The Baily Star Founder-Editor: Late S.M. Ali

Dhaka, Saturday October 14, 2000

Bilateral Relations and Domestic Politics

THERE is never any dearth of exchange of harsh words between our ruling and the opposition parties. Starting from being called thieves and terrorists to being accused of murders, name calling has crossed all bounds of decency and good taste. However, there is a more insidious aspect of their mutual denigration that we would like to focus on today. As viewed from the other side, our treasury and opposition benches, especially the two leading parties, are proxies of either Pakistan or India and are poised to submit our national interest to them at any time. According to the BNP and its allies, Awami League has done nothing in the last four years but to serve Indian interest. On the contrary, according to the AL, the opposition, especially the BNP, works at the behest of Pakistan to reverse the gains of our Liberation War of 1971. After 30 years of our independence our political parties are unable to give us a purely domestic agenda.

Regrettably failing to attract the public with their own programmes they drag neighbours and regional countries into our politics to serve their narrow ends. To take a historical view on this subject it has to be said that Awami League has been a far greater victim of this type of politics than any other political party both in Bangladesh and in the pre-liberation Pakistan. Originating in the Muslim League politics of late forties, fifties and the sixties, the newly formed AL was blamed as being Indian agent for raising issues of national language, provincial autonomy, economic disparity, etc. The trend continued after the birth of Bangladesh.

Following the assassination of Bangabandhu ir 1975 till 1996, the whole state machinery was used to 'prove' that the party that led us during our War of Liberation was nothing more than an Indian stooge. Over the last few years the Awami League has been paying the BNP and its allies back in their own coin by accusing them of being stooges of Pakistan. Thus we have ended up with the type of politics that we described earlier.

Perhaps nowhere in the world is the domestic politics of an independent country dominated so much by references to external links. This we consider to be the most unhealthy aspect of our politics. We do not believe that our political parties, especially the Awami League and the BNP -- both of them have run the affairs of the State -- can be as beholden to external powers as their opponents make them out to be. Why then is the continuation of such politics? Simply because of their propaganda value. There is a deep and eminently justifiable hatred for the oppressions caused by the Pakistan Army during our Liberation War. Awami League wants to play on it to cash in on the freedom fighter vote bank. On the other hand there are serious questions about Indian intentions regarding many aspects of our national interest and the BNP and its allies want to exploit that to their own advantage.

This we think to be a dangerous game. As a part of the modern world the less we indulge in it the better. While both parties are playing to the gallery for their respective vote banks, they are inevitably affecting our bilateral relations with both India and Pakistan. This becomes even more dangerous when the highest executive of the country, both the present and the former, join in that fray. We must discontinue making India and Pakistan the core of our domestic politics. If we need to refer to them let us do so in a manner and style that serves our national interests. Our bilateral relations are too sensitive and too important to be made a part of playing to the gallery.

Mosquito Menace

TN spite of a plethora of reports about the mosquito Imenace looming large over the capital city the commissioner of Dhaka City Corporation responsible for control and eradication of this scourge has emphatically denied that such a situation prevails. These are the peak months for mosquito breading and despite the sordid experience of the last few years the DCC has not yet risen from its slumber. They have proved equally inept in destroying larva on the ground and killing the flying ones in the air. In fact, they have again hit the sack in a Rip Van Winkle-style in which they are so adept. Only during the last July-August period the DCC were goaded into action against the Aedes mosquito, the carrier of the dreaded dengue fever for a small spurt of time inspired by the private initiative of citizens but those were the 'golden day's of the DCC in their long history of mostly disservice to the taxpayers. When lot of noise was generated by the press and the people the DCC started spraying a repellent only to show the people that they were active. But the poisonous chemical which proved detrimental to public health ceased to be used from the third week of August last but a good amount of stock is still available with the DCC.

We are well into the month of October and the next month is also known to be the peak time for mosquito breeding. If efforts are not initiated now to eradicate mosquito then the citizens will be thrown into uncertain conditions once again. Apart from Aedes other kinds of mosquitoes tend to proliferate during this period. While spraying of insecticides and other chemicals along with fumigation remain the most effective measures for control and eradication of mosquitoes cleaning up of water bodies in and around the city as monsoon water recedes would be equally important for those purposes.

