

DU faces acute water crisis

Residents on the Dhaka University campus are facing acute water crisis for about 15 days as five deep tube-wells went out of order, reports UNB.

Almost everyday, residents of different dormitories, staff and teachers' quarters as well as the Arts Building, Curzon Hall and library users are suffering from the shortages of water.

Vice-Chancellor Prof A K Azad Chowdhury, however, said "The problem has been solved."

Talking to UNB, residents of the staff and teachers' quarters in Nilkhet and Zahurul Huq Hall area and staff quarters adjacent to Bangla Academy said they have been facing the crisis for last two weeks.

Besides, students of the Institute of Business Administration and Science Annex Building are also facing the same problem.

But DU Chief Engineer M Shahjahan said the crisis was for a day and it was not acute, although he admitted that some deep tube-wells were unable to supply much water since long.

A high official of DU on condition of anonymity said five deep tube-wells went out of order that made the crisis acute. "Only two tube-wells are now supplying water by rationing," he said.

The DU authorities sought cooperation from WASA and an engineers' team visited the campus last week.

According to their recommendation, DU authorities would set up a water pump at Ziaur Rahman Hall at a cost of Tk 22 lakh, DU Treasurer Prof Abul Hashem told UNB yesterday.
