No headway in some sensational murder cases DB takes over after police fail to nab accused

By Shaikh Nazrul Islam

Police could not arrest any of the accused in some sensational murder cases, despite orders from high-ups.

The Detective Branch (DB) of Dhaka Metropolitan Police took over some of these sensational cases, but there has been no headway.

The case regarding the double murder in Mohammadpur was transferred to the DB soon after the incident. The then DB inspector A.K.M. Mohsinuzzaman was given the responsibility to investigate the case. Mohsinuzzaman was later transferred to the Mohammadpur thana as its OC.

Mohsinuzzaman said on Tuesday the DB officials would investigate the case since it was transferred to their department.

The deputy commissioner of DB said he had asked Mohsin-uzzaman to continue with his investigation. He, however, suggested that the CID take up the double murder case.

Two brothers - Ashfaq Hossain Jewel, 28, and Mohammad Ali Rebel, 24, were gunned down in the space of 15 minutes by Kamal Pasha, allegedly an professional killer, on May 5, according to an FIR lodged with Mohammadpur police station.

Pasha, a distant relative of a ruling party MP, is still at large. The case regarding murder of a cell phone trader in Banani was recently transferred to the Detective Branch. Iftekhar Ahmed Shipu, the trader, was gunned down at the staircase of UAE Maitri Market in Banani on the night of May 24. The victim's brother in a case accused three young men, including Jewel Majumder, son of Awami League MP Kamal Majumder, of the killing.

The case was handed over to the DB after two weeks of investigation by Gulshan police.

The triple murder case registered on April 5 was also handed over to the DB. The detectives so far failed to arrest the main accused who is reported to have links with political heavyweights of the locality.

Three young men were shot dead near the Mohakhali police box on April 5. Police filed a murder case ignoring the presence of the victim's family. Later, the family filed separate petition case with the CMM's Court, Dhaka, accusing 11 people of the killing. Motaahar Hossain, main accused in the case, is reportedly enjoys blessing of an influential ruling party leader.

BNP keeps all options open

works related to the party and politics will be kept there," said BNP Secretary-general Abdul Mannan Bhuiyan.

New staff will man the office. Even Khaleda's private and party security men, who stays with her round-the-clock, will not be allowed to enter the Banani office.

The leader said a panel of senior leaders, ex-bureaucrats, academics and experts belonging to BNP will sit at Banani office and carry out research works. They will decide party activities, suggest the party chairperson about her speech on different important issues, enquire about party candidates and their performances in constituencies, observe the political situation and BNP's position in each constituency, make contacts with foreign countries and their representatives, give necessary guidelines to the party's publicity wing.

BNP will launch its own website soon. "We have almost completed necessary works to launch our own website," said BNP's joint secretary general Haris Chowdhury, who along with Tareq Rahman have been given the charge to chalk out various plans.

Khaleda Zia will sit at the Banani office once or twice a week or after finishing her activities at 29 Minto Road official residence and party's central office at Naya Palan.

She already met a group of retired bureaucrats and exchanged views on various important issues at her new office. She also discussed with party MPs individually and listened to their problems and prospects.

BNP central office will run the organisational activities and the secretary-general will look into entire political affairs and organisational activities side by side with supervising the activities of different wings.

Party sources said BNP will soon rent an office for its publicity wing to start publication of poster, leaflets, booklets, audio-video cassettes etc. for distribution all over the country prior to the next polls and during the election campaigns.

It also plans to rent a "big office" to conduct election activities and hold small gatherings like joining programmes and meetings with district unit leaders and activists.

A BNP senior leader said the party will open an Election Monitoring Cell soon to administer the future polls and keep in touch with each constituency and thana headquarters. A separate office is expected to be set up in the city for this cell. It will also maintain close contact with Election Commission, district and thana administration, election observers, both local and foreign, and other polls related matters.

Meanwhile, the new office has created mixed reaction among the party leaders and workers.

BNP hardliners are dead against of this office, saying this will isolate Khaleda Zia from party leaders and activists since the entry will be restricted. But party insiders said the hardliners have long been giving various "ambitious, imprudent and unrealistic" advises that apparently threw the party into serious crisis and precarious position.

Khaleda Zia is now convinced that she made some major mistakes taking moves on advice of the hardliners, said a top BNP leader. He added she is now trying to proceed in a "well-planned and systematic" way.

LC forgery involving Tk 9 cr unearthed

The local office of the United Commercial Bank Ltd (UCBL) detected LC forgery involving about Tk 9 crore and handed over one of a suspected racket to police yesterday, reports UNB.