It is very amusing that we have to write such comments every year to remind and reactivate the DCC as if the organisation was new and the Mayor was born yesterday. Why should a routine job need to be reminded to the Mayor every year? Or has he outgrown his routine responsibilities? There is still time and the citizens want their environment cleaned of mosquitoes before the menace is fully blown. Nothing more, nothing less.

Palestinian Towns in Flames—Peace Process in Tatters

Now the US has to act rapidly. It must immediately ask Barak to stop military action against Palestinians and Arafat to prevail on his people to stop violence. In the meantime Kofi Annan and other world leaders in the region should continue their efforts to have the release of three Israeli soldiers from Hezbullah. Enough is enough.

since civilization began and now deaths and injuries took place. East. Israel's infamous General This was a veritable war against Ariel Sharon was determined to the Palestinians but the Israeli military sources said it was a undo whatever it achieved over a "symbolic warning" to the Palesperiod of nearly eight years. He

NE man is enough to destroy all the good done by so many over so many years. This is what has been happening all over the world it has happened in the Middle-wreck the peace process and thought the best way to do this was to incite the Palestinians to violence against Israel. This led him to undertake the visit to the holy sites. He knew that his unholy visit to the holy site would trigger unprecedented violence and turn the peace process upside down. He successfully accomplished his evil design and ruined all the good work done by After nearly twelve days of violence and over 90 deaths most of them Palestinians Palestinian rage was at the highest point and they were up for revenge killing. They got the opportunity when Palestinian police rounded up four Israeli plain clothes security men who were unauthorisedly moving in the area of the town Ramalla which is fully under Palestinian control. They were brought to the Palestinian police station and immediately angry Palestinians attacked the police station and wanted to grab the Israeli security men. Palestinian police numbering about a dozen were overpowered and thereafter Israeli security men were savagely beaten to denounced by President Arafat but did not satisfy the Israeli Prime Minister. He ordered the Israeli Security Forces to attack

Palestinian "military and military related targets." The helicopter gunships were used and several Palestinian police stations including a post near Arafat's residence were attacked. Thus some of the Palestinian cities and towns were in flames. Several

This was immediately the peace process.

This was the most irrational decision on the part of Prime Minister Barak who acted like the Chief of Staff and not like the Prime Minister of a country. Everybody would denounce such savage killings of plain clothes security men though they had no business to be there but this does not call for savage military attacks at a time when the peace was apparently around the corner. Ariel Sharon wanted to destroy the peace process and Ehud Barak, being a former military men fell into Sharon's trap and hence the debacle. The negotiations were on and peace concerned about M-E Peace had high hopes on Ehud Barak but It seems that their hopes were

Prime Minister Barak apparently became too concerned about his political position in achieved so far. Earlier, Prime Minister Barak gave 48-hour ultimatum to Arafat for stopping the violence, else end of the peace process and appropriate strong response from Israel. Such an ultimatum was quite inappropriate for a peace maker. A real peace maker cannot Sharon's visit to the Haram Sharif. He has now invited the same Ariel Sharon for a national unity government; what a disaster! This clearly shows that he has struck off "peace" with the Palestinians from his agenda. If Ariel Sharon wants to pursue his evil design he may not accept Barak's offer at this stage and may like to finish Barak completely domestically. Thereafter Likud and other rightist and religious parties might join hands and take over the affairs of Israel to the total threaten to end the peace process regardless of what others do against it. However, the ultimatum was allowed to pass by due to the pressure from President Clinton and the international community. But ultimately situation could not be saved and Israel acted as it often does because of its ego of superior military strength. Barak acted on th ultimatum though for a different reason which nullified all good work done during the last couple of days by Secretary General Kofi Annan, Russian Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov, British Foreign Secretary Rabin Cook, EU's Javier Salana who were in the region to contain the violence. But all the diplomatic advice and work done by them were in vain as both sides acted irrationally, though Israel's military action was the worst of all. Israeli action showed total disrespect to the leaders of the UN, Russia, Britain and the EU and the Scandinavia and other countries involved in the negotiating process. Now the US has to act rapidly. It must immediately ask Barak to stop military action against Palestinians and Arafat to prevail on his people to stop violence. In the meantime Kofi Annan and other world leaders in the region should continue their efforts to have the release of three Israeli soldiers from Hezbullah, Enough is President Clinton was expected to reach the regions within a couple of days. Now his visit appears absolutely essential to bring the two parties together to contain the present volatile situation. Maybe the parties will not be in a mood to discuss peace, but at least they should be ready to return to the negotiating table as soon as the situation cools down. Barak should be advised and, if necessary, persuaded not to go for a unity government now involving the main villain Ariel Sharon. With Ariel Sharon the peace process will be dead.

