'Save Faridpur from clutch of Padma'

From Our Correspondent

FARIDPUR, Oct 13: Faridpur district town having a long tradition of 200 years has been threatened by the continued erosion of the mighty Padma for the last five years.

But this year the erosion of the Padma has taken such a serious turn that it engulfed 4 kilometres during this monsoon.

The intensity of its erosion has aggravated seriously with the recession of water level. More and more lands are being devoured every day. The Padma is approaching fast with all her rapacities to devour the town which is only two kilometres away from the mighty river flowing with all her ferocities striking horror in the minds of the people.

Deputy Commissioner (DC) Md Atiqul Islam Chowdhury in a recently held meeting on law and order situation at his conference room expressed his grave concern over the style of erosion towards the town and asserted that it is the high time that the erosion of the Padma should be arrested and her course should be diverted for the safety of the town.

The DC also informed the meeting that he had already communicated messages graphically presenting the state of affairs created by the Padma erosion to the concerned authorities including the Prime Minister.

The town dwellers strongly feel that the government should take measures on priority basis to protect the historic town of Faridpur from the clutches of the infuriated Padma.

Unprotected coastal areas

BARISAL, Oct 13: A vast tract of coastal areas in country's southern region are lying unprotected, giving opportunity to the pirates for establishing a region of terror, reports UNB.

According to official sources, some 9,750 square km areas of Barisal, Patuakhali, Bhola and Barguna remained unprotected for long.

The 'coast guard', introduced to protect lives and property of people living in the coastal areas, could not start its operation fully after six years of its introduction.

On the other hand, Navy has reduced its activities after the introduction of the coast guard.

The 'Coast Guard Act' was passed in the Parliament in 1994 with a view to protecting lives, vessels and goods from accidents, preventing smuggling and illegal intrusion and fishing of the alien fishermen inside Bangladesh maritime boundary.

As per the act, the coast guard has been entrusted with the responsibility to protect the lives of Bangladesh fishermen and the seaport.

About 200 mariners and officials of Navy were put under deputation in 1995 to give the coast guard an institutional shape.

During the period, it was decided that coast guard bases would be set up in 21 points of the coastal area.

These are St Martin, Cox's Bazar, Chittagong, Ramgati, Sonarchar, Rangabali, Kuakata, Patharghata, Hiron Point, Mongla, Sharakhola, Patuakhali, Golachipa, Bhola, Hatiya, Sandwip, Monpura, Chardoani, Morelganj, Teknaf and Barisal.

In the first phase, lands were also acquired for setting up of bases in Mongla, Chittagong, St Martin and Kuakata while the abandoned BDR bases in the district headquarters were handed over to the coast guard.

But, the coast guard bases in the five points could not be built yet.

The coast guard in Patuakhali is now running without manpower and vessels and only 30 mariners are working under a commanding officer.

Taking advantage of loose security measures of coast guard and navy, pirates became more active in the region. A total of 270 pirates were committed during last three months, said the local fishermen.
