non-responsive.'

Another bid submitted by Sk Emdadul Haque Al-Mamun was also excluded from the lottery for being 'responsive but not the lowest'. The other four bids including that of Kh Mainul Islam were found to quote the same lowest amount of Tk 2,38,05,690 only which is five per cent below the estimated cost. So the TC-M selected these four 'lowest responsive' bids for lottery.

Rajshahi region, was playing behind the screen to manage the work for his 'favourite' Milon Traders. The minister has reportedly got agitated when his 'favourite' Milon Traders failed to win another BWDB bid for a work in Naogaon even after creating a reign of terror, it is learnt.

"The allegation of Milon Traders against the tender committee of tampering in scrutinising and evaluating the bids is a serious allegation and the ministry has taken it seriously," the Chief Engineer, North-Western Zone, BWDB, Rajshahi said over telephone. The ministry has ordered suspension of the work and formed a body to investigate into the matter, he said.

Sources are apprehending that the investigation and final disposal of the issue, that is feared to be more intricate with passage of time will take much time. This will make impossible to complete work by May. Then the rainy season will begin and Rajshahi city with a population of about seven lakh will have to remain under threat of going under water for another year. This has been a prime concern of the city dwellers.

UNB from Kurigram says: An ambitious flood protection and irrigation project, taken up by Water Development Board (WDB) some 27 years ago, could not yet be implemented due to administrative complications.

The Tk 36.54 crore project, undertaken in 1973, was scheduled to be completed in 1980-81 fiscal. The project works included construction of 183-km embankment and 93 bridges, installation of 23 regulators and excavation of 254-km irrigation canals. But, the project works had been suspended after the 1975 changeover.

In 1980-81 fiscal, another scheme, 'Dhara Bazar Project' involving Tk 181 crore, was merged with the project.

After the merger of the two projects, WDB had set up a 'barage division' for its rapid implementation. But the project work was again suspended after the assassination of President ment near Chhemerkuti was washed away by floodwaters last year.

Although some works have been done on the embankment later, the Dhara Bazar Project never saw the light.

Meanwhile, the Barrage Division has been renamed as WDB-2.

Our Satkhira Correspondent says: Erosion by the River Kabodak has taken a serious turn due to fall in water level in the river.

During the last two decades thousands of families have already become homeless by such erosion. Seriously affected areas are Ballia Bazar, Jathua Bazar, Mela Bazar, Magura and Rahimpur, all in Tala thana.

This year erosion by the river has rendered over 500 families homeless. More than 600 bighas of land, roads, trees, shops, bamboo gardens, and schools have gone under water. Erosion is a common phenomenon in these areas, but no step has been taken so far to check the erosion.

The homeless people have taken shelter on roads. Most of them are passing their days in misery.

Farmers said the demand for vegetables like cauliflower, cabbage, potato, brinjal, tomato, spinach, bean and pumpkin has multiplied over the last few years.

Besides, they said, it takes less time in harvesting these winter crops than many other traditional ones.

A farmer at village Kallati in Sadar thana said he planted tomato in October and started harvesting just from the next month. He had sold tomato at Tk 30 per kg at the beginning of the season.

A farmer, he said, could fetch up as much as Tk one lakh from an acre of land by cultivating 'early variety' of tomato.

Bangladesh Agriculture Research Institute (BARI) has developed 'early variety' of tomato-4 and tomato-5, official sources said.

Meanwhile, some other vegetable seeds, including BARI ground-033, BARI cabbage, coal BARI-SEEM (shirring bean) and BARI-brinjal, have also gained popularity among the farmers.

To achieve the target, Agriculture Extension Department is providing training to farmers while BADC supplying seeds, fertilisers, pesticides and other agri-inputs to them. Bangladesh Krishi Bank and other commercial banks are also providing soft-term loans to the farmers. Open sale of non-iodised salt

A large number of people are suffering from various diseases like goitre, deafness, dumbness, physical handicap and mentally retardation caused by iodine-deficiency. A section of unscrupulous traders, defying the government ban on sale and storing of non-iodised salt, are selling non-iodised and adulterated salt, giving a rise to the diseases. As non-iodised salt is cheaper than the iodised one, rural poor prefer the non-iodised salt. Allegations are also there that non-iodised salt is being sold in some markets under cover of iodised one.