A missile fired by an Israeli helicopter gunship hits a police station in the West Bank town of Ramallah 12 October 2000. -- AFP photo/Jamal Aruri

OPINION

No More Land Grabbing, Please

AR Shamsul Islam

Case No 1: On September 19 a minister's son. news was flashed in the print media (some covered it on front- we came across in the dailies page) that one Abdul Latif Tipu, another news that son of another son of Labour and Manpower Deputy Minister of Dhaka having Minister Abdul Mannan, by illegally occupied a big plot of manipulating a forged deed forcibly occupied more than four acres of land worth about Tk 12 crore at Chandmari Road in to print media's uproar the minis-Lalkhan Bazar of Chittagong city. A housing society "Shujan Abashik Kallyan Sangstha" claimed that the land in question back Chief Whip Abul Hasnat's was their purchased property that was grabbed by the minis- ibly occupying a building at ter's son aided by armed goons. The society men told that they rent a room. For the same reason filed a case pending with the of newspapers unsparing reports second Judge's Court of and further for the building Chittagong and sent a fax to the owner's risky guts of standing Prime Minister and published an bold against the venom of the advertisement in a daily seeking Chief Whip's son the latter had to her intervention. But no response Nazimuddin, brother to former S P Delwar, alleging that the accused with a gang of armed men tried to erect a boundary called 'Sabuj-Moti' hospital. wall on their land.

the unlawful construction of approved for construction of a Case No 2: Not long time back land in Uttara that originally belonged to 'Rajuk' took steps to construct a shopping mall. Owing ter's son had to abandon the Case No 3: Still a few months son caused a sensation by forc-Kalabagan of which he took on retire from the spot leaving off his from her side had come till that occupation.

Case No 4: The site originally Further, a diary with Khulshi allotted for a 'Shishu Park' at thana was lodged against the Khilgaon of the metropolis has minister's son by one reportedly come to the occupation of Deputy Minister Saber Hossain Choudhury on an alleged plea of constructing so-

It is learnt that as early as 1961 Police, however, dismantled as per Master Plan the site was 'Shishu Park'. The works ministry in Bangladesh through the their indispensability in the party handed the land over to the city Vested Property Act" by Dr Abul structure and as such never fall authority to implement the pro- Barkat, a professor of economics ject. When in 1986 the then Presi- of Dhaka University, it is diagdent Ershad suddenly declared nosed that over 44 per cent of the that the Ansar headquarters occupants of vested properties would be erected on that site are affiliated with the ruling strong local protests sparked off. Awami League. The figure was 71 Thereupon Ershad came to visit per cent for the then ruling BNP the site to see for himself the occupants of the vested property actual situation and judging the in 1995. This is symbolic of how sentiment of the people of the the vast majority of the occupants locality he committed that of the vested property align them-'Shishu Park' would be set up selves with the ruling party to there. In 1996 the ministry concerned reallotted the land for a 'Shishu Park' and redelivered it to the City Corporation. play and recreation. Liquidating the repeatedly approved project of a 'Shishu Park' is attended with grave pain. stray cases of ruling partymen's appetite for land grabbing across grand combination of Middle Age feudalistic conquests and Modern Time's typical Bangladeshi administrative diabolism. In a secure political protection.

have allegedly degenerated into glory. Politics is perhaps counted Who doesn't know that the sonal greed and interest by flout- reaching that damn goal. To go to Dhaka city is in an astounding ing laws of the land. Miscreants crisis of open space for children's have crowded into the parties' to material successes: Adminiscadre, preferably that of the tration is at beck and call, bank ruling one. The party leadership has ignored, and sometimes encouraged, this influx in total There are more systematic and disregard of the ethics and norms of a political party. Probably the leaders are swept by the so-called the country. In rural areas it is a negative arguments that since the rival party does have armed cadre in its rank and file it is the ground reality that they too must have like counterparts in their book titled "An Enquiry into party to match, and preferably Deprivation of Hindu Minorities incoming terrorists are aware of urgency for the aspirants.

