"People do not appreciate defensive players who build an innings. They only want to see entertaining cricket. I certainly can be innovative and adventurous if the situation calls for it. However, if the runs are coming for me, no matter how, I will not change a thing in my batting."

Transfer market opens

Abahani chase shadows

Sports Reporter

The fire that generated at the Zia International Airport (ZIA) on Tuesday sparked again at the Bangladesh National Stadium yesterday when wild Abahani supporters chased Muktiyoddha Sangsad official Jahangir Alam on the opening day of the inter-club footballers' transfer.

Jahangir, who successfully led the 'hijack' episode on arrival of the national team from England, came under the wrath of a strong band of Abahani fans at the Dhaka Mahanagari Football League Committee (DMFLC) office for snatching away national custodian Aminul.

Aminul, the most talked-about player in this year's transfer, has been the subject of a prolonged dispute between Abahani and Muktiyoddha.

Muktiyoddha, who captured Aminul at the airport, rubbed more salt on the popular Dhanmondi outfit's wound when they sought Aminul's transfer on commission along with two more major Abahani booters—central defender Prodip Kumar Podar and striker Maksudul Amin Rana.

A commission transfer means that the player concerned needs not to appear for signing at the common venue. Under the provisions, the transfer formalities are completed at a location chosen by the player or club officials.

The departure of Prodip and Rana has served as a fatal blow for Abahani, who tried to find some sort of solace in disguise by roping in national striker Kanchan, their Tuesday's catch at from the airport.

"We have lodged a protest to the Bangladesh Football Federation regarding Aminul", said Abahani official Ashrafuddin Chunnun who claimed that Aminul had taken an advance payment of Taka three lakhs from the club.

Besides, Chunnun also termed the moves of Prodip and Rana as illegal. He however did not elaborate.

Abahani somewhat compensated the departure of Aminul with Biplob, the number two custodian of the country. They have also signed up Mohammedan striker Mizanur Rahman Don, Farshganj defender Nazrul and Arambagh's right-back Firoz Mahmud Titu.

Abahani officials are still fighting with the DMFLC secretary Swakat Ali Khan Jahangir on the issue of two suspended players—Arambagh's left-back Mithu and Rahmatganj goalie Apple.

The existing law forbids a player who is suspended by his club from taking part in the transfers.

While Abahani were struggling to rebuild a team after being thumped by Muktiyoddha, arch-rivals Mohammedan Sporting Club gave only a courtesy visit last evening.

The holders, who have already fortified their ranks, completed the signings of former national captain Jewel Rana and veteran striker Imtiaz Ahmed Naqib. Both are already in training with the club preparing for their tour to England.

Brothers Union were the first among the top teams to enter the market. Parvez Babu was the lone notable signing of the Gopibagh outfit. But the once prosperous team from Gopibagh maintained a low profile, concentrating only on underdog players.

The move of Parvez however upsets the balance of Badda Jagorani, who created a sensation last year.

The list of the pool players who took part in yesterday's transfer:

Parvez Babu	Badda	Brothers
Kanchan	Farshganj	Abahani
Titu	Arambagh	Abahani
Donav Raju	Mohammedan	Abahani
Mithu	Rahmatganj	Muktiyoddha

Eng, WI get back to Test

MANCHESTER, England, Aug 2 (Reuters): England and West Indies swap cricket "pyromania" for traditional whites on Thursday to resume their five-Test battle that was left intriguingly poised at 1-1 a month ago.

The break in the series was to allow the two teams and Zimbabwe to play a 10-match limited-overs tournament, but the coloured clothing, white balls and black sightcreens now give way to the authentic version of the game.

England, having won the triangular one-day series in style, may feel that they start the third Test at Old Trafford with a psychological edge.

West Indies, however, who recorded just one win in six matches during the one-dayers, would argue that the return of fast bowlers Courtney Walsh and Curtly Ambrose completely changes the equation.

Walsh, with 18 wickets in the first two Tests, is fit again after a foot problem and will be keen to add to his world record haul of 467 Test wickets.

Ambrose, rested during the triangular tournament and fast approaching the end of his career, is just six wickets short of his 400.

They will relish the chance to run in at England's top order again, with left-handed opener Marcus Trescothick, selected for his Test debut in Manchester after an impressive one-day series, an inviting target.

The 37-year-old Walsh, in particular, has barely missed anything that he has aimed at so far on tour, taking five for 36 and three for 22 to help win the first Test, then following that up with four for 43 and six for 74 in the second.

England, however, contrived an unlikely two-wicket win in a gripping finish at Lord's after skilling Jimmy Adams' men for 54 in the second innings.

The home side, who have recalled Graham Thorpe along-side Trescothick after jettisoning Mark Ramprakash and Nick Knight, could try to remedy their batting fragility by packing the side with seven specialist batsmen.

"We could opt to play seven batters or six batsmen, an all-rounder, a specialist spinner and three seam bowlers," said chairman of selectors David Graveney.

If England opt for six batsmen, the selectors are likely to decide between Thorpe and Graeme Hick while recalling off-spinner Robert Croft.

West Indies, meanwhile, have as many batting concerns. The dependable Shivnarine Chanderpaul is ruled out with a torn tendon in his right hand, while Brian Lara, sidelined by a sore hamstring, is short of practice since his last appearance on July 16.

