Ticket sales worry SOCOG

SYDNEY, Sept 3: Michael Knight said Sunday that Olympic organisers are 60 million US dollar short on ticket sales and that Sydney's rail system remains their biggest concern less than two weeks from the start of the Games, reports AP.

But the Olympics minister and organising committee head said a surge in ticket sales in recent days had convinced him the target would be met.

"I'm pretty confident," Knight told the seven television network's Sunday Sunrise programme. "Ticket sales have really ignited since the (Olympic) to rich got into New South Wales."

Knight said there were many alternative forms of transport, including buses and ferries, but rail would carry the majority of the 500,000 people expected to visit Olympic Park each day during the Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 Games.

"There's obviously a worry about the rail system," Knight said.

But he said the government was confident newly appointed rail head Ron Christie would be able to keep the trains moving.

"We put Ron in to try and hold that system together. If anyone can it's Ron Christie," he said.

"But I should tell you, no matter how well the transport system works - even if there's no derailments, no holdups, every train runs on time - it will still be a very difficult experience. There will be big queues, there will be crowded trains."

Knight said transport was clearly the biggest challenge for any Olympic city, but he said he had complete faith in those responsible for security at the Games.

"I'm pretty confident they'll do things that give us a good atmosphere but a lot of safety," he said.

"Of course," generally in the period of the Games, we have to do things that are different to how the city functions normally.

"There's more security, it's harder to move around, there are a whole range of inconveniences, but you've got to set that off against this once in a lifetime opportunity."

Vijayan strikes for Muktis

Sports Reporter

IM Vijayan scored a superb hat-trick to propel title aspirants Mukti-joddha Sangsad Kira Chakra to a 3-0 win against Rahmatganj Muslim Friends Society in their opening National Bank Premier Division football league engagement at the Bangabandhu National Stadium yesterday.

After a barren first half, Vijayan, playing his second match for the all-reds, scored all the goals within a span of 32 minutes as the 1997 champions got off to a solid start after their failure in the recently concluded Federation Cup.

The star India national forward, who failed to live up to his reputation in his first appearance for Mukti-joddha where they lost to Abahani 1-2 in the semifinal, got into his usual stride at the right moment. Throughout the first session, the spirited guys of Rahmatganj fought neck and neck with their much illustrious counterparts, raising some realistic chances of an upset.

Fielding as many as four pool players, the old towners played like a cohesive force and created couple of easy chances to go ahead in the first 45 minutes. National midfielder Anwar, operating through the right wing, frequently tormented the Mukti-joddha defence and also sent in as many as three ominous crosses inside the danger area. But everything went in vain because of poor marksmanship.

On the other hand, Muktis could create only one chance in the first session when Asif set Vijayan up at the right corner of the box. But his blistering shot ricocheted off the crosspiece.

The lethal Indian striker however eventually broke the evening's duck three minutes into the second half, heading home a Hasan Al-Mamun cross from the right side. He then doubled the margin three minutes later with yet another header from a goal mouth scramble.

Vijayan completed his treble in the 80th minute with placing shot into the net after national winger Sourav Raju (substitute) fed him a brilliant cross from right side.

TEAMS

Mukti-joddha Sangsad: Aminul, Hasan Al-Mamun, Rajani, Prodeep, Masood Rana, Tushar, Shamsher (Mintu), Asif, Vijayan, Farhad (Sourav Raju) and Johnny (Liton)

Rahmatganj MFS: Milan, Mansoor Ali, Din Mohammad, Kingshuk, Apu, Anwar, Shamim, Iqbal, Jalaluddin (Azim), Tipu (Ranjana) and Momi

Referee: Sheikh Badrudin Brothers Union-1

Arambagh -0
In the day's first match, a first half strike by Nepalese midfielder Balgopal Mahajan helped Brothers Union Club post a solitary goal win over Federation Cup semifinalists Arambagh Kira Sangha.

Balgopal, one of the three Nepalese national team footballers playing for the Gopibagh outfit, scored the all important goal four minutes into the first half. His powerful left-footer from the top of the box deflected into the net after kissing the inner side of the far post. Forwards Hari Khadka and Basanta Thapa are the other Nepalese booters of Brothers.