short of charging maximum price for their induction.

material enjoyment and the partymen, barring a few. In our society of today means is bers. never questioned, reaching the goal by hook or by crook is the sole concern. That is why the wilful bank defaulters, fake industrialists, shameless political peddlers parade the length Political parties now-a-days and breadth of the society in full instruments of satisfying per- as the best and quickest means of power means to capture all keys ready to advance loans, police on toes to rough up the opponents. More important is that in Bangladesh political power renders one to be immune from being legally accused, let alone punished, of an offence committed by him. This scope of immunity attracts the wrong-doers to herd into ruling camp as a safe haven. To grab new booties as well as to retain old ones alignment with Causes and Consequences of overpower, their opponents. The the ruling party has become an

Recently in a party meeting the Awami League chief and Prime Minister warned the guardians of the unruly sons to In recent years a fetish for control their wards. She cautioned that the party would not aggrandisement is all over with allow its image to be tarnished by the activities of a few mem

> Of course there resides in the party a saner and wiser section that feels disturbed at the grabbing activities of the partymen particularly minister's sons and minister themselves and does not fail to gauge what consequences do such activities of grabbing bear on the future of the party. The electors do certainly abhor the grabbers and resent that the party administration has shied away from taking appropriate measures to contain them. Growingly disillusioned with the party the people may turn to giving it a befitting reply in the next national polls. Holier-than-thou benefit may not hold good beyond a certain period. The AL leadership should not miss reading this reality before time runs out.

The writer is retired Principal, Govt Mohila College, Pabna

Let it be Rule of Law and Not Personal Rule, Please the rule of law and the personal rule, as far as running the administration of a country is concerned. In medieval societies the kings and the queens were the basis of running a government. Gone are the days when a king or and get the law executed as per his or her whims. That sort of civilised society. However, for dominant in certain cases. Ban-and regulations that colonial powers introduced in our country but in practice often it is not the rules of law but personal rules that dominate many decision rulers and their personal rules making processes and sadly, and regulations were the only nobody seems to be taking any notice of it. Just one example will suffice to prove my point and a queen could formulate, order clearly indicate the sort of personal rule I am talking about.

As per a recent news in The power today is unthinkable in a Daily Star, the Prime Minister is said to have ordered the Public still prevails and remains pre- up the job quota (30%) for mem-

There is big difference between nomenon. We have written rules replaced by personal rule and respect. Monetary compensation been violated. Freedom fighters and martyrs are honourable people. Any freedom fighter or martyr who fought and sacrificed his or her life did so never expecting any reward. The word 'sacrifice' is godly and holy. no man or woman of honour sacrifices life expecting any compensation or monetary gain. The grateful nation, however, always honour their freedom fighters and martyrs and do take care of many third world countries the Service Commission to hold them if they are alive and rememcase is not much different even supplementary Bangladesh Civil ber them with high respect if they today and the medieval culture Service (BCS) examination to fill are dead. A living freedom fighter often receives honour from the bers of the freedom fighters' and grateful nation for his or her gladesh's case could be cited as martyred families. I consider by suffering whereas a martyr is an excellent example of this phe- this directive rule of law has been remembered fondly and with should be available only to the constitutional obligation has is given to a freedom fighter and to martyr's nearest kith and kin, i.e. father, mother and minor children, if and when it is necessary to do so. This sort of obligation a grateful nation always complies with as a pious duty. However, there is also a time limit for such help. No help can be or should be forever beyond a reasonable period. Long thirty years have passed since our freedom fighters fought and martyrs sacrificed their lives. Their children are now well in their late 20s and early 30s. Should they need or be offered any compensation or special privilege now? It is desirable that the jobs in the public sector best and the most competent individuals. Merit and quality shall be the criterion and not anything else for employment in national services.

