Annan's unscheduled meetings with Barak, Arafat

JERUSALEM, Oct 11: With tension easing somewhat, UN Secretary General Kofi Annan held unexpected talks today with the Israeli and Palestinian leaders in hopes of mediating a truce and paving the way for the resumption of peace talks, reports AP.

As Annan shuttled between Jerusalem and Gaza City, a gun battle erupted between Palestinian gunmen and Israeli troops along a West Bank highway. Israeli troops fired tank machine guns toward the gunmen who weaved in and out of alleys of a Palestinian village. Four helicopter gunships hovered above. The violence erupted as the funeral convoy of an American-born Jewish settler passed by the area.

Annan held separate, unscheduled meetings this morning with Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak and Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat.

UN spokesman Fred Eckhardt said Annan might extend his mission and delay a visit to Beirut, scheduled for later today. "We haven't finished our work here yet," Eckhardt told The Associated Press.

Annan is trying to broker an Israeli-Palestinian truce and also help win the return of three Israeli soldiers captured by Lebanese guerrillas over the weekend.

In parallel efforts, US President Bill Clinton is trying to convene a Mideast summit in the next few days in hopes of rescuing Israeli.

Petrobangla arranging payment of $7.8m to Unocal

By Sharier Khan

Petrobangla yesterday made arrangements to pay US oil company Unocal 7.8 million US dollars, half of its pending gas bills totalling about 16 million dollars, sources said.

Petrobangla was pressurised by US energy official Kelvin Humphrey to pay the bills on an urgent basis. Humphrey surprised all here by making an airdash to Dhaka on Sunday, two days after his six-day official visit, to discuss US oil companies' problems with high officials.

To speed up the payment, Petrobangla, now facing cash crisis, undertook a special drive and realised outstanding bills from its gas distributing affiliates which owe it around Tk 850 crore.

Petrobangla purchases around 90 million cubic feet of gas per day (mmcf) from Unocal, extracted from Jalalabad gas field under a Gas Purchase Sales Agreement (GPSA), and is committed to pay the monthly bill within 30 days.

Petrobangla also owes Shell Oil around 50 million US dollars. It purchases around 130 mmcf of gas from Shell, extracted from offshore Sangu gas field, and is to pay the bills within 45 days of purchase.

Though the GPSA-dictated gas price is forcing Petrobangla to incur heavy loss every year, it had regularly paid for the Sangu and Jalalabad gas from mid-98 till late last year.

Despite earning a net annual profit of around Tk 1000 crore, the state owned oil and gas company then ran into a cash crisis as bills for an average of five and a half months were due from all its sales outfits. This affected Petrobangla's payments.

Now, at the pressure of the US energy official, the government has decided to pay Unocal immediately its pending gas bill. The government has also decided to clear all the dues of Shell-Unocal by March next year.

"The point is, had the government been serious about improving the financial management at the sales and revenue level, there would not have been any problem," observed a source.

"It was a disgrace that the government took the special drive after being pressurised by an US energy official. Similar conduct prevails in the power sector also. We hope such things do not take place in future."

Petrobangla-USGS study to give idea about energy resources, not gas reserve

By Staff Correspondent

Energy experts at a seminar here yesterday said the country is not floating on gas and the on-going Petrobangla-USGS study will help the authorities in taking decisions for oil and gas exploration in future.

The study will only give an idea about potential energy resources, not about gas reserve. Lot of things should be done to assess the actual gas reserve, they said.

The seminar on 'Natural Gas Resource Assessment Methodology' was jointly organised by Petrobangla and USAID at the Petrocentre.

The Petrobangla-USGS (United States Geological Survey) joint study of the gas sector began in August and is expected to be completed by December.

USGS team leader Robert C Millic said his team is now reviewing the 'basic geology and engineering information'. USGS and the US companies in Bangladesh are using the same methodology in assessing natural resources.