Sources said the forgery bid was unearthed when the negotiating bank of a back-to-back LC sent bills to the master LC-issuing bank, City Bank N.A., in Hong Kong, which did not even open the master LC. It was a forged letter of credit.

A garment buying house, The Great Bangladesh Apparel Company, produced two forged master LCs — one valued US$ 9,99,600 and another US$ 7,49,500 — to the local office of the UCBL to transfer the LCs to five garment factories.

The UCBL local office authenticated the LCs requested by the buying house to transfer and execute the apparel order. LCs worth some 14,00,000 US dollars were transferred to five garment factories as per the choice of the buying house.

The factories are R T Fashions Ltd of Senpara Parbata at Mirpur, S K Apparels Ltd of section-6, Senpara Parbata, Erbatex Garments Ltd of West Rampura, M S Fashions Ltd of Hazira in Rampura and Everest Apparels Ltd at Hemayetpur in Savar.

Later, garment factories opened back-to-back LCs with their respective bank branches against the master one. The banks are Fakirpool and Kalabagan branches of Uttara Bank Ltd, Agrani Bank principal branch, two branches of NCCBL and Mercantile Bank Ltd.

As the principal branch of the Agrani Bank sent bills worth US dollar 98,000 for collection from the LC-issuing bank, the Citi Bank NA, Hong Kong, informed the Agrani Bank's branch that they did not open the LCs.

As a result, the Agrani Bank branch informed the LC-transferring bank UCBL of the bungling. Later, UCBL contacted Standard Chartered Bank, Dhaka, the advising bank, which denied their advising authentication.

The group duplicated the advising authentication on the letterhead of Standard Chartered Bank. Test authentication of the LC was also forged where rubber stamp of Standard Chartered Bank was used, "one source said."

Accused in the LC forgery case Rezaul Alam, however, confessed "partial involvement" in the fraud.

"But main beneficiaries are the garment factories related with the case and I was used by them," Alam told UNB at Motijheel thana last night.

Newspapermen demand new Wage Board

By Staff Correspondent

The Sangbadik-Sramik Karmachari Oikya Parishad yesterday strongly demanded the formation of new wage board for journalists, employees and workers of the newspaper industry and announce 60 per cent dearness allowance for them to cope with the inflation and rising cost of living.

The statement issued after a meeting of the Parishad adopted an unanimous resolution with G M Yakub in the chair at the National Press Club on Tuesday and noted the assurance given by Prime Minister to consider the problems of the newspaper industry including the price hike of newsprint, the government advertisement rates and other issues during a meeting with the Bangladesh Sangbadipatra Parishad.

"In this connection we would like to draw the attention of the PM and the State Minister for Information that the problems besetting the newspaper industry were not the problems of the owners alone. Rather they (owners) have created many problems. So the idea that the resolution of the owners' problems would resolve the problems in the industry are not logical.

To solve the problems the demands of the owners as well as the journalists-workers and employees should also be taken into consideration. Because most of the owners enjoying the benefits provided by the government had failed to implement the Wage Board Award and pay salaries and allowances, take recourse to re-

Suicide bomber rams his bike into military bus in Lanka

COLOMBO, June 14: A suicide bomber rammed his bicycle into a bus carrying 25 sick military troops today, killing himself and two passersby on a highway that links the capital with the international airport, the defense ministry and police said, reports AP.

In the north, where most of this island nation's 17-year Tamil separatist war is being fought, troops shot and killed five rebels in three overnight encounters, a government statement said.

The government blamed the bus explosion on the Tamil Tiger rebels who are fighting to establish an independent homeland for Sri Lanka's 3.2 million Tamils minority.

The suicide bomber and two passersby were killed and another seven civilians were wounded, said Premalal Ranagala, the police chief in the Wattala section of Colombo.

Today... a Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam suicide cadre exploded a bomb targeting a bus carrying air force personnel, government spokesman Ariya Rubasinghe said in a statement.

An evasive action by the bus driver minimised the impact as the blast damaged the rear portion of the vehicle.

"The bus had slowed down and the driver saw the bicycle man and became suspicious... He managed to swerve his vehicle, thus not allowing the bomber to hit the target properly," said the Defense Ministry spokesman, Brig. Palitha Fernando.

"It could have been a huge disaster had not the driver of the bus reacted quickly," Fernando said.

None of the air force men or soldiers was killed or injured, Fernando said. The troops were being shifted from a base hospital near the airport to various hospitals in the capital, he said, adding that they had not been injured in battle.

The male bomber attacked the bus about 10 kilometers north of Colombo and the main impact of the explosion was at the rear of the bus, which was damaged, Ranagala said.