The PM's order should be considered also from the constitutional point of view. If any selection for jobs in the public sector must be considered, for whatever reason it could be, the simple rule should be an adaptation of law by the national parliament.

In a civilised society, the national parliament makes laws and the executive branch, through the public sector employees, runs the country through the existing laws of the land. A PM cannot and should not make law and run the country as her or his personal estate. If and when a government does so, it violets the rule of law and the leader who lets the government act in this way, imposes personal rule. That against the norm of democratic society.

As I said before, it is not PM Hasina only, each of her predecessors had tried to rule the country now and then by personal rules. This practice must stop and rule of law must be established in letter and spirit The sooner the nation understands the need of this rule of law the better; then smoother the road shall be to justice and fairness for every individual and the society at large.

Women seats in JS

Sir, Much has been written in national dailies and discussed in various seminars, meetings etc on the above matter. We know that the provision of reserved seats for women was incorporated in the Constitution of the People's Republic of Bangladesh as a measure to elevate the status of women in our national life. The other such constitutional and legal measures were the quota system in jobs for women, freedom fighters and tribal people.

Now it has been realised by various women's organisations and others that the provision of women MPs selected by the elected members (who are overwhelmingly males) cannot be a respectable system for the fellow women. The observation is, nevertheless, a right one. Most of the selected women MPs have been regarded as mere sets of ornaments in the Parliament. Therefore women should need to be elected directly if they are to perform the task of real MPs.

Thus it will be better if both the Position and Opposition come to a consensus not to extend the earlier provision of women seats in the JS. The best way, however, would be to enhance the number of reserved seats for women to half of the 300, i.e., 150 and the remaining 150 seats might be reserved for males. Two adjacent constituencies may be combined to one for the purpose. Each of such 150 constituencies may elect one male and one female MP The other suggestion of increasing the number of constituencies by 100 or more cannot be supported because the quantity does not do any good, instead the increased number will simply eat up our national exchequer only.

M.A.S. Molla Member, BAAS, Dhaka

Relevance

Sir, For various reasons, forest cover of Bangladesh is dwindling at an alarming rate. For environmental balance, every country requires at least 25 per cent forest of it's total area. But in Bangladesh the forest cover is not more than 16 per cent. In order to improve the situation and for the proper management of the remaining forest cover BSC Hons in Forestry is offered by some universities (CU; KU; SUST). Unfortunately, graduates of this subject are neglected to forest related jobs. For BCS (forest) Cadre, the forestry graduates have to compete with some other non-technical degree holders like physics, chemistry, botany, zoology, soil science etc. But such is not applicable to other professions as in other professions vacancies are fulfilled by the Fishery, Engineering, Medical, Agriculture). Our government often takes several projects like agro-forestry, social forestry, roadside plantation etc for the expansion of forest cover including the socio-economic development of the villagers. The forestry graduates are especially skilled about these. Hence, there is no alternative of forestry graduates in BCS(Forest) cadre Therefore, the vacant posts of Forest Depart-

Md Iltut Mish

estry graduates only.

Stop this pollution ment should be fulfilled by for Sir, The increasing noise pollution and littering is indeed a concern for the country. Nowaparticular degree holders (like days, the horns used by vehicles are exceeding the legal limit of sound decibels. Hydraulic horns, though illegal are being used by buses and trucks. These affect everyone--school children, patients, pedestrian etc.

> Littering, another common environmental problem of our society has number of negative effect. Littering on the streets makes it unsafe and unhygienic for the pedestrians. Litter in the drain blocks sewage. And when it rains heavily, water cannot flow through the drain and roads are flooded. I hope people would get conscious about these environmental degradation and do something concrete about it.

Azfarul Islam Global Issues Club Sunbeams Senior School

Saving time

Sir, Political activities in the third world countries including Bangladesh run through public meeting, procession, torch procession etc. This backdated political activities cause lawlessness, political instability, killing of mass people and even political leaders. It also wastes our valu able time. In this regard, I propose to utilise technology in politics. Instead of public meetings, procession etc we can use radio. TV for political purpose i.e. for political programmes.

Will our political leaders think over this proposal? I believe if this could be implemented we could utilise our time in worthy way. and law and order situation would also improve.

Md Hassanul Alam 10 A Green Road Dhaka