Apart from the goal, Brothers, who had to play relegation play-offs last year and finished seventh, had been on the receiving end most of the times.

Arambagh played far better football and created as many as four good chances.

WI have to scale a mountain

LONDON, Sept 3 (Internet report): Mike Atherton hit a century to almost guarantee England a series win over the West Indies as the home side set the visitors 373 to win the fifth Test.

Only two sides in history have scored more in fourth innings to win a Test match. The obdurate opener was the last wicket to fall to Courtney Walsh for 108 as England were dismissed for 217.

The Oval crowd rose to honour Atherton's 15th Test century but not long after Walsh had him caught behind chasing a wide ball outside off stump.

It was a typically stubborn innings from the Lancashire opener and it was fitting that Walsh, who had posed problems all day, finally claimed the former England captain's wicket.

As Walsh, who finished with four wickets, and Curtly Ambrose left the field The Oval crowd rose as one to salute the champion fast bowlers.

It was the final time either would play in a Test match in England and the last ever Test for Ambrose. Walsh has yet to decide his future.

Walsh had offered West Indies a small glimmer of hope to remove two England batsmen in the space of three balls in the afternoon session.

Walsh snared Michael Vaughan and Graeme Hick in the space of three balls to reduce England to 139 for six.

But Craig White and Atherton stopped the slide before White was run out for 18 just before tea.

Dominic Cork came in to take England to 207 before the Derbyshire all-rounder fell lbw to Nixon McLean for the second time in the match.

McLean then had Andy Caddick caught behind as West Indies claimed two wickets in the same over.

Walsh had earlier done the same when he got one to seam back into Vaughan's pads to have him lbw.

He then got a delivery to move away and take the edge of Hick's bat who guided it to Sherwin Campbell at second slip.

It was Walsh who claimed the first wicket to fall when he enticed Graham Thorpe to attempt a hook but he only succeeded in paddling the ball around the corner to Griffith at backward square leg.

The left-hander went for 10 without England adding to their overnight score.

Walsh was a constant threat and in one over had a confident shout for lbw against Atherton and then went on to beat him outside off stump with the next three balls.

Atherton lost partner Alec Stewart after lunch to a ball that bounced more than expected from Mahendra Nagamootoo.

A historic wicket

LONDON, Sept 3 (Internet report): Craig White admitted that becoming the first bowler in Test

Match history to remove Brian Lara for a golden duck had left him feeling "awesome".

The Yorkshire paceman claimed his best Test figures of 5 for 32 as England skittled out the West Indies for a modest 125, but it was the scalp of Lara which left White glowing with pride.

"It's a great feeling to see the back of Brian Lara. It's definitely my best moment in Test cricket - I haven't had many really," he said.

Lara had never walked first ball in 70 previous Test appearances, but White claimed it was a planned attack by England which ended that proud record.

"We knew he was going to get a long way across - he had been out a number of times leaving the ball this summer," White said.

He added: "I thought if I could get one up there straightish, I might knock his leg stump out. I didn't quite knock it out, but I knocked it back a bit. It was a good plan and it came together."

"I was ecstatic, actually. I could not believe it when it happened," admitted White, who only took up first bowling in his 20s - previously bowling off-spin.

"I hope people will realise I am a fast bowler. I have always bowled at that speed and people are beginning to realise that."

said White, whose fastest delivery was clocked at 89.3mph on the speedgun.

"I knew I could bowl fast - as fast as anyone in the world on my day. Taking wickets makes your confidence rise and you start bowling quicker and quicker."

"I only started bowling fast when I was 22 or 23 - I bowled off-spin before - and it has taken a time for the body to get used to it. Now my body knows what it can and can't do."

White's second five-wicket haul of the series helped England into a commanding position, but West Indies coach Roger Harper refuses to accept the game - or the series - is over.

"Where there is life there is hope. England are 212 ahead and there are still two days left," Harper said.

"With ample time, we will have to look at something like a target of 300-320. It's the same players who made over 400 in the second innings at Old Trafford, so I have to think we are capable of doing it."