Ramnaresh Sarwan, with two Tests to Chanderpaul's 44, looks set to be selected for the first time in this series, and leg-spinner Mahendra Nagamootoo could make his debut.

Michael Atherton and Alec Stewart, in contrast, are in the twilight of their careers. Thursday will see both earn their 100th Test caps, emulating Graham Gooch, David Gower, Colin Cowdrey, Geoff Boycott and Ian Botham.

Atherton and Stewart would relish a series victory over West Indies, a feat England have failed to complete in 12 attempts, either home or away, since 1969.

Quader sounds helpless

Football's political muscle stronger than cricket's

Sports Reporter

The age-old row over the right of the Bangabandhu National Stadium (BNS) between football and cricket has produced a nasty cancer in our sports. Although the stadium was exclusively designed and built for cricket in fifties, rival organisers are of the Herculean opinion that the game would certainly embrace death if football is not kicked around the BNS.

Some observers on the liberal front even opine there should be a referendum on the ownership of the poor BNS, which is known well to the world as a Test venue.

Undoubtedly, cricket has emerged as the new number one sports in our country. Impact of cricket's success is simply tremendous. Millions of youths are now dreaming on becoming country's ambassadors in future. Attainment of Test status in June this year has also taken Bangladesh to a new height. Yet cricket did not get the BNS permanently. Rather it was driven out of the stadium to resume footballing activity.

The confused National Sports Council once again caved in to the political clout of football as the governing body of local sports stuck to their petty policy of sharing the BNS between football and cricket.

But one must not forget that Bangladesh is now a Test-playing nation and it needs a lot more care and investment to sustain at the top level of the game. They need a lot more venues including the BNS.

Personally, NSC chairman and State Minister for Youth and Sports Obaidul Quader also thinks that the BNS should belong to cricket only. But in the world of reality, the sports boss does not have the courage to ignore the strength of football organisers. They are very powerful and he has no option but to give the BNS to football, admits the minister.

Quader explained his hapless position as a political administrator in a marathon interview with The Daily Star Staff Correspondent Hasan Masood at his Secretariat office on Tuesday. Following is the excerpts of that exclusive interview.

Daily Star Sport (DSS): You have already passed four years in the chair. Which game has made you feel proud?

Obaidul Quader (OQ): Obviously it's cricket. They won the ICC trophy -- played in the World Cup and won two matches. Finally, they have earned the Test status, which is after we got the Test status.

Besides that so far the developments have been made at the BKSP are designed to serve only cricket.

DSS: You have not given the BNS to cricket permanently. Don't you think cricket deserves that?

OQ: I don't understand why everybody talks about BNS. Why there will always be a row between football and cricket over one stadium. There are a lot of stadiums in the country. I haven't heard of such a problem in anywhere in the world. It has become a psychological problem.

But, yes, I personally think that BNS should belong to cricket only. But the reality is different where you can not do exactly what you wanted.

DSS: Why did you extend the allotment of BNS to football for an extra month only a day after ruling out any extension?

OQ: I had to do so. I don't want to say anything more about this.

DSS: Why Bangladesh Football Federation doesn't want to play in Mirpur?

OQ: That's my question too. DSS: Then why are you not asking them to go back to Mirpur Stadium which was built specially for football?

OQ: It's a reality that I can't take them to Mirpur. Football is also a very popular game in Bangladesh. And the football organisers are very powerful. I can't make them hostile against me. I have to manage everything. Moreover, the football officials don't agree with me that Mirpur Stadium is a football stadium. They don't even want to listen to my words. They say there is no crowd.

I want to add another point in this regard. I respect our press very much. But they also did not come out yet with any concrete solution to BNS stalemate. Nobody has written straightforwardly that BNS should be given to cricket only.

DSS: Many believe what clubs and BFF citing as an excuse for not playing at the Mirpur Stadium is not at all con-

given Taka two crore to cricket

SA go level dramatically

KANDY, Sri Lanka, Aug 2: South Africa pulled off a thrilling seven-run win over Sri Lanka in the second cricket Test to level the three-match series 1-1 at the Asgiriya International Stadium here Wednesday, reports AFP.

Sri Lanka chasing 177 for victory to take an unbeatable lead in the series fell short by eight runs as they were bowled out for 169 on a wearing pitch, 23 minutes after tea on the fourth day.

Both teams go into the third and final Test beginning at the Sinhalese Sports Club grounds on Sunday to decide the series.

Sri Lanka resumed after tea requiring 16 for victory with three wickets in hand. But lost Upul Chandana for 16 off the first ball to Lance Klusener, and eight runs later Chaminda Vaas backed up too far and was run out for five making Sri Lanka 169 for 9.

Left-arm spinner Nicky Boje earlier turned the game South Africa's way before tea by taking the wickets of Russell Arnold and Arjuna Ranatunga.

He ended the match when he had last man Muttiah Muralitharan caught behind for a first ball duck and given out whereas television replays clearly favoured the batsman.

As long as the fifth wicket stand between Arnold and Ranatunga flourished, Sri Lanka looked as if they would walk away with the Test.

But Boje struck two vital blows by getting rid of both batsmen to leave South Africa with an outside chance of victory.

Boje trapped Arnold lbw without offering a shot for 40 to end a fifth wicket stand of 109 with Ranatunga.

He then struck the vital blow by having Ranatunga caught at forward short-leg by Jonty Rhodes in the last over before tea to leave Sri Lanka still 16 runs short of victory at the break.
