Experimental but Excellent

Solo show of Hiranmay Chanda's 'decorative' works

By Fayza Haq

NOT going by the promising sale at Alliance Francaise, but studying his work and speaking to him, one realizes only full well that here are paintings of a young man who studies life around him, and portrays the portion that he likes with suavity and perseverance.

Having obtained his MA in fine Arts from DU, he has entered the main stream of young painters with an eye for detail and careful consideration for his choice of colours and compositions. He has left out the ugly elements of internal political situation of the country that he detests and the ugliness of the environment in the Dhaka city that only depresses and angers one. Working in his room, which serves as a studio, and having a five year old son to inspire him, he works relentlessly to present the pristine paintings on clay slabs. Pottery has been seen replete in the city but here are delectable pieces that would win the hearts of not only the average viewers, and buyers, both local and foreign, of paintings at Dhaka, but also the teachers at the Fine Arts

Dept. DU and other connoisseurs.

Each piece has been painted by gouache on burnt clay and contains subjects like fish, birds, plants, horses, tigers and human beings. These have been taken from what he has seen in his childhood and what he sees today on TV and other news media. The forms intertwine with each other so that you see two objects blending and merging into one another. Chanda has also subtly combined elements like the "dheki" with other figures, easily seen in the Bangladeshi urban world such as chicken. He brings in bicycles and musical instruments with finesse. Chanda does not limit himself to the visual world. As he is an enthusiast of "Rabindrasangeet", there is a smooth blending of his figures, almost like some gentle lyrical manner emanating from his love for music.

Chanda's exhibit, his first solo, called "Decorative Fantasy" includes a kingfisher diving down to search for a gray fish. With a face as gorgeous as an Indian goddess. This is offset by colourful fleshy leaves. The surrounding river and the sky are also brought into the composition with carefully balanced colours, which keeps our heritage in mind, and is yet something which would easily appeal to the western eyes.

The painter's "Elephant and the Birds" is once again a mind-boggling and buoyant creation with bold sweeps of colours and lines of which Chanda is absolutely confident of having a command over. The swirls and twirls of the brilliant yellow ochre is combined with vibrant blue and offset by careful outlines, seen in all the exhibits. They are presented on a background of soothing sea green, flecked with emeralds spots which bring in the jungle background of the blue elephant placed upside down, and the birds flying from two different directions.

Another vibrant painting at the display was "Fantasy-5" which depicts a clay vase placed on a table with a mauve tablecloth and bars of curtains in purple and peacock blue. As the heart shaped leaves hang down gently on the container, it one has "the time to stand and stare", one detects a woman's face complete with eyes, lips and waving tresses.

The "Cat and Butterfly" creation is once again a carefully created composition, with the simple but eye-catching painting of a black cat with purple ears and nose, and a kite-like butterfly with flaring wings and a gray body. Semi-circles, triangles, bars and zig-zags, along with flecks and scallops complete this amazing picture of pristine nature.

Hiranmay Chanda, born at Jessore in '64, has had 14 local joint exhibits earlier in Dhaka. Besides these, his works have been shown at Germany, '98, the 6th Asian Art Biennale, Bangladesh, '93, the 5th Asian Art Biennale, Bangladesh, '93, a solo exhibit at Moscow, USSR, '82. He has won three awards: one form Moscow in '84, the second from UNO, Dhaka in '84, and the one earlier for the best water-colour exhibit at the annual art exhibition at the Fine Arts Institute, DU, in '82.

Chanda works at Spectrum Graphics, Dhaka; is an instructor for differently-abled children at the Bangladesh Shishu Academy, and is the brains behind "Charupith" at Jessore.