The West Indies' first innings would suggest otherwise however, and Harper admitted: "I think we have forgotten how to put a score together."

"I think most of it is mental more than anything, but this is our last chance - the time when we have to throw all our inhibitions away and go out there and simply get the job done."

New British law works?

LONDON, Sept 3: England's notorious band of travelling fans for once failed to mar their team's international friendly played against France in Paris, reports AFP.

Only a few minor incidents were reported in the French capital on Saturday - largely due to new and controversial legislation by the British government to combat hooligans.

English supporters calmly headed home late Sunday morning, following the 1-1 draw, police told this news agency, despite a group of more than a dozen England fans being arrested on Saturday night on vandalism charges.

For the first time, British police had taken strict measures to prevent hooligans leaving the country by revoking passports of known trouble-makers.

The Mirpur National Stadium

No doubt stands out as an Achilles' heel in our sports arena despite the fact that the foreign football teams that had played in this ground had recommended it as an excellent football venue having all necessary facilities.

But then, one wonders why the grass of this ground remains untrimmed all round the year. The dew on the charming lush green ground at times appear to be the tears stemming from years of indifference and double standards by the football organisers.

What the nation has got is a white elephant for which taxpayers are paying for nothing. There is no denying that there may be problems as regards the stadium or organising games here, for that matter, but are the problems beyond solution? The answer is anybody's guess.

Sincere efforts on the part of the event organisers as well as the game's governing body in the country can easily solve any problem that may crop up. They ought to find out ways to attract spectators to this charming bowl. If an international football meet were to take place at this venue right now, would the galleries remain empty? No way. The spectators are always eager to watch a game, or broadly speaking, tournaments at Mirpur Stadium.

Nonetheless, unfortunately for them, it's the organisers who have to be convinced?

If the local MP can organise a huge anti-hartal procession of hundreds of people, can he not gather spectators in the ground, if that was the case? If we move in the right direction keeping the national interest above everything, I strongly be### lieve our hard-earned money

that we're paying for it will not go down the drain.

Dhaka Stadium or the Bangabandhu National Stadium has been a cricket venue, for it was built as Test match venue during the Pakistan period. The wickets of BNS are of international standard, evident in the fact that scores of international and domestic cricket tournaments have been played here. The BNS has been of immense help in our long march for a place among the cricketing elite.

Naturally, we are in need of a stadium exclusively for cricket now that we have achieved the Test tag.

There have been much bickering between the Bangladesh Football Federation and the Bangladesh Cricket Board over the right to hold matches at BNS. But there is a simple solution to the problem - what if football matches are regularly held at Mirpur Stadium and cricket matches at BNS. After all, it's cricket and only cricket that has brought the nation the name.

We have very poor economy where it is difficult for most of the people to enjoy basic rights such as food, cloth and shelter. Still, we have contributed to the development of Mirpur stadium. Now, it is up to people concerned to make sure that the staggering amount of money being spent for the stadium does get us something at the end of the day.

Who knows it might well save the dying game in our country - football, perhaps the greatest of games!

ICC assistance for Bangladesh

KARACHI, Sept 3: International Cricket Council (ICC) will organise from next week a series of specialised training courses in Bangladesh to be attended by former Pakistani, Indian and Sri Lankan stars, officials said on Sunday.

"We have named it fast track programme. It is being organised to raise the standards of cricket in Bangladesh," Nasim-ul-Ghani, ICC manager for the Asian region told AFP.

Former leg-spinner Bishen Bedi and wicketkeeper Kiran More of India, fast bowler Sarfraz Nawaz and all-rounder Mushtaq Mohammad of Pakistan, and batsman Roshan Mahanama of Sri Lanka will participate in the coaching sessions starting from Tuesday, Ghani said.

"These courses will be held in different cricketing centres of Bangladesh and each programme will last five days," he said.

ICC granted Test status to Bangladesh in June.

The programme has been organised with the cooperation of the Bangladeshi government.

Bangladesh became the 10th member of the ICC but has so far not played a Test against any country.